Nearly 40 persons attended a formal opening ceremony of the new Cor Tec, Inc., on Kenskill Avenue in the Washington C.H. Industrial Park Friday morning.

Representatives of Washington C.H. City Council, the Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce, the Community Improvement Corporation and bankers and other businessmen were in attendance as Carl S. Bolton, of Bellevue, Wash., the company president, snipped the ribbon which had been stretched across the front of the new building.

The formal opening ceremony included tours of the new plant facility conducted by Cor Tec, Inc., personnel and a noon luncheon at the Washington Country Club.

COR TEC, INC., actually launched production in late August, but plant officials have waited until all minor projects were completed at the facility before conducting the opening ceremony.

The firm manufacturers fiberglass reinforced plywood panels which are used as the sides, tops and ends of semi truck trailers and overseas shipping containers.

Groundbreaking ceremonies were held in the city's Industrial Park last November for the new industry. The company purchased a 29-acre tract of land from Chase Brass, Inc.

The firm began operations in Auburn, Wash., nearly 10 years ago, and presently has 40 employes there. The Auburn, Wash., has continued its operations.

Democrat hopefuls eyeing Presidency

WASHINGTON (AP) — Earlier and in greater numbers than ever before, Democratic presidential hopefuls are campaigning across the nation this fall in an effort to build strength for the 1976 election.

Though a large field had seemed likely, it became assured with the recent withdrawal of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., a controversial frontrunner who had by far the greatest support — and opposition — among Democrats.

Three senators — Henry M. Jackson of Washington, Walter F. Mondale of Minnesota and Lloyd M. Bentsen of Texas — and Rep. Morris K. Udall of Arizona are all-but-declared candidates.

They have been out this fall working for Democratic candidates while trying to improve their own positions.

A governor — Jimmy Carter of Georgia — and a senator — Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia — have indicated interest. A former governor — Terry Sanford of North Carolina — and a former senator — Fred R. Harris of Oklahoma — also may run. So might Mayor Kevin H. White of Boston.

And the contest is clouded by the likely entry of Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, who has barely stopped running for the Presidency for a decade despite repeated failure and the 1972 assassination attempt that left him paralyzed from the waist down.

More than two years before the 1976 election, however, the most crucial aspect of the looming Democratic free-for-all is the uncertain impact of the party's new delegate selection rules.

All candidates agree the proportional representation system, which guarantees delegates to any candidate with at least 15 per cent of a congressional district's vote, will keep more candidates in the race longer and virtually assure a wide-open convention.

Justice Department offers to defend Nixon and aides

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department has offered to defend former President Richard M. Nixon and three of his top advisers in civil suits accusing them of improper political harassment, department officials say.

Assistant Atty. Gen. Henry E. Petersen made the offer about two weeks ago in letters to attorneys for Nixon, former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and former presidential advisers H.R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman, officials said Thursday night.

All five pending civil suits involved in the department offer stemmed from aspects of the Watergate scandal.

Petersen's deputy, Kevin Marone, said in a telephone interview that in one case a similar offer was made to William C. Sullivan, a former assistant director of the FBI.

Maroney said some of the five men have accepted the offer but declined to say which ones.

"It's normal to represent a former official who is sued for acts when he was an official of the government," Maroney said.

Though acknowledging that the department is not required to do so, Maroney said "the theory is that the interest of the government is not so much to represent that particular man but the continuing functions of the government."

Maroney said the offer was not discussed with President Ford or other White House officials.

Exact rise still debated

Crop losses spark more higher prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — A big loss in grain crops this year because of bad weather will send meat prices up again next year but has stirred debate in the Ford administration about how food prices will act overall next season.

The Agriculture Department said Thursday the corn crop will be 6 per cent less than forecast a month ago, mainly because of killer frosts. And it will be down 16 per cent from the record 1973 harvest.

Soybeans, another livestock feed needed to produce the nation's meat, milk and poultry, will be 4 per cent less than the September estimate and down 19 per cent from last year.

Don Paarlberg, USDA director of economics, said the reduced harvests — even farther below what experts had expected six months ago — will mean higher meat prices next year.

But Paarlberg refused to predict how food prices generally might react in 1975. Those are expected to go up 15 to 17 per cent this year, one of the sharpest climbs since World War II.

Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz has been saying for six weeks that 1975 food prices would be held to less than a 10 per cent gain from this year. Paarlberg was asked about that.

"We have not made an official estimate," Paarlberg told a news conference after Thursday's crop report. "This is Secretary Butz's judgment. And he may simply hold to that figure; he may revise it; he may wait until the analysts have, themselves, reviewed the situation."

In other economic developments Thursday:

—Federal Reserve Board Chairman Arthur F. Burns said the nation is in a recession — an assessment contradicting the one stated by President Ford at his Wednesday news conference — although he disagreed with those who forecast a deepening recession in the year ahead.

—United Mine Workers President Arnold Miller said a nationwide coal strike is likely to begin Nov. 12 unless a negotiating impasse with the coal industry is broken.

—The House and Senate approved a compromise package of improved GI education benefits that would increase most payments to veterans by nearly 23 per cent.

—The Senate passed unanimously an emergency housing bill under which $7.75 billion in government funds could be pumped into the home mortgage market.

—Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, head of the tax-writing Ways and Means Committee, issued a statement denouncing Ford's proposed 5 per cent income tax surcharge for middle-and upper-income families.

—The Senate passed a bill to double the size of savings accounts which qualify for full coverage under federal deposit insurance.

Ohio crop losses less than others

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An early fall frost last month has caused a one-bushel-per-acre decline in Ohio's anticipated corn and soybean harvests this year, the Ohio Crop Reporting Service says.

But a spokesman said Ohio can consider itself fortunate compared with some other harder-hit Midwestern states which "had late plantings and the corn and soybeans were not as mature as they should have been" when the frost hit.

"In Ohio we were pretty lucky this spring and had a fairly early planting," the spokesman said.

Nevertheless, the one-bushe-per-acre drop translates into a loss of another $35.4 million for Ohio farmers in anticipated income from their corn and soybean harvests.

This is in addition to a $61 million loss drawn from the Crop Reporting Service's September report which reflected sharp declines in production as the result of drought conditions.

The latest report, based on Oct. 1 surveys, estimated the corn yield at 72 bushels per acre. In September it had set the yield at 73 bushels. With corn running around $3.50 a bushel and 3.7 million acres planted, the additional loss in income would be about $35 million.

The October report showed the soybean yield per acre down one bushel to 23 bushels.

This fall's soybean prices are expected to be about $7 a bushel. With 3.2 million acres planted, this represents a $22.4 million loss.

Corn production for the state was revised down to 266.4 million bushels from the 270.1 million estimated a month earlier. That still would be an 11 per cent increase from 1973, but farmers planted a half-million more acres of corn this year.

The corn yield of 72 bushels per acre would be the lowest since 1964. A good crop in 1972 produced 92 bushels to the acre, and last year's crop, considered poor, brought forth about 79 bushels to the acre.

Nationally, corn production is forecast at 4.7 billion bushels, down 16 per cent from the 5.6 billion bushels in 1973 and 277 bushels below the Sept. 1 estimate.

But the national average for bushels per acre is 74, slightly higher than Ohio's estimate.

Ohio's soybean crop now is set at 73.6 million bushels, compared to the 76.8 million forecast in September, and down 18 per cent from the 1973 record production of 89.8 million bushels.

However, Ohio farmers put less land in soybeans this year, 3.2 million acres compared to 3.5 million in 1973.

Soybean production nationally is estimated at 1.3 billion bushels, a 19 per cent decline from 1973. Per-acre yield is forecast at 24 bushels, also slightly higher than that anticipated for Ohio.

Watergate jury chosen

WASHINGTON (AP) — A jury of nine women and three men was chosen today to hear the Watergate cover-up trial.

For the first nine days of the trial, U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica had questioned hundreds of potential jurors on what they know and think about Watergate.

The tedious and painstaking process was the result of Sirica's fears that two years of news coverage of the Watergate scandals may have persuaded many perspective jurors that the defendants were guilty before the trial began.

While the 12 members of the jury itself have been picked, prosecution and defense lawyers continued picking an additional six alternates in Sirica's crowded courtroom.

Once that is completed, the jurors and alternates are to be taken home to make personal preparations for the trial, which is expected to last three or four months. The jurors are to be housed in a nearby motel and will be allowed no contact with anyone else outside the presence of U.S. marshals.

Girl sees challenge in Venezuela

BY SANDY FOSSON
Record-Herald Staff Writer

"When people think of the Peace Corps, they think, 'Oh, she thinks she's going to save the world.' But I know it has to be a reciprocal learning process. . . .I'll have to learn from them just as they learn from me."

Twenty-one-year-old Marsha Frazier, 420 Rawlings St., realizes there will be limits to what she can teach and understand once she reaches Venezuela next week and begins her 13-week training period with the U.S. Peace Corps.

"IT MIGHT become very frustrating at times because of the language barrier or if the kids don't respond," she replied.

However, if her enthusiasm and determination can be any indication, she just may "save the world."

With long, blond hair fluffed close against her face and eyes glowing of the challenge before her, Marsha speaks with the stamina required in such an undertaking.

The 1974 graduate of Kent State University with a bachelor of science in physical education, Marsha talked about her "diploma blues" in which she had no definite job to look forward to in beginning a career.

She knew what she wanted to do and how, but being aquatic program director for the YMCA or even working in student teacher housing in Switzerland did not seem to match her expectations.

"I have always loved to travel so I talked to one of my professors at Kent and he suggested the Peace Corps," she said.

Then, the long-awaited word came. She had been accepted in the Peace Corps on her first choice — Venezuela.

Now, Marsha packs her bags in anticipation for Wednesday's trip to Columbus, where she will board a plane to Miami, Fla. for two days of testing and paper work.

Friday, it's on to Venezuela, South America, for 13 weeks of training with 15 other Peace Corps members.

During the training period, Marsha will be staying with a family in Venezuela's capital city, Caracas but she will know nothing of the family until she arrives.

After the 13-week period, she will be given the decision of whether she wishes to stay for a two year stint in another portion of the country. She was quick to respond against a common fallacy often conceived of the Peace Corps.

"It is always a voluntary decision in the Peace Corps whether you want to stay or not. . . .you can get out at any time," she said.

WHILE IN Venezuela, Marsha will be teaching underprivileged children in the primary grades with two days per week utilized in training teachers at nearby universities, who have not been as adequately educated in the field of physical education.

She will not only be teaching Spanish but she will also be improving her own knowledge of the native language. Although she was first in the state on the Spanish test at Washington Senior High School and attended the Language Institute in Switzerland in 1968, she realizes she

Friends may call at the Murray Funeral Home, Greenfield, after 4 p.m. Saturday.

Campaign finance bill OKd

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill that overhauls the collection and spending of money in presidential primary and election campaigns has been sent to President Ford for his signature.

The legislation, spawned by the Watergate scandals, received final congressional approval Thursday on a 365-24 vote in the House. The Senate had approved it earlier.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said Ford has not made a final decision on the measure but that congressional action in deleting or softening some features opposed by Ford "improved chances the President will sign the bill."

The bill's major innovation is public financing of the presidential nominating and election process.

A maximum of $20 million would be given to each major party presidential nominee in 1976, with the money coming from the voluntary $1 check-off on federal income taxes that has been in effect the past two years.

Candidates of minor parties would receive partial funding if they polled at least 5 per cent of the total vote.

Each major party would receive $2 million in check-off funds to conduct its presidential nominating convention.

Spending on presidential primaries would be limited to $10 million for each major party candidate.

The bill also restricts the maximum any individual could contribute to $1,000 to any one candidate and $25,000 for all candidates. No cash contributions of more than $100 would be permitted.

A Federal Election Commission would be established to administer the new regulations and would have the power to enforce them through court action.

Rhodes, Gilligan exchange charges

By The Associated Press

Former Gov. James A. Rhodes said Thursday the anticipated shutdown of five Ohio school districts for lack of funds substantiates his claims that Democratic Gov. John Gilligan has not given schools the money he promised.

Rhodes, making a campaign stop in Mansfield, referred to a report by the state auditor's office that five districts have asked for a "financial cash analysis," a required step before closing their doors.

Rhodes, the Republican nominee for governor, said people scoffed at his predictions that a lack of funds would force some school districts to close before Christmas.

"But nobody's laughing now, particularly those 23,000 youngsters whose schools are closing," he said.

He predicted more school closings are forthcoming because the administration is not giving schools the support promised from the state income tax and voters are not receptive to requests for property tax hikes.

Meanwhile, Gilligan told a labor rally in Columbus his administration has "nearly doubled state expenditures on primary and secondary education," raising state funds from $575 million to $1.1 billion.

He said work was begun during his term to "reform the tax structure," establishing ability to pay as a principle of equitable taxation and providing the state's first substantial personal and real property tax relief.

Gilligan, U.S. Senate nominee John Glenn and others on the Democratic state ticket appeared at a labor rally sponsored by the Ohio AFL-CIO and the UAW.

Gilligan and Glenn, as well as UAW President Leonard Woodcock, attacked President Ford's 5 per cent surtax proposal as it applies to middle income taxpayers. They said it would hit working-class families the hardest.

Gilligan said Ford apparently had played football center too long. "He sees the world upside down and backward," the governor said.

Gilligan said Rhodes boasted in 1964 of firing 1,100 bureaucrats in the Department of Mental Health and Correction. Gilligan said they were psychiatrists and case workers.

"He called that economy," Gilligan said. "It was brutality in the name of economy."

Rhodes' longtime secretary, Emma Scholz, labeled the remark untrue. She said Rhodes got rid of only persons put on the payroll by former Gov. Michael V. DiSalle, a Democrat, after he lost the election.

Glenn said Ford's surtax, if necessary, must be put on higher income levels than those that would hit the working man. He said the 1969 dollar that was worth 75 cents in buying power will only be worth 45 cents in 1975 if the inflation trend continues.

The other Democratic candidates were introduced by Gilligan.

More than 2,000 union members attended the rally.

His campaign headquarters said Perk would hold a press conference at a busy downtown intersection while meeting with the people of Columbus as a highlight of his "Fight Inflation Day."

Perk also planned campaign trips today to Youngstown and Gallipolis, where he was scheduled to attend a farm show.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer said Perk would issue a financial statement today showing his net worth as $82,945 with no major debts. Assets reportedly include an $18,950 home, $24,852 in the Public Employes Retirement System, $22,700 in various bonds and $7,381 in a savings account.

The newspaper said Perk also planned to release copies of income tax returns from 1969 through 1973 showing taxable income of $92,742 for that period and federal income taxes paid of $20,979.

U.S. enters Boston school disagreement

BOSTON (AP) — Five Justice Department lawyers have been assigned here to insure prompt enforcement of federal civil rights laws in connection with court-ordered school busing.

City officials said there were few of the incidents of violence which have marked the first four weeks of a U.S. District Court plan to desegregate Boston public schools by busing 18,200 of 92,000 pupils.

James O. Newpher, special agent in charge of the Boston FBI office, said the FBI has been investigating alleged civil rights violations and cases of possible interference with Judge W. Arthur Garrity Jr.'s busing order.

"We have sent some information to Washington for a decision on what further action to take," Newpher said in an interview Thursday. "When the lawyers arrive tomorrow, we'll present our information to them, and they will expedite whatever action is necessary."

Meanwhile, Mayor Kevin H. White said he would not support a wider busing plan until the federal government gives a better guarantee of safety for school children here. He accused President Ford of inflaming resistance to integration.

There was no direct White House response to White's remarks, but a spokesman said citizens should obey the court's ruling. The spokesman also said law and order in Boston is a state and city responsibility.

Ford told a news conference Wednesday that, while the law must be obeyed, he disagreed with Garrity's order.

White said Ford's statement would lead to further disruption "and will endanger the safety of our school children in the process."

Tina Niarchos dies

LONDON (AP) — Tina Niarchos, 45, wife of Greek millionaire Stavros Niarchos, has died in Paris of thrombosis, according to an announcement in London by Niarchos' shipping company.

The attractive blonde was once married to millionaire Greek ship owner Aristotle Onassis, now married to the former Jacqueline Kennedy.

Warm, sunny weather was forecast for Ohio today as southerly winds over the Mississippi and Ohio valleys and most of the Great Lakes brought warm air northward.

Afternoon temperatures were expected to climb into the low 70s today and could approach the 80s Saturday.

Tonight's readings will be on the mild with lows in the 50s.

There is a chance of thundershowers in northwestern counties spreading eastward across the state by Saturday evening.

Showers ending Sunday. Fair Monday and a chance of showers Tuesday. Highs in the 50s Sunday and in the 60s Monday and Tuesday. Lows in the 40s Sunday, in the upper 20s and low 30s Monday morning and in the 40s again Tuesday.

Mills 'clarifies' incident with auto

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Wilbur D. Mills has described himself as embarrassed and humiliated by his involvement in an episode during which a woman jumped into the Washington Tidal Basin. He says he is returning to work at the Capitol and then will resume his re-election campaign.

The Arkansas Democrat, 65-year-old chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee and long considered one of the most powerful and respected members of Congress, had not been seen on Capitol Hill this week.

Park police said they stopped his speeding, unlighted car, driven by someone else, early Monday. They said a woman passenger "obviously intoxicated" emerged and that Mills stepped out of the car with his face bleeding and smelling of alcohol. They identified the woman as Annabel Battistella.

No charges were filed in the incident.

In a written statement on Thursday, Mills said Mrs. Battistella was one of a party of neighbors and friends he was entertaining, that she became ill, he tried to have her taken home, there was a struggle and her elbow broke his glasses, causing facial cuts.

Mills' administrative assistant, Oscar Eugene Goss, said Tuesday that Mills had told him he was not in the automobile and knew nothing of the episode. Mills said in his statement that Goss had misunderstood him when he said merely that a news account of the affair was inaccurate. Goss agreed in a separate statement.

In his statement, Mills said he and his wife Polly became close friends of Mrs. Battistella and her husband Eduardo when the Millses moved to a suburban apartment complex in Arlington, Va., where the Battistellas already had an apartment.

Mills said the events of Sunday evening and Monday morning began when he arranged a bon voyage party for Gloria Sanchez, a cousin and house guest of the Battistellas, who was returning to her native Argentina.

Because Mrs. Mills had a broken foot, he said, they could not entertain at home and at Mrs. Mills' insistence he arranged to "take our friends to a public place we had frequented before."

Nixon

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen indicated that Ford knew nothing about the offer until reading news accounts of it Thursday night. Nessen did not describe the President's reaction.

The department did not consult Special Watergate Prosecutor Leon Jaworski, said Robert Havel, the department's public information director.

But Havel added, "If Jaworski is interested in any possible prosecution in any particular area, then we would not represent Nixon." He said the offer would apply in future suits against Nixon "if the department determines that Nixon was acting within the scope of his authority" at the time of the challenged acts.

Maroney said the move developed after Nixon's resignation because "we were trying to get our representation of the various people in order."

Wilson seen victor in British elections

LONDON (AP) — The ballot count resumed this morning with Prime Minister Harold Wilson and his Labor party headed for a parliamentary majority and a mandate for radical measures against the country's suffering economy.

With 142 of the 635 House of Commons seats still undecided, Labor held 294 and needed only 24 for a majority. The Laborites were polling about 42 per cent of the popular vote, compared with 35.4 per cent for the Conservatives.

Wilson declared he was confident of forming a government today. He would become the first British politician this century to serve as prime minister four times.

Computer projections indicated that Labor, in power with a minority government since February, would win with a majority of only five or six seats. But Wilson is fond of quoting the dictum of the late Prime Minister Winston Churchill: "One vote is enough."

The Conservatives had only 184 seats, 134 away from a majority. Nevertheless, former Prime Minister Edward Heath, his career as party leader in jeopardy with another election loss, refused to concede.

Despite polling almost a fifth of the total vote so far counted, the Liberals held a mere five seats. Nationalist and splinter groups had won 10. Six of these went to Scottish Nationalists, who were expected to emerge as a parliamentary force with as many as 20 seats.

The early Laborite lead was certain to be cut back by late returns from scattered rural areas, which traditionally vote Conservative.

"Whatever may happen in the remaining results, the Tories can't take it away from us now," Wilson told reporters before going to bed after midnight.

A light voter turnout was reported, although party leaders had called this the country's most critical election since World War II. There are about 40 million eligible voters.

Both major parties campaigned mainly on inflation and other economic problems. Britain has an annual inflation rate of 16.9 per cent and expects this year a foreign trade deficit of $10 billion.

Labor also has pledged to call for elections within a year on whether Britain should remain in the Common Market. Wilson generally has advocated bringing Britain closer to the United States rather than swinging sharply toward Europe.

Britain entered the European economic alliance under Heath's Conservatives, and Labor has all along said that unless better terms are agreed upon Britain should pull out.

To solve Britain's economic problems, Wilson contended that radical leftist-oriented measures were needed. He said opposition parties have frustrated his efforts to enact such legislation since he formed his minority government.

Political observers predicted that Thursday's vote will open the way for Labor to push through measures like a tax-the-rich proposal aimed at families worth more than $250,000 and nationalization of some private industries. In return, Labor has pledged to try to make unions exercise voluntary restraint in wage demands.

Profit-taking hits market

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed today as profit-taking slowed the rapid advance of the past few sessions.

The opening Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down a fraction, although gainers took a 3-2 lead over losers on the New York Stock Exchange.

Brokers said it was natural for the market to encounter some profit-taking pressures after one of its sharpest upswings in recent years.

New York's First National City Bank cut its prime lending rate from 11¾ to 11½ per cent today, but brokers noted that recent drops in short term money rates had raised hopes for a larger cut, to 11¼, by the big money-center bank.

The Dow Jones industrial average climbed 17.06 points Thursday to 648.08 to extend its gain since the start of the week to more than 63 points.

Mrs. Betty Ford goes home today

WASHINGTON (AP) — First Lady Betty Ford is being discharged from Bethesda Naval Medical Center today, two weeks after cancer caused the removal of her right breast.

Mrs. Ford, 56, obtained her surgeon's approval to be released from the hospital. She will continue her recuperation at the White House.

"She's rarin' to go," President Ford reported Thursday after visiting his wife. And he told a Republican dinner in Detroit later that he was just as anxious to have her back home.

"It has often been said that being President of the United States is the loneliest job in the world," Ford said. "For me, tomorrow that job becomes a lot less lonely. Betty is coming home from the hospital."

Jury deliberates $108,000 lawsuit

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A jury began deliberations Thursday in a $108,000 damage suit against the city by the houseboy who was arrested and later released in connection with the 1969 murder of actress Sharon Tate and four others.

William Garretson, 25, and formerly of Ohio is suing the city for false arrest, false imprisonment and invasion of privacy.

The suit also names three police officers—William Whisenhut, Robert Burbidge and Jerry De Rosa—who arrested Garretson in the caretaker's house of Miss Tate's Benedict Canyon estate after finding the bloodies, mutilated bodies.

Asst. City Atty. Thomas C. Hokinson argued the officers had "reasonable cause" to arrest Garretson after finding him in the cottage, which was only 80 feet from the main house. Two bodies were found in the house, two on the lawn and a fifth in a car parked in the roadway.

Hopkinson said the arrest, the interrogations, the polygraph test and Garretson's release 58 hours later were correct legally and procedurally.

Garretson's attorney, Robert M. Cohen, argued Garretson should not have been arrested because there was "absolutely no evidence" linking him to the murders.

"Garretson was arrested," Cohen said, "because he was a 19-year-old kid with long hair."

A psychiatrist, Andre R. Tweed, testified Garretson had suffered "acute anxiety reactions with accompanying depression from the harrowing experience of seeing the bodies and being manhandled by the police."

Cincinnati man seeks jail term

POINT OF THE MOUNTAIN, Utah (AP) — A Cincinnati, Ohio, man has told the Utah Board of Pardons that he deliberately set off a jewelry store burglar alarm in Salt Lake City in order to be returned to prison.

Walter B. Grammer told the board Thursday that he owes about $1,500 which he could earn if placed on a work-release program in minimum security.

The board revoked his parole and set a new hearing date for Oct. 12, 1976—twice as long as he said he would need to earn the money.

High court eyes blood center case

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's Supreme Court will decide whether the State Medical Board has jurisdiction over commercial blood centers that use a new process called plasmapheresis.

There are about 15 centers scattered throughout the state using the process which enables donors to sell their blood more often. It involves the extraction of whole blood, separation of solids from the plasma, and reinjection of the solids back into the donor's body.

Mirsa, Inc., a Florida corporation engaged in the business in Columbus, asked in common pleas court for a determination as to whether the centers are under the board's jurisdiction.

Franklin County Common Pleas Court Judge George Tyack ruled on April 30 of this year that the centers do not engage in the practice of medicine, and thus are exempt from the board's jurisdiction.

However, the 10th District Court of Appeals reversed that decision and ordered the case back to Tyack's court for further proceedings. The Supreme Court decided Thursday to settle the question instead.

Operation of the centers in several cities stirred controversy earlier this year after unsanitary conditions in some were blamed for several cases of infectious hepatitis.

Rep. Richard L. Wittenberg, D-44 Toledo, introduced a bill late in this year's legislative session that would require licensing and inspection of the centers by the Department of Health. The lawmakers adjourned before the measure was acted upon.

Mirsa said in its brief to the Supreme Court that it maintained sanitary facilities and had registered nurses on hand, and otherwise kept a physician available for call.

In other action Thursday, the Supreme Court let stand a lower court decision that rejected a claim by George W. Tiefel of Columbus, and others, that Ohio's income tax is unconstitutional.

Tiefel sought to show that the tax is "a poll tax, vague, not measured or levied on specifically designated incomes, and is illegally administered."

He lost the first round in Franklin County Common Pleas Court and the 10th District Court of Appeals subsequently affirmed that decision.

The case also attacked a provision in the statute that at the time required married couples who file joint federal returns to also file joint returns under the state tax — a system that usually increased their tax liability.

However, the legislature changed the joint filing provision in July 1973, making that part of the Tiefel case a moot question.

Area students participate in Litter Raider program

A group of students from Washington C.H. played an active and resourceful role during the 1974 Ohio State Fair in Columbus as part of the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency's Litter Raider program.

The 1974 program, under the supervision of Bonnie McSwain, Ohio EPA citizens' action coordinator, involved more than 3,000 Ohio youngsters.

"Elementary, junior and senior high school students from across the state were recruiter earlier this year to come to the fair as Litter Raiders," McSwain said. "As Litter Raiders, they combed the fairgrounds, picking up the litter which accumulated."

Besides removing the unsightly trash, the Litter Raiders served to educate fairgoers about protecting the environment by making the public aware of the pollution they cause through careless littering. The theme for the program, in its second year, was "Clean Up Your Act."

Of this year's program, McSwain said, "This year there was a marked difference in the cleanliness of the state fair. Ohio EPA and state fair personnel were extremely pleased with the work which the Litter Raiders did in keeping the fairgrounds clean and in generating environmental interest among the fairgoers."

Adult leaders of the Litter Raiders in Washington C.H. were Jack and Vallerie Marti, Mr. and Mrs. George Shoemaker and Mr. and Mrs. Vic Pontious.

TerHorst says Nixon pardon sole reason for resignation

ATHENS, Ohio (AP)—Jerald F. terHorst said here Thursday night the pardoning of Richard Nixon was the sole reason for his resignation as President Ford's press secretary just one month after being appointed to the job.

In his first public appearance since leaving the administration, terHorst told an Ohio University audience Ford's decision to pardon the former President of any Watergate-related crimes was one he could not live with.

TerHorst said he would have hoped for a conviction or an indictment before that step was taken.

He indicated he did not think Ford was prepared at this time to pardon any other persons involved in the scandal.

The overall tone of terHorst's speech and during a question and answer session was complimentary to Ford.

He described Ford as a "Boy Scout in the White House" and a man with a "nice guy reputation."

"He is being contrasted against Richard Nixon, which makes him initially attractive," terHorst said. "I'm not sure if he would be that attractive if he had to follow an Eisenhower or a JFK."

TerHorst said it is too early to judge the administration's performance, but said the conditional amnesty plan and the Nelson Rockefeller nomination for vice president could be taken as indications of how Ford will operate.

TerHorst said he does not believe becoming a press secretary is a compromise of journalistic values. Having to work from the inside is a position that would do some journalists a lot of good, he added.

But he said reporters might have a tendency to place too much credibility in a press secretary appointed from among their own ranks.

Justice eyes parole case

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Supreme Court Justice Paul W. Brown said Thursday he will rule on a case involving the release of reformatory inmates even though he issued an opinion on the subject while serving as state attorney general.

Brown was among the justices who heard oral arguments in the case Tuesday in which William McKee, Richland County prosecutor, contends the Ohio Adult Parole Authority cannot legally release inmates before they serve minimum sentences.

When Brown was attorney general in 1970, he concurred with an earlier attorney general's ruling that early release of prisoners was within the law.

"No one has ever brought it up (the question of disqualification, Brown said. "That particular issue is part of the case, but not all of it."

Radio stations sold by Avco

CINCINNATI, Ohi, (AP)— The Avco Broadcasting Corp. has announced the sale of two Washington, D.C., radio stations to the Capitol Broadcasting Co. for $3.6 million.

The sale, involving stations WWDC and WWDC-FM, is contingent of Federal Communications Commission approval, according to John T. Murphy, Avco president, who announced the agreement.

Avco has owned the stations since 1965.

Opinion And Comment

Military costs dramatized

The Pentagon's report that in three months inflation added 16 billion dollars to the cost of major weapons prompts wide-ranging thoughts on the price society pays for military readiness. An observer from another planet would surely conclude that mankind suffers from collective insanity.

Consider the case of the controversial B-1 advance bomber. The cost of this project alone is now estimated at 18.6 billion dollars. That is 3.6 billion higher than the estimate only three months ago. At present estimates a single B-1 aircraft would set the taxpayers back by 76 million dollars.

Another case in point is the Trident ballistic missile submarine project. It is now figured that each of the 10 proposed subs and their missiles will cost a billion and a half dollars. The grand total (according to the latest estimate) is 15.4 billion, which is 3 billion above the estimate of three months ago.

The Pentagon cannot be made the whipping boy in this instance; all of us feel the weight of inflation in our daily lives. But the Pentagon figures do lend dramatic emphasis to the view that the sums spent on arms, not only in our country but throughout the so-called civilized world, are almost suicidally vast. Devoted instead to constructive programs, these enormous sums would go far toward managing the great fundamental problems that plague humanity.

A WORD EDGEWISE . . . by John P. Roche

The strategic imperative

About the only thing the Central Intelligence Agency has not been blamed for in recent months is the Honduran flood. (And some KGB operative has probably suggested that mystery planes were seen seeding the rain clouds so the Agency may yet end up with the flood on its doorstep.) When the Greek junta withered away, for example, Americans were suddenly in bad odor in Athens as the old charge resurfaced that the CIA had sponsored the 1967 coup, which put the military junta in power. In addition, the United States generally came under attack for sustaining the junta.

Now as far as CIA involvement in the events of 1967 is concerned, let us set the record straight. By accident, I was sitting with President Johnson and National Security Adviser Walt Rostow when we heard of the coup. (We were in the President's compartment of Air Force One, en route back to the United States from Konrad Adenauer's funeral.) Johnson and Rostow did not look knowingly at each other and wink — the President blew his very substantial cork. Poor Walt spent the rest of the ride desperately trying to find out what had happened in Athens. If the President of the United States has, as advertised, the most sophisticated communications equipment in the world, I would hate to see how unsophisticated stuff works. When we got off the plane at Andrews AFB some hours later, we still didn't know who had done what to whom in Greece.

It turned out that American Intelligence had been worried about a military coup, but by an entirely different cast of Greek characters! The bunch that pulled it off had gone undetected. When it began, the American ambassador prepared to implement "Operation Prometheus" (a contingency plan against a Communist coup) and offered the King a helicopter to go to Salonika and rally his allegedly loyal troops. The King refused. That was the extent of American involvement. Note that our effort was to maintain the constitutional monarchy.

Once the colonels were in power, what should we have done? Send the Sixth Fleet and land Marines? Or treat the junta as the government of Greece and continue on a business as usual basis? Or privately put the heat on the dictatorship to restore civil rights, a free press, and other constitutional guarantees? When I was young, I thought a question like this could be simply answered, but in watching the internal debate in the U.S. government over Greek policy I learned an awful lot. Let met put it in question and answer form.

Roche: Why can't we cut off military supplies until they release political prisoners and restore civil rights? Are the Bulgarians or the Albanians planning to invade if Greek tanks aren't up to date?

Answer: Do you want the Sixth Fleet to operate in the Eastern Mediterranean?

Roche: Of course; it's essential if the Arabs jump Israel and the Soviets threaten to get into the act. (As indeed happened about six weeks after the Greek coup.)

Answer: Then you must want to maintain our base at Suda Bay on Crete. Without it the fleet has to go all the way to Italy for supplies.

Roche: What you are saying is that, in overall streategic terms, the colonels in Athens have us over a barrel?

The question answered itself. In fact, as current developments in Athens — the semi-exodus from NATO in particular — indicate, whoever rules Greece has us in a strategic bind.

Reluctantly I concluded we could not put the arm on the Greek junta, though in fairness we did persistently urge it in private to modify its repressive tactics.

However, we now have in the case of Chile a situation where direct pressure in defense of human rights creates no strategic problem. In Secretary Kissinger's phrase, "Chile is a dagger pointed at the heart of Antarctica." Yet the Secretary of State recently reprimanded the American ambassador, David H. Popper, for linking possible American military assistance to an easing of the military dictatorship.

Having been to the other side of the moon, I am incapable of a pious shriek, but the burden of proof is clearly on Kissinger to demonstrate the rationale for "gigging" Ambassador Popper.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 12

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20)

You can expect a pleasant day, with associates radiating good will and congeniality. Stars especially favor travel and communication with interesting people.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)

Hobbies and artistic endeavors should prove unusually rewarding now. And, like Aries, you may meet new people who prove highly stimulating.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)

Don't count on—or spend—anticipated funds before you actually have them in hand. Key interests may need a bit of an extra push, but don't go to extremes.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)

If dubious about accepting a certain suggestion, it will probably be better to reject. But do weigh it sufficiently so as not to miss any angles.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)

A splendid period in which to renew affectionate ties through mutual interests and pleasures. Your domestic affairs especially favored.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

An analytical look at your position may indicate some new avenue to pursue. Keep an easy yet alert eye on future moves. Taper off in late hours to relax.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

One of your ideas which others might consider "visionary" seems to have solid foundation, so give it more thought and don't let others discourage you.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

A day calling for flexibility. Don't adhere rigidly to a course when new developments definitely call for a change of policy.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

Your impulse to "get going" should be checked until associates are ready to join you. Forcing matters will only lead to dissension.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

With further thought, you now see possibilities in hitherto barren areas of achievement so, if you're in a mood to take a chance, go ahead. Success likely.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March 20)

You may not be in the best position to take action on a cherished project just now, but that needn't deter you from keeping your plans in mind.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a high order of intellect. You are a logical and serious thinker and a confirmed believer in direct action as the best means of getting things done. You are gregarious by nature and make many friends whom you keep for a lifetime. You have a keen sense of responsibility and a strict sense of justice, but such is your love and tolerance of your fellowman, that you could suffer in any capacity such as lawyer or judge, where you would have to inflict punishment upon a wrongdoer. Your demeanor is gracious, your habits fastidious — sometimes inordinately so. Fields in which you could excel: Writing, science (especially chemistry or electricity), teaching and designing. Also a reformer at heart, you would be a tremendous asset to any organization devoted to humanitarian causes.

New medical building dedicated

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — A $50.7 million College of Medicine Building, built with the largest construction grant for medical education ever provided by the federal government, will be dedicated at the University of Cincinnati today.

Caspar Weinberger, secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, was to provide the principal address at dedication ceremonies.

The addition of the 10-story facility will allow the university to increase its medical school class about 60 per cent to approximately 768 within four years.

The new structure, with 21 acres of floor space, will house classroom laboratories and the Medical Center's health science library.

The building is connected to Cincinnati General Hospital.

Dr. Joseph Lindner Jr., associate dean, said patient care at General Hospital will be improved due to "the proximity for medical students, house staff and faculty participating in patient care."

Ohio Perspective

Harris in uphill fight for office

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — It's a long, hard road for Richard H. Harris, the Republican candidate for state treasurer who is circling Ohio on foot in an uphill race against the Democratic incumbent, Gertrude Donahey.

"It's a way to get to the people and get their gut reaction," said Harris.

Taking a walking tour around the state's perimeter also is a colorful and inexpensive way to campaign for a political unknown who has admitted to raising only $6,500 as of early October.

State Treasurer Donahey is a formidable opponent. She is the first woman elected to statewide executive office in Ohio. As the widow of the late Lt. Gov. John W. Donahey and daughter-in-law of the late Vic Donahey, who served as governor and U.S. senator, she has the statewide recognition Harris is seeking.

"Her background is political," contends Harris. "She has no background in finance. The bureaucrats under her are running her department."

Harris, 42, worked 12 years with the Ohio Bureau of Workmen's Compensation, becoming coordinator of district offices in 1971 and of training and public information in 1972.

He is not a lawyer, but he joined a Toledo law firm in 1973 as an administrative assistant and continues to draw a salary. He said he will have to repay the salary after the campaign.

Affable and just a little restless, the 6-foot-4 former Bowling Green State University basketball player lives in Wauseon with his wife, two sons and two daughters.

Harris sees the underdog label as his biggest liability. "It's the statement that everyone thinks she's going to beat me. It's trying to overcome a belief that isn't true," he said.

He said a recent GOP poll showed Mrs. Donahey's support had dropped, but he admitted the poll shows her still substantially ahead.

Another Harris problem is a lack of gut issues that make headlines. Mrs. Donahey has made investments during her first term that will earn the state $200 million by mid-October compared to $159 million in the eight years prior to 1971.

Harris cites increased state revenues from income tax and the lottery and soaring interest rates as factors, and he wants a law forbidding the state treasurer from investing in what he called risky commercial paper.

But, he admitted Mrs. Donahey inherited such investments from the previous Republican administration that was hurt by a loan scandal involving bad paper.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE – Here's how to work it:
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

If she can't have grass, she'll hit the bottle

DEAR ABBY: I was busted for possession of marijuana two weeks ago. I am a married woman, 19, and have a 14-month-old son.

Everyone has something he calls his own thing, and my own thing is relaxing with grass now and then. When the police came to my door, they deprived me of one of my civil rights by not letting me read the search warrant before they entered my home.

What can I do about this? So many people have been busted the same way. We are sick of the way the police push people around.

If I can't smoke grass in the privacy of my home, then I guess I'll become an alcoholic.

BUSTED IN L.A.

DEAR BUSTED: Both possession and sale of marijuana are unlawful and in narcotics cases, search warrants cannot be read at the door because while the officers are waiting outside, someone inside (an accomplice, possibly) can destroy the evidence. So the law enforcers must enter first, and then the warrant is available for reading.

The people, through the democratic process, write the laws, and the police only enforce them. However, your threat to turn to alcohol if you can't have "grass" shows a dependency on some kind of mood-changing drug, which should concern you at least as much as being deprived of your civil rights.

DEAR ABBY: You said in your column that there was nothing sadder than seeing children being raised by children.

Well, I disagree with you. It's a lot sadder to see children being raised by old people in their late 30s and 40s. They have nothing in common.

I am 16, and have a child nearly a year old and there is nothing "sad" about the way my son is being raised. I think it's a break for a kid to have young parents so they can grow up together.

DEAR MOTHER: If you are sufficiently mature to raise a child at 16, you are exceptional.

"Growing up" together is lovely theory, but unless the parents are mature (and maturity doesn't automatically come with years) they'd better do a lot of praying.

DEAR ABBY: I never thought I'd be writing to you, but here I am. Will you please let doctors, nurses, aides and all hospital personnel know that when someone who works with them is hospitalized that person deserves the same consideration about visiting hours as anyone else in that hospital?

I was hospitalized with a serious injury two months ago, and during my stay at the hospital, even though there was a big sign on my door which read: "POSITIVELY NO VISITORS: DOCTOR'S ORDERS," I was pestered to death by co-workers who felt I needed a little cheering up.

Nurses, doctors, aides, and people from the hospital office came to see me. Most of them stayed for only ten minutes, but multiply that by 50 every day and you'll have some idea of how exhausted I was.

I finally had to leave the hospital to get some rest. I love my co-workers, but they almost killed me with kindness.

Please, Abby, put this in your column. I hope it goes up on hospital bulletin boards all over the country.

FLORENCE NIGHTENGALE

DEAR FLO: Here's your letter. I hope it works.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Friday, Oct. 11, the 284th day of 1974. There are 81 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1811, the first steam ferry was put into operation by inventor John Stevens, between New York City and Hoboken, N. J.

On this date.—

In 1776, during the Revolutionary war, Colonial forces under Benedict Arnold were defeated by the British on Lake Champlain.

In 1797, a Dutch fleet was defeated by the British off Camperdown, Holland.

In 1945, Chiang Kai-shek and Mao Tse-tung issued a joint statement pledging to work for peace and unity in China.

In 1962, Pope John the 23rd opened the Roman Catholic Church's second Vatican Council.

In 1970, there was widespread flooding in Puerto Rico after torrential rains.

Ten years ago: The State Department announced that an East German nuclear physicist, Heinz Barwich, had defected and been granted asylum in the United States.

One year ago: President Nixon was seeking the advice of congressmen and party leader before naming a successor to Spiro Agnew as Vice President.

Thought for today: Keep quiet, and people will think you are a philosopher — Latin proverb.

Joshua Meets God's Emissary

Joshua went to him and said . . . Art thou for us or for our adversaries? And he said, Nay; but as captain of the host of the Lord am I come.
—Joshua 5: 13-14

Many were the trials and tribulations of Joshua and the Israelites as they continued their journey into the Promised Land, but they survived them all for, as the Lord had promised Joshua, "As I was with Moses, so I will be with thee: I will not fail thee, nor forsake thee." Thus they successfully crossed deserts, forests and rivers—even to the banks of the Jordan where, just as God had parted the waters of the Red Sea, He now dried up the river until the Israelites had crossed safely. But as they neared Jericho, they knew they could not enter since all the gates were closed against them. All seemed lost, but there came an army of the Lord, led by an angel, to help them.

11 'giants of Christian faith'

By GEORGE CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Most of the oft-termed "theological giants" of this century are dead, including Karl Barth, Paul Tillich, Emil Brunner, Martin Buber, Dietrich Bonhoeffer, Rheinhold Niebuhr. Only one of that constellation still is living, Germany's Rudolph Bultmann, now 90.

Are there any newcomers to fill the gap? Editors of six leading church magazines singled out 11 persons as "today's living giants of the Christian faith."

Ranked as the most dominant theologian was European scholar Jurgen Moltmann of Germany. He a reformed churchman who sparked a "theology of hope" movement. It emphasizes faith as a drive toward future goodness, with God in front leading humanity ahead, and finds realizations of hope both through struggle for reform in this world and in consummation at the end of time.

Others on the list:

—Swiss theologian Hans Kung of Germany. He is a a reform-minded Roman Catholic, whose criticism of the doctrine of papal infallibility has made him a target of Vatican investigations.

—United Church ethicist James Gustafson, of the University of Chicago Divinity School, an opponent of so-called "situation ethics," which claims love — not blanket rules — determine morality.

—Philosopher Bernard Lonergan, a Canadian Jesuit, of Regis College, Toronto, a profound intellectual whose work in building bridges between theology and the social sciences has been compared to that of Thomas Aquinas.

—Southern Baptist evangelist Billy Graham, who is not regarded as a creative theologian and who often is accused of overemphasizing personal salvation and minimizing the Gospel's social implication, but who has preached to more people than anyone in history. He was cited for his "obvious appeal" and influence among millions.

—Roman Catholic Archbishop Helder Camara of Brail who has defied Brazil's military government to denounce injustice and insist on fairness to the poor.

—Methodist Bishop Abel Muzorewa, a black churchman of Rhodesia, who has outspokenly opposed the racial policies of the white minority regime.

—Roman Catholic theologian Rosemary Reuther of Howard University. She holds that traditional Christianity has been used as a tool of oppression, especially in sexist views of women. She contends it should be a message of liberation.

—American Indian writer Vine Deloria, a Sioux, author of "Custer Died for Your Sins" and "God is Red." While not primarily a theologian, he was cited for offering a "stirring call for society's repentence and reform."

—Roman Catholic priest-sociologist Andrew Greeley, director of Chicago's National Oqinion Research center and a lucid, prolific writer, who combines the insights of sociology and theology.

—Pentecostal leader David DuPlessis, termed the "chief statesman of the Pentecostal movement," now affecting major Protestant denominations as well as Roman Catholicism.

Episcopal argument unabated

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A theological argument cutting across denominational lines has developed over whether 11 women ordained last summer as priests of the Episcopal Church were validly invested with that office.

Most of the church's House of Bishops have said "no." But the theological rationale on which they acted is now challenged by the scholar on whose work their decision was mainly based. He's a Roman Catholic.

The Rev. Frans J. van Beeck, a noted theologian at the Jesuits' Boston College, says that although the ordinations were irregular so far as church discipline goes, "they were true ordinations."

"There is a good case for considering them not only true, but also de facto valid ... that is, recognized by the church," he says, adding they are "at any rate implicitly valid and recognizeable."

What gave drama to Father van Beeck's intervention is that his writings on the issue had been cited by Episcopal Bishop Arthur A. Vogel of Kansas City in an analysis guiding Episcopal bishops in acting on the matter.

Bishop Vogel, of the church's theological commission, concluded in the advisory, in which Father van Beeck was cited as an authority for the position, that the women had not undergone ordination, but "only service, only a rite."

Laity Day set at 2 churches

BLOOMINGBURG — Laity Day will be observed Sunday in the Madison Mills and Bloomingburg United Methodist churches under the Rev. Harold J. Messmer.

Rev. Messmer is pastor for both churches. Services begin at 9:30 a.m. at Madison Mills and 11 a.m. in the Bloomingburg church.

Gary Hidy, of Madison Mills will speak on "What Shall I Do?" at both churches. He will be assisted by members of the two congregations.

Special music will be presented at Madison Mills by the senior choir and Miss Robin VanMeter.

Columbus pastor to lead services

A series of evangelistic services are scheduled for the week of Oct. 13-20 at Immanuel Baptist Church, 1205 Leesburg Ave.

The Rev. Al Norris, pastor at Parsons Baptist Church in Columbus, will conduct the services at 7:30 p.m.

He will be assisted by the Rev. Brian Donahue, former assistant pastor of the Columbus church and now interim pastor for Immanuel Baptist Church.

Special music will be provided each evening by members of the Columbus church. The public is invited.

Phi Beta Psi plans booth

Mrs. Ralph Gebhart opened her lovely Lakewood Hills home when Gamma active members of Phi Beta Psi Sorority met. The highlight of the evening was the presentation of many exciting and clever craft ideas by Mrs. Ralph Child, Mrs. Tracey Hoffman, Mrs. Dale Willis and Mrs. Robert Hagerty.

Phi Beta Psi, along with many interested citizens of Fayette County, contributed crafts, needlework and food of all varieties for the "Country Crafts for Cancer Corner" at the sorority's annual antique show last spring. The money earned through the craft booth was given to the local unit of the American Cancer Society. Plans are well under way for next spring's show to be held March 7, 8 and 9. The craft booth will be featured again with many new and different items.

Refreshments were served by Miss Fonda Fichthorn and Mrs. Frank Weade, assisting hostesses.

Mr. Metais' topic is 'Diamonds'

Mr. Andre Metais, speaker at the local Lioness Club meeting Tuesday evening at the Washington Country Club, concerning "Diamonds," told members and guests that diamonds were the most endurable substance and hardest known to man, and were discovered 2500 years ago.

He told of diamonds from the natural state to the familiar gems. About 99 per cent of diamonds in the United States come from South Africa, he said. He said that diamond cutting is an exacting art, and an old trade, learned mostly through the families.

The four criteria to determine the value of a diamond are: carat weight, color, cut and clarity, Mr. Metais said. He had on display several dinner and engagement rings.

During the business meeting conducted by Mrs. Lawrence Lehman, the group decided to assume the responsibility to train volunteers to conduct examinations for kindergarten registrations in the schools for the amblyopia clinic (lazy eye patients).

Members also voted to hold the annual Christmas buffet and dance Dec. 7 at the Washington Country Club, for which Mrs. Doris Douglass is chairman.

Mrs. Patti Briggs will do a demonstration of fondue and appetizers for the next meeting Nov. 5.

The committee for the evening was composed of Mrs. Byers Shaw, chairman, Mrs. Horace Jacobs, Mrs. Donald Bennett, Mrs. Gary Thompson and Mrs. Robert Leeth.

Mr. Elliott retires

Mr. Joe Elliott received honors at a retirement dinner held at the Terrace Lounge by fellow employes of Cudahy's. Mr. Elliott, who has been in charge of the shipping and receiving department, retired with 19 years of service. A decorated cake and gift were presented to him later in the evening.

Engaged

MISS ROXANNA STONE

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Miles of 7022 Creek Rd., announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Roxanna Lee Stone to Garry David Morris, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond H. Morris, 2220 Staunton-Jasper Rd.

Roxanna is a 1974 graduate of Miami Trace High School. Her fiance, a 1970 Adena High School graduate of Frankfort, is employed at the Wilmington branch of Cincinnati Millacron.

A mid-November wedding is being planned.

Methodists announce activities

Mrs. Eli Craig was hostess when the United Methodist Women of the Bloomingburg Church met. Assisting hostesses were Mrs. Fred Oswald and Mrs. Lucky Randolph. There were 15 members present.

"Thank You Lord" was the title of a reading by Mrs. Craig for the opening.

Dates announced to remember were: Oct. 27, workshop for new officers from 2:30 until 4:30 p.m. in the New Holland United Methodist Church; Oct. 27, carry-in supper at 5:30 p.m. in Bloomingburg United Methodist Church (program by the Gospel Mariners); Nov. 9, bazaar and luncheon from 10:30 a.m. until 3:30 p.m. at the Bloomingburg Church; and Nov. 17, a carry-in supper at 5:30 p.m. in the Madison Mills United Methodist Church with Bloomingburg Church. A choir from Madisonville will present the program.

Mrs. Charles Cunningham was in charge of the installation of officers, at a very impressive ceremony in which candles were used by each one.

Fall flowers pretty on bridge tables

Fall flowers centered the bridge tables at the Washington Country Club Thursday for the weekly bridge group. There were 23 members and three guests, Mrs. Billie Moffatt, Mrs. Myrtle McCoy and Mrs. G.B. Vance, present.

Game winners were Mrs. Sam Parrett, Mrs. Robert King and Mrs. Ronald Cornwell.

'Parish Day' observed by Good Hope charge

"Parish Day" was observed in Sugar Grove United Methodist Church, when the four churches of the Good Hope charge were represented. New Martinsburg had 11 present; Maple Grove, 6; Good Hope, 5, Sugar Grove, 17; and Staunton, (visitors), 7. "Parish Day" was begun in 1968 by the late Mrs. Lois VanZant.

The Mrs. Francis and May Bonham and Carsie Garringer were co-chairmen for the noon meal, Tables were decorated with pumpkins filled with flowers, in keeping with the fall season.

Mrs. Mary Black, pianist, and Mrs. Reba Clevelle, organist, presented a prelude of songs when the group assembled in the sanctuary. Mrs. Florence Bethards presented devotions using for her theme, "A Spiritual Check-up," and "In the World." The group sang "My Father's World," and the Twnety-Third Psalm from the Living Bible was read.

Mrs. Bethards conducted a Memorial for the ones who helped make the observation a success, and the group sang "How Great Thou Art."

The Good Hope Church will be hosts for the observance next year.

MRS. FREDERICK JONES

Miss Blanton, Mr. Jones are united in marriage

Miss Donna K. Blanton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cletes C. Blanton of Sabina, became the bride of Frederick K. Jones, son of Mrs. Charles Jones of Blanchester, and the late Mr. Jones, in the Sabina Church of Christ.

Rev. Joe D. Lorimer officiated for the candlelight ceremony in the Sabina Church of Christ on Oct. 4. A half-hour program of music preceded the double ring ceremony at 7:30 p.m. by Mrs. Warren Stouffer, organist.

Two candelabra with three baskets of white gladioli and daisies adorned the altar and white bows were on the family pews.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a long dacron polyester mira mist gown fashioned with a high neckline trimmed in Venice lace, fitted tucked bodice and bishop sleeves all trimmed with embroidery. The A-line skirt was trimmed with a wide flounce. Her elbow-length veil matched the gown, and she carried a cascading bouquet of white daisies.

Rick Sutton served as best man, and the ushers were Kevin Beebee, Charles Maddux and Danny Blanton.

Mrs. Blanton, the bride's mother, wore a floor-length gown of blue crepe with long sleeves. The groom's mother chose a long gown with high neck and long sleeves. Their corsages were white carnations trimmed in blue. Mrs. Myrl Ramsey, the groom's grandmother of Blanchester, wore a formal length dress and a white carnation corsage.

For the reception held in the social room of the church, the bride's table featured a four-tiered weddiing cake topped with a bridal couple and yellow roses. Mrs. Ruth Gray and Mrs. Hubert Sheley were hostesses assisted by Mrs. James Hargrave, Mrs. John Johnson, Mrs. Ted Lyttle and Mrs. Chester Drummond. Mrs. Danny Blanton presided at the guest book.

The rehearsal dinner for the wedding party was given Thursday evening by Mrs. Charles Jones at the Church of Christ social room in Blanchester.

Tara Overly is two years-old

Little Tara Marie Overly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Terry E. Overly, 2332 Staunton-Sugar Grove Rd., was guest of honor at a birthday party in the home of her godparents, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Coleman.

Invited guests were Mrs. Vera Palmer, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Palmer and Teresa, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Hidy, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Palmer, Mr. and Mrs. Andy Haynes and Jerry, Nick and Dorothy, Eugene Overly and Vicki, Mr. and Mrs. Steve Overly, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Overly and Mikie and Eric, Mrs. Kim Evans and Brent, Mrs. Marsha Eggleton and Keith, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil O'Brien and Mrs. Marlin Overly.

Mrs. Ruth Ann Carwile, Mrs. Madge Crooks, Mrs. Nellie Parks and Mrs. Louise Eckle, were guests on Wednesday at the Fairfield County Fair in Lancaster.

Little humor seen on Wall Street

By JOSH FITZHUGH
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Words, like fortunes, are made and lost on Wall Street.

Gone for now are the words of the heady years of the past, when go-go funds were run by swingers and gunslingers looking for smart money investments in high flyers, glamours, yo-yo stocks or stocks in the second tier of the Nifty Fifty.

But Wall Street's penchant for creating new words, phrases and jokes seems to have declined with the Dow Jones industrial average this year. And about the only new phrase to come out of the Street in recent months is gloomy: double-digit inflation.

"When things are easy in a big bull market, you get more humor," says Eldon Grimm, a veteran of the Street who's been around long enough to know. "Now it's hard to come by."

"I don't think people have the time to think about these things," says Peter Wyckoff, author of "The Language of Wall Street." "They're just too worried."

Each profession has its code words, from banking to short order cookery, and Wall Street still has at least its share.

Blue chips and widow-and-orphan stocks have been demeaned and war babies, defense stocks, rejected. All were caught in the claws of the most powerful bear market since the '30s.

Bull and bear are the Street's best known symbols. They refer to the way a bull thrusts his head up in a fight while a bear grapples and wrestles his opponent down.

From time to time, these concepts have been related to creation of illegal bull traps, bear polls and bear raids, in which bears join forces to force down the price of a stock, only to buy it back at a profit.

Also illegal are bucket shops, run by bucketteers who theoretically execute customers' orders and make money when the client loses. Painting the tapemaking trades just to get a company's name on the ticker is out, but investors can still put their money in pups, cats and dogs.

You can sell short or go long, straddle or swing or take a short against the box. The market can swim, be sick, sleep, be lazy or fall out of bed. It can leave you without a shirt or taking a bath.

Quick action on trading floors has created nicknames for some of the best known companies.

United States Steel is Big X, from its ticker tape symbol. Bethlehem Steel is Bessie, McDonald's Corp. is Hamburger, After Six is Tux. Dome Petroleum is Dump and Buttes Oil & Gas Is Bingo.

Like words, there are phrases and sayings.

"He who sells what isn't his'n, buys it back or goes to prison," goes the one about short selling — selling borrowed stock on the theory that you can buy it back later at a profit.

"That's a lot of baloney," says broker Grimm.

Woman drives car in building

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—A man was knocked off a golf cart and four exhibition booths were damaged Thursday when a woman crashed a car through a metal door of the Cincinnati Convention Center and circled inside the building.

"I've been in this business a long time and never saw anything like that," said Capt. J.M. Brennan, chief of security at the center.

A 44-year-old Montgomery woman was being held, police said. Charges were pending.

The car smashed into the corrugated door twice before entering the center, police said. A dozen workers inside were preparing for Expo '74 which opens today.

Injured was Earl Telford, 42, who was treated for leg cuts at Cincinnati hospital and later released.

A maintenance man said he heard the car ram the door, then shouted a warning to Telford.

"I was sitting on my cart and heard something hit the door," said Al Jackson. "Then she hit it again and in came that car at 30 miles per hour. I yelled 'Look out, Earl! Look out Earl!' but it was too late."

Police said the only explanation the woman gave was: "He made me do it."

Urge more fire probes

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Fire Marshal David Lucht told Hamilton County firefighters and industrial safety experts Thursday that statewide inspections have not reduced the frequency of fires during the last few years.

He said the state receives reports on less than 2 per cent of the 130,000 fires handled by local departments each year. He said his department's education and inspection bureaus must be expanded for more efficiency.

"I can't measure anything (my office) has accomplished for the taxpayers who support it. If I closed down—it would have little impact on the average citizen," he said.

He said Ohio's method of collecting information about fires and fire hazards must be improved.

He called for the General Assembly to make citizens "accountable for potential fire violations, in the same way I can be stopped if I am driving over the speed limit on a given highway."

Tot dies in blaze

ASHLAND, Ohio (AP)—Scott Meyers, 2, of Ashland, died Thursday when fire swept his home, officials reported.

Pomona Grange members review school issues

NEW MARTINSBURG — Three school issues which will be appearing on the November general election ballot were reviewed during the regular Pomona Grange meeting Thursday night in the Forest Shade Grange hall in New Martinsburg. The Marshall Grange hosted the meeting.

Mrs. June Slaughter, elementary coordinator for the Miami Trace School District, explained to the Grangers the need for the three-mill additional operating levy and the 2.49-mill bond issue which have been proposed by the Fayette County Board of Education.

The three-mill additional operating levy will be used to battle spiraling costs in the district, while the bond issue's purpose will be to construct a new junior high school building for the county's seventh and eighth grade students.

THE GRANGE members also reviewed the .65-mill levy requested by the Fayette County Board of Mental Retardation for the operation of the Fayette Progressive School.

The meeting was conducted by master Nathaniel Tway.

Reports of the subordinate Granges were given. They were Marshall by Mrs. Edward Rankin, six members present; Madison Good Will by Gary Hidy, six members present; and Forest Shade by Winfred Morgan, six members present.

The lecture program was presented by Christine Cook. The program consisted of several readings.

Nursing homes won't meet deadline

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— State Rep. Norman Murdock says it is apparent that a large number of Ohio nursing homes will not be able to meet the Jan. 1 deadline for installing sprinkler systems.

The Cincinnati Republican, who sponsored the legislation requiring the sprinklers, called Thursday for a meeting of all responsible parties within two weeks to determine a "rational responsive course of action."

"It is obvious that we are facing a dilemma and crisis," Murdock said. "There must be a reason for this substantial noncompliance. There must be problems which need to be considered and dealt with at once."

He said the meeting should include representatives of the nursing home industry, the state fire marshal's office, the state Health Department, the sprinkler industry and the General Assembly.

"These parties, or their designees, must meet to determine the facts, to learn the reasons for the expected and probable noncompliance and to agree upon and determine a course of action which will result in the earliest possible compliance with the law," Murdock said.

The Health Department could shut down a nursing home failing to comply with the law.

Murdock said it was apparent that the state health director will have to avoid implementation of certain provisions of the law.

"He simply cannot close the many homes which will not comply since those elderly occupants will have nowhere to go and obviously can't be put on the street," he said.

Rate hike bid made

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Some 350,000 customers of the Ohio Edison Co. face a 25 per cent rate hike if an emergency request is approved by the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio.

A spokesman for the company said Thursday's request will affect customers in almost all the medium to small cities and rural areas and all industrial customers in 35 northeastern and central Ohio counties.

The increase would raise $46.6 million in new revenue annually, the company said.

Company president D. Bruce Mansfield said fund shortages have forced the company to curtail construction and trim operating expenditures. Mansfield said that without relief, the company could be short of electricity by 1978.

The company also noted that the value of its common stock has dropped from $23.13 per share in 1972 to $13.50 today.

Murder charge filed

HURON, Ohio (AP)—Authorities Thursday filed an aggravated murder charge against Dennis Dussel, 19, of Huron, in the weekend beating death of Jody Auble, 17, whose body was found by hunters in a wooded area of Erie County.

NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that The Dayton Power and Light Company has formally requested The Public Utilities Commission of Ohio to approve temporary increases in rates charged for Electric Service on the basis of an emergency which threatens injury to the business and interests of the public and the Company. The Company seeks approval to collect additional annual electric revenue of $24,670,000 through the application of a 14.0% surcharge applied to electric billings exclusive of fuel adjustment amounts. If the proposed surcharge is approved the temporary additional revenues would be collected until a determination is made of the permanent rate changes requested in the Company's Application in Case No. 74-283-Y, filed May 9, 1974, to increase its rates charged for Electric Service by $30,306,780 based on the test period of the twelve months ended December 31, 1973.

On November 6, 1974 at 9:30 a.m. local time at the offices of The Public Utilities Commission of Ohio, 111 North High Street, Columbus, Ohio 43215 a hearing will be held on the proposed surcharge. Further information may be obtained from The Public Utilities Commission of Ohio or the Company.

Viet bonus payments total over $170,000

COLUMBUS — Over $170,000 has been disbursed by the Ohio Vietnam Veterans Bonus Commission to Fayette Countians in the four months since funds became available June 7, according to John W. Bush, commission director.

Bush said 475 claims have been paid in Fayette County for a total of $177,626.40 since June.

A total of $83,030,234.10 has been disbursed to veterans in Ohio's 88 counties to date.

"That figure," Bush said, "represents more than 205,000 claims paid to veterans and next-of-kin of deceased veterans around the world."

BUSH SAID that in Ohio 172,217 checks and educational assistance bonus entitlements have been distributed totaling $63,832,268.06.

"We are maintaining our schedule of mailing about 50,000 checks and entitlements each month," Bush stated, "which amounts to an average monthly disbursement of nearly $20,000,000 in bonus money by the commission."

Clark, 3,141 — $1,207,200.09; Clinton, 602 — $227,590.34; Greene, 1,982 — $745,158.05; Highland, 366 — $137,828.99; Madison, 584 — $219,490.02; Pickaway, 883 — $323,058.94; and Ross, 1,242 — $458,842.11.

The $83,030,234.10 total to Ohio's 88 counties includes an Ohio total of $63,832,268.06 and an out-of-state total of $14,511,905.59 for total cash paid of $78,344,173.65. Educational entitlements outstanding total $4,686,060.45, according to Bush.

Paper clip shortage hits Middletown

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP) — A paper clip shortage has hit this southwestern Ohio city.

"We've been out for months," said Jim Ashcraft of Office Outfitters, Inc., the city's major supplier of office equipment.

The manager of another paper clip distributorship said his supply was draining fast.

Cletus Hornback of Consolidated, Inc., said he understood the reason is that metal wire companies have abandoned clips for more profitable items.

BICYCLE BUILT FOR TWELVE — The riders of the 12-seat quadricycle, members of a bowling team in Vreden, West Germany, built it themselves for transport to and from the local bowling alley. It is reported that the consumption of fuel (beer) is rather high.

TV Viewing

NEW YORK (AP) — Suppose they gave a two-night party costing more than $1 million and nobody came? Well, that is roughly what's happened to ABC-TV on Friday and Saturday nights ever since the 1974-75 season began.

The NBC-CBS competition has proved just too rough, and ABC, in a hurry-up effort to salvage some ratings, has retooled and revamped its Friday-Saturday program schedule after only a month of the new season.

It has canceled two new halfhour shows — "Kodiak," which has its last run tonight, and "Texas Wheelers," halted after last Friday — and rolled in hit movie reruns to temporarily fill the ratings breach.

Tonight, for example, ABC has "True Grit" making its third network appearance. Next Friday, "Guns of Navarone" also makes its third network showing, while on Oct. 25 "Hatari" appears for the fourth time.

On Nov. 1, ABC's new — and it hopes improved — Friday lineup of weekly series begins, starting with "Kung Fu," which is becoming sort of a floating spirit on television. Last season, it aired Thursday nights and was shifted this season to Saturday nights. Now, it'll try Fridays.

It had good ratings last year and ABC hopes it'll regain them in its new home, thus giving a strong lead-in — a large audience — to "Six Million Dollar Man" and "The Night Stalker," both of which remain on ABC's Friday night schedule.

About Saturday nights: the current ABC lineup of "The New Land," "Kung Fu" and "Nakia" will continue to struggle against CBS' powerhouse lineup and NBC's wares until Oct. 26, when a patchwork schedule arrives.

"Nakia" will be the only regular in that schedule, and it'll temporarily withdraw the night of Nov. 16, when "Where Eagles Dare," a Clint Eastwood-Richard Burton thriller, is the only offering.

Spaghetti Westerns starring Eastwood — "Hang 'Em High" and "For a Few Dollars More" — will share the bill with "Nakia" the nights of Oct. 26 and Nov. 2.

Come Nov. 9, "Nakia" will be preceded by ABC's third repeat of "Brian's Song," the madefor-TV film about the late football star Brian Piccolo, and by "Cricket in Times Square," a half-hour children's special.

ABC's regular Saturday night schedule — until midseason replacements are announced — resumes Nov. 23, starting with "The New Land," which has been at the bottom of the ratings pile ever since the season began.

Then will come special news and entertainment programs for an hour, followed by "Nakia."

USDA studies policy changes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department is considering changes in a $2 billion emergency livestock program passed by Congress last summer so that more farmers can qualify for assistance.

But a spokesman for the Farmers Home Administration said Thursday that no decisions have been made and that only "various proposals are in the works" which would modify the loan qualifications.

The loan apparatus adopted by USDA has been under criticism from many livestock producers and farm belt members of Congress virtually since the program was announced in late July.

One of the criticisms has been that USDA apparently has dragged its feet in clearing loans to livestock producers. Congress designed the plan to help qualified farmers and ranchers recover from losses incurred by high costs of feed and other expenses at a time when the livestock prices were depressed.

Under the law, the Farmers Home Administration can underwrite or guarantee up to 80 per cent of loans producers get from banks and other private sources to a maximum of $250,000 for any individual borrower. Although Congress set a $2 billion limit for the entire program, USDA officials said that as of Oct. 4 only 165 loans had been cleared for a total of less than $24.8 million in 24 states.

Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., wrote Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz on Oct. 1 and charged USDA was not carrying out the loan program as Congress intended. Dole said one of the hangups apparently involves how the department defines livestock producers.

Under the department's rules, an eligible borrower must be in the livestock business and devote "a major portion of his time" to the enterprise.

An aide to Dole said that stipulation rules out many smaller farmers who actually spend the majority of their time in crop production and other chores but who have also suffered by the crunch on livestock profits.

Dole is running for Senate reelection against Rep. Bill Roy, D-Kan., in what observers in Kansas say is a tough campaign. An aide to Roy said his office has not received complaints from Kansas livestock producers but added that Roy may have run across them in his travels in the state.

Meantime, Rep. Peter A. Peyser, R-N.Y., introduced a bill this week in the House which would cut the $2 billion livestock loan authorization to $1 billion. Peyser, who represents a largely suburban district near New York City, led an unsuccessful floor fight against the bill in the House last summer.

THESE SMILING FACES — will beam up at your front doorstep from 1 p.m. through 4 p.m. Sunday and ask for a donation for the Washington C.H. Community Chest campaign. Some 200 Camp Fire Girls will canvass the city, attempting to raise $28,000 which will be put to use in 10 different areas including Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, Community Activity Fund, the Mental Health Association, Eyman Park, Red Cross, the Salvation Army, Senior Citizens and the Community Education program. The four ward chairman assisting the drive are Jean Yarger, Mrs. Ralph Tate, Mrs. Leo Shepler and Dorothy Sanderson. Grain sale delay hurts Ohio farmers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— President Ford's delay of grain sales to the Soviet Union will mean another setback to Ohio farmers, according to an Ohio State University agricultural economist.

Dr. John W. Sharp, professor of agricultural economics and rural sociology at Ohio State University, said Ohio farmers now receive 50 per cent of their cash income from the sale of grains and are geared to produce to an export market.

"For the last 18 months, we have been in a true free-market situation with all the economies of the world, but now we are back into controlled agriculture," he said.

Sharp said he believes consumer demand prompted the Ford announcement last week.

"The object of the decision was to create the easing of the demand situation to depress consumer prices," he said. "The farmer just can't make it."

He said the reasoning behind the grain sale delay was that fulfilling grain sale agreements to the Soviet Union would deplete U.S. supplies and raise prices to consumers.

But, he estimated, 55 per cent of the soybean produce is earmarked for overseas markets, 65 to 75 per cent of the wheat and 30 per cent of the corn sold by farmers.

If farmers can export only when the government says they can, the government, in effect, is controlling grain prices through export restriction, he said.

The sales halt may give temporary relief to livestock, dairy and poultry feeders, but the overall effect will be a reduction of cash income to all Ohio farmers, he said.

"Soybeans are the largest single contributor to farm income (in Ohio)," the economist said, exceeding dairy and livestock.

He said that following Ford's announcement, Ohio farm prices dropped the daily limit— 20 cents a bushel—two straight days at the Chicago Board of Trade.

No newsmen for Soviet space shot

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union plans to bar American newsmen from viewing the launching of Russian cosmonauts during next year's joint U.S.-Soviet space mission. But Russian newsmen will be welcome at Cape Canaveral for the liftoff of the American astronauts.

That policy has emerged from 18 months of negotiations during which Space Agency officials said the Soviets repeatedly rejected requests that they open their launch site at Baykonur to U.S. reporters.

But, the NASA officials said, aside from Baykonur, the Soviets have agreed to open up their space program as never before on this mission — providing the same type coverage characteristic of the U.S. program.

America has a completely open policy on its scientific and manned space projects.

The Russians have promised to provide live voice and television throughout their segment of the mission from liftoff to splashdown, something they've never done before. But reporters wishing to cover the flight in Russia will be restricted to a press site in downtown Moscow.

The Associated Press has protested the action on behalf of its members.

A document on press coverage of the Apollo-Soyuz flight will be signed later this month by James C. Fletcher, administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, and officials of the Soviet Academy of Sciences.

It will not specifically state that American newsmen can't go to Baykonur, but will say that each country can accredit whom it wants at the launch site.

The fastest snake is the black mamba which can travel at about 15 m.p.h.

Kissinger continues peace mission

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Secretary of State Henry Kissinger arrived from Egypt today on the second leg of his latest Middle East peace mission. He was preceded by a bomb blast in an American office and denunciations by Palestinian guerrillas.

The secretary's arrival was delayed half an hour by an accidental discharge of a submachine gun aboard his U.S. Air Force jetliner. A Secret Service agent suffered minor wounds in the scalp and right forearm.

The incident occured when the Israeli-made weapon toppled from a rack in the rear of the plane as it taxied at Cairo airport. Kissinger hurried to the front cabin as the wounded agent, Walter Boche of Alexandria, Va., called out: "Don't worry about me. Check the secretary."

Kissinger was met at the Damascus airport by Syrian Foreign Minister Abdul Halim Khaddam. He was scheduled for talks with Khaddam and Syrian President Hafez Assad before moving on to Jordan tonight.

Seventeen hours earlier, a bomb destroyed the offices of the National Cash Register Co., killing a Syrian woman employe and wounding another.

In Beirut, the guerrilla news agency WAFA said Kissinger's hands were stained with the blood of crimes committed in Chile, Cyprus and Indochina. "He is coming to the Mideast with a new crime, supplying Israel with $5 billion of aid," WAFA said.

Kissinger arrived from Cairo "encouraged" by President Anwar Sadat of Egypt on the prospects of restarting Arab-Israeli peace talks, but without a firm agreement.

The American secretary, on his sixth Middle East peace mission since the October war a year ago, indicated Thursday night after a 2½-hour session with Sadat that the opposing sides remain far from agreement on peace negotiations.

Local man fined after changing plea

A Washington C.H. man was fined $100 in Municipal Court Thursday after changing a plea of innocent to guilty.

John L. Penrod, 22, of 202 W. Oak St., had been charged with possession of marijuana. He withdrew a request for a jury trial in the case Oct. 1.

Acting Judge John P. Case fined Penrod $200 and 30 days in jail Thursday after the change of plea. One-hundred dollars and the jail sentence was suspended pending one year good conduct.

Debbie Oyer, 66 Lincoln St., Bloomingburg, was fined $100 and restitution of a bad check passed at Seaway, CCC Highway-W Thursday by Judge Case.

A 30-day jail sentence was suspended on one year good conduct. Ms. Over pleaded guilty to the charge.

Charles Curnutt, 35, of 620½ N. North St., was fined $50 Thursday after pleading innocent to a charge of assault.

Emrum W. Lynch, 56, of 717 N. North St. pleaded innocent to a charge of leaving the scene of an accident and was fined $50 by Judge Case Thursday.

In one other traffic case, Dwight D. Bethards, 55, Orient, forfeited $60 bond on a charge of driving the wrong way on a divided highway.

Bomb threat investigated

A bomb threat was phoned into the Washington C. H. Fire Department at 2 p.m. Thursday, but it was not a threat on the department.

The anonymous called reported a bomb at Mac Tool Inc., but did not indicate whether it was the Washington C. H. plant or the one in Sabina.

Deputy quits post to operate bakery

Fayette County Sheriff Donald L. Thompson announced today that deputy Gary Sword will be leaving the Fayette County Sheriff's Department November 1.

Sword, who has served in the department's jail and communications division since December 1, 1971, has submitted his resignation and is planning to enter a private business venture.

Sword and his wife, Darlene, who reside on CCC Highway-E, have purchased the Henry's Pastry Shop, 317 S. Main St., from Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Kelley and plan to continue the shop's operation under that name.

In a formal letter of resignation to Sheriff Thompson, Sword expressed his appreciation for the opportunity to serve in the department and especially the chance to serve the people of Fayette County. He stressed the nedd for professionalism in law enforcement and felt the chance to serve in the local agency has given him a special advantage in his forthcoming business venture.

Sheriff Thompson said that Sword "has been an exceptional officer and that no replacement has been made in the position at this time."

Girl bitten by rabid dog critical

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP)—A 6-year-old Navajo-Sioux girl bitten by a rabid dog while visiting her grandmother two weeks ago in Window Rock, Ariz., was in 'critical, fairly stable' condition Thursday.

Kathy Roubideaux of Mission, S.D., admitted early Monday to Bernalillo County Medical Center with a confirmed case of rabies, was experiencing "some breathing difficulties, but it does not appear to be serious at this time," said BCMC administrator Fred Mondragon.

"We are monitoring her very carefully, and we have respirators to take over breathing," he said.

Mondragon said the breathing difficulties developed Thursday morning.

After her illness was confirmed, Dr. Michael Hattwick of the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, Ga., flew here Tuesday to oversee Kathy's care.

Hattwick treated the only known rabies survivor in the United States — a boy in Ohio.

Restored hideaway ready for rentals

Ohioans now have an opportunity to spend up to two weeks in a former President's hideaway.

Natural Resources director William B. Nye today announced that reservations are being accepted at Deer Creek State Park in Fayette and Pickaway counties for rental of the recently-restored "Hardin Cabin."

The one and a half story cabin was constructed at the close of World War I by Harry M. Daugherty, a Washington C. H. native and U.S. Attorney General under President Warren G. Harding.

THE CABIN, built on the banks of Deer Creek about 15 miles northeast of Washington C. H., was said to be a secluded gathering place for friends and supporters of Harding. It popped into the national limelight after scandals were uncovered during and after Harding's term.

The Ohio Department of Natural Resources began renovating the structure in the fall of 1972 to save it from being razed by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and preserve a unique legacy of Ohio and national history.

The Corps built a dam and created a lake on Deer Creek between 1965 and 1968 as a flood control project, and later cooperated with Department of Natural Resources in developing recreational facilities for the 7,006-acre Deer Creek State Park.

The Harding Cabin will rent for $210 a week, $40 for one day or $30 a day for two or more days. It can be rented by the week or day during the off season, but only by the week — with a maximum of two weeks — between Memorial Day and Labor Day. The cabin is equipped to sleep seven people, but can sleep as many as 10 if folding cots are used.

Reservations may be made up to a year in advance by writing to Deer Creek State Park, Rt. 1, Mt. Sterling, or calling the park at (614) 869-2124. A reservation deposit of $20 is required. The rental week will extend from 4 p.m. Saturday to 10 a.m. the next Saturday.

Nye said the $42,120 renovation did not change the basic structure of the 35 by 50-foot cabin or the layout of the rooms. New furniture, furnishings and equipment have been installed at an additional cost of $7,611.

The dining room has a cathedral ceiling, allowing a striking view of the room from a balcony adjacent to the upstairs bedrooms, he said. The rustic living room, complete with stone fireplace, is next to the dining room and just under two of the three bedrooms.

Behind the living room is a kitchen and bathroom. The cabin also has a basement and a 50-foot back porch with a view of the lake.

Nye said the renovation included new cedar siding on the outside walls, cedar shingles for the roof and insulation to make the cabin ready for winter accommodations.

New interior oak floors and red oak paneling were installed, he explained. The original stone fireplace was repaired, and the massive wooden beams were refinished.

"The new wood we added inside and outside not only preserved the rustic mood of the cabin but also assured years of maintenance-free usage because of its quality," Nye said.

To make cabin vacations more comfortable, the kitchen was completely refurbished with all new cabinets, an electric range, a refrigerator and a dishwasher. The bathroom also was modernized.

NEW HEATING and air conditioning equipment was added to make the cabin comfortable year-round for visitors. Completely new plumbing and electrical equipment was installed for the safety and convenience of guests.

Quality furniture, draperies and other interior accessories were selected to enhance the provincial atmosphere, Nye explained.

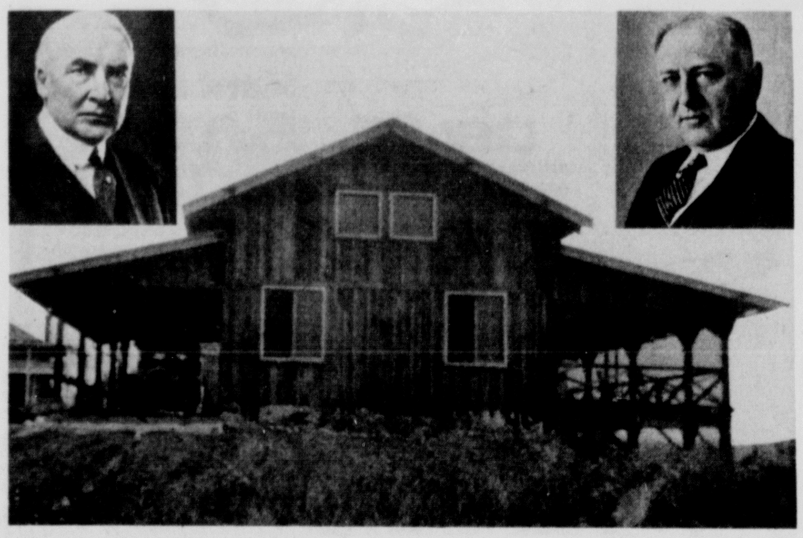

Seven persons can sleep comfortably in the cabin. The main bedroom has a double bed and a single bed, each of the two smaller bedrooms has a single bed and a couch in the living room converts to a queen-size bed.

Deer Creek State Park also has a 1,700-foot sand beach with bathhouse and concession stand, boat launching ramps, picnic areas and 232 Class A campsites.

CABIN RESTORED — The Hardin Cabin, now part of the 7,006-acre Deer Creek State Park in Fayette and Pickaway counties, has been carefully restored to retain the rustic flavor of its past. However, the cabin now boasts a completely modern kitchen and bath as well as a new heating and air conditioning system to assure year-round comfort for guests. Natural Resources Director William B. Nye (left) discusses details of the renovation project with park manager Roger O'Dell.

Lottery winner takes things easy

CONNEAUT, Ohio (AP)—A retiree who has heart trouble and a widow who has been living on $996 a year from Social Security are among those who got heart balm from Thursday's Ohio Lottery drawing.

Frank P. McNellie, 65, of Geneva was the big winner, hitting the $300,000 top prize in the Buckeye 300 drawing.

McNellie said he won't do much celebrating right now because of his heart condition but may do a little traveling later.

Because of the heart troubles, McNellie retired five years ago from his job as an automobile service manager. He said he and his wife, Rose, have been living on his Social Security and her salary as an automobile title clerk in Painesville.

McNellie said their six children also will share in the winnings.

He said he had made no plans in advance for spending the $300,000 because "I never count my eggs before they are hatched."

"I never won anything before," he said, adding that when he won the $15,000 prize, "I thought that was as far as it would go.

"I didn't think a person could be that lucky."

He was one of eight persons who went into the Buckeye 300 drawing assured of winning $15,000.

William Chisley of Cincinnati won $60,000, and Clara T. Miller of Ottawa won $30,000.

Mrs. Miller, a widow with three sons, has been living on Social Security checks totaling $996 a year.

The five $15,000 winners included Neil Coonrad of Monroeville, Ind.; Harry G. Hansen, Fairview Park; Edward Kurtz, Elyria; Martha Rosengarten, Covington, and Pasquale Cassano of Cleveland.

Fourteen more contestants were picked for the lottery's first millionaire drawing Oct. 27.

That brings to 58 the number eligible for the drawing for $1 million. A total of 100 contestants are to be picked.

Pollution alert called in Ohio

By The Associated Press

Steubenville and surrounding counties remained under an air pollution alert today as a stagnant air mass trapped a mixture of sulfur dioxide and particulants over the area.

The pollution index reading for the 24 hours prior to 5 a.m. Thursday was 296. An alert is declared by the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency when the index reaches 200, and a warning begins at 300.

At each stage industries are asked to curtail certain pollution-causing operations.

The alert was in effect for Jefferson, Columbiana, Belmont and Monroe counties.

Fayette County voters will be deciding the fate of six local issues when they go to the polls during the November 5 general election.

Perhaps the most controversial among the six issues to be decided is the 1.25 per cent income tax proposed by members of Washington C. H. City Council.

CITY COUNCIL members have proposed to reduce property taxes by 4.30 mills in exchange for the 1.25 per cent income tax.

City officials expect the 1.25 per cent income tax, if approved by Washington C. H. voters on November 5, to raise $551,357.66. The city solons have said 34.35 per cent ($160,493.20) of the additional revenue raised through the income tax will be used as relief from existing property taxes which will be eliminated.

Ten per cent ($55,200) of the additional income tax funds will be used to defray all costs of collecting the taxes and the cost of administering and enforcing the provisions of the ordinance.

Forty per cent of the proposed income tax would go to the general fund, 20 per cent to police, 20 per cent to the fire department and 20 per cent for street maintenance.

Officials feel a reduction of property tax would provide financial relief for those Washington C. H. residents on fixed incomes.

The last city income tax ordinance, which placed into effect a one per cent tax on personal income and net profits of business and industry on April 1, 1971, was challenged and beaten by an initiative petition which called for the repeal of the tax.

Washington C. H. voters turned down the city's income tax in the November 1971 election by casting a 58 per cent majority for the repeal of the ordinance. The vote was 2,360-1,655 and only one city precinct favored retaining the tax.

School officials expect the three-mill operating levy to generate approximately $210,000 annually. The proposed junior high school bond issue would yield nearly $2,250,000 with the debt to be retired over a 22-year period.

APPROXIMATELY two-thirds of the new income generated by the additional operating levy would be used for salary increases and related expenses for teachers in the Miami Trace School District.

The proposed new junior high school building is expected to cost about $2 million to construct. The additional $250,000 raised by the 2.49-mill bond issue would be spent on the repair and meaintenance of existing buildings in the district.

crowded conditions in many buildings, forcing use of storage rooms and basements as classrooms and causing transportation problems in an attempt to balance class loads, and poor overall conditions of elementary and junior high buildings in the system.

The Fayette County Board of Mental Retardation is seeking approval of a .65-mill additional tax levy to supplement its present .35-mill operating levy. The .65-mill is scheduled to expire in 1977.

The Fayette Progressive School, formerly situated in the Washington Junior High School building, recently relocated to the old Sunnyside Elementary School building on S. Fayette Street.

School officials have experienced increased costs in rent and utilities and enrollment has jumped from 23 to 41 pupils. The school has a 14-member staff.

The school hopes to launch an adult services program since Fayette County is one of four Ohio counties presently not offering adult classes.

The .35-mill levy produces 64 per cent of the school's $61,000 annual budget or approximately $37,000 per year. The school also receives tuition from the Washington C. H. and Miami Trace school districts at a rate of $38 per month per student and a $450 per pupil reimbursement from the state.

Members of Washington C. H. City Council and the Washington C. H. Area Chamber of Commerce board of directors have endorsed the Fayette Progressive School's levy request.

Fayette County voters will also be deciding a fire levy renewal and a question of the sale of spirituous liquor by the glass for a township.

JEFFERSON TOWNSHIP voters will be asked to decide a one-mill proposed tax levy for the renewal of fire protection services in that township. The one-mill tax levy will be for a five-year period.

POINT PLEASANT, W.Va. (AP) — Bursts of black powder peppered the air here Thursday for the bicentennial celebration of the Battle of Point Pleasant, considered by some West Virginians as the first battle of the American Revolution.

Traditional historians say the first battle of the Revolution was actually fought six months later at Lexington and Concord in Massachusetts.

But there are those, mostly local history buffs, who contend that the Indian Wars battle fought here was really the first military defiance of British rule.

A Virginia militia force of 1,000 men under the command of Col. Andrew Lewis defeated a similar size army of Indians led by Chief Cornstalk in the historic conflict.

Many decendants of those expansionist-minded Virginia militiamen still live in the surrounding Mason County area and were in attendance at the ceremonies.

"The battle waged here triggered the drama of gaining our national independence of the British crown," said Gov. Arch A. Moore Jr. at the dedication Thursday of the reconstructed Fort Randolph.

But he did not quite go all the way in declaring it the first Revolution battle.

While the ceremonies were going on, the names of the fallen Virginians were being read in the United State Senate.

Sen. Robert Griffin of Michigan, the minority whip, arranged for the reading in cooperation with West Virginia Sens. Jennings Randolph and Robert C. Byrd, both Democrats.

The reconstructed Fort Randolph was built at a cost of $99,000 for the bicentennial.

Wine rites called off

VEVAY, Ind. (AP) — Crowd control problems have forced the Vevay Town Board to abolish its popular Swiss Wine Festival.

The town board took the action after crowds of over 50,000 turned out for annual summer festival this year.

Board members, by a 2-1 vote, ruled that the town would permit "no more Swiss Wine Festivals or any festival of similar detail."

Festival organizers proposed a non-drinking festival, but local police officials said that proposal would be difficult to enforce.

Plans for another type of next August are to be discussed by the town board at a later date.

Puzzling situation in SCOL

By LARRY WATTS
Record-Herald Sports Editor

Attempting to figure out the possibilities of this week's results on the South Central Ohio League race, would be like trying to work on a crossword puzzle.

One of the possibilities could leave Washington and Miami Trace breaking away from the pack and making this year's race for the SCOL crown a two team affair. Both the Lions, who play Wilmington, and Panthers, who travel to Circleville, are undefeated in league play. By handing losses to the Hurricane and Tigers, the remaining teams, except for the winner of the Greenfield and Unioto game, will have two losses in the league.

However, should Wilmington and Circleville each pull off victories, five SCOL teams will each have one loss. Then, the schools would be nearly back where they started from at the opening of the season.

Confused? There is also the possibility of what would happen if the Lions win and the Panthers lose or if the Lions lose and the Panthers win. Whatever the case, it is time to look at this week's slate.

WASHINGTON C.H. AT WILMINGTON

How much the Lions' offensive unit continues to improve and how well the defense of the Lions can contain Wilmington halfbacks Jackie Watson and Bob Scott could possibly decide the outcome of the contest.

Washington, the defending SCOL champion, is presently leading the league with a 2-0 mark and they are 4-1 for the season. The Hurricane are 1-1 in the SCOL and 3-2 for the year.

Watson and Scott are the headliners of the Wilmington offesnse. Watson has rushed for 504 yards and a 6.9 average in 73 carries. Scott has 226 yards in 34 carries for a 6.65 average per carry.

The effectiveness of Watson and Scott in the backfield is increased by the presence of fullback Russ Crosthwaite and quarterback Duane Earley. Crosthwaite is used on the power play up the middle, while Earley has proven himself to be a fine runner and an adequate passer.

Quarterback Jeff Brown will be heading the attack for the Lions. Brown leads the league in passing as he has connected on 21 of 41 passes for 381 yards.

Most of the Lions' running attack is supported by sophomore Leroy Wilson. In 91 carries, Wilson has chalked up 253 yards.

MIAMI TRACE AT CIRCLEVILLE

Both the Panthers and Tigers are fresh off impressive victories last week. Miami Trace powdered Hillsboro 50-6 and Circleville bested Wilmington 28-12.

Circleville is regarded as having the quickest team in the league. Last week, the Tigers' defense held Wilmington's Watson to just 36 yards in 12 carries.

Offensively, tailback Biff Bumgarner crashed into the top five rushing leaders with his performance last week. In the game against the Hurricane, Bumgarner toted the ball 28 times for 236 yards and four touchdowns. He now has 449 yards in 80 carries.

Fullback Jeff Sagar and quarterback Tom Riley have been pacing the Panthers' offense this year. Sagar, who has scored 50 points, has 564 yards in 87 carries. Riley has completed 21 of 42 passes for 261 yards and has carried the ball 61 times for 273 yards.

Miami Trace is presently 4-1 overall and 1-0 in the SCOL. Circleville is 3-2 overall and 1-1 in the league.

UNIOTO AT GREENFIELD

The loser of this match is expected to be knocked out of the league title picture. Both teams are carrying 1-1 marks in the league and are 3-2 for the season.

After gaining 424 yards in his first three games, Tiger tailback Gary Barr has been held to 61 and 85 yards, respectively, in his last two outings. However, Barr still leads the league in rushing with 570 yards in 148 carries.

Greenfield's defense, which has already recorded three shutouts, will be concentrating on the Shermans' Dan Anders and Bob Matson. Anders has 343 yards in 80 carries and Matson has toted the ball 53 times for 334 yards.

Last week, the Tigers met their first defeat in the league when the Lions gave them a taste of their own medicine with a 18-0 shutout. On the other hand, Unioto destroyed Westfall 35-8.

ADENA AT HILLSBORO

This week's non-league action finds the Warriors of the Scioto Valley Conference making the venture to the Indians' field. Adena is 3-2 for the year, while Hillsboro is 2-3 overall.

Since this is a non-league battle, Hillsboro is expected to be experimenting with some important changes in their offensive attack. After losing the first two league games, it is expected that quarterback Don Marsh will be seeing action at end this week, while Tyler Woods will be tried out as the signal caller.

Oklahoma favored over Texas

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

Awesome Oklahoma, winner of its last two games by an amazing combined score of 135-3, will seek to maintain that momentum Saturday against upset-minded Texas in one of the feature games on this weekend's college football schedule.

While top-rated Ohio State has the home field advantage Saturday for its Big Ten encounter with 13th-ranked Wisconsin, the No. 2 Oklahoma Sooners must travel to Dallas to take on the Texas Longhorns, rated 17th.

"They've really got an outstanding football team," said Texas Coach Darrell Royal, who has a 12-5 coaching record against the Sooners.

A Texas official said 150,000 tickets could have been sold for the 69th meeting of the schools, which will be played before a sellout crowd of 72,000 at the Cotton Bowl. The series began in 1900 and although Oklahoma has won the last three games, Texas leads 42-24-2 over-all.

Oklahoma, 3-0, has been established as a three-touchdown favorite, and a look at the national statistics explains why. The Sooners are No. 1 in scoring with 54.3 points per game; No. 1 in total offense with 584.3 yards per game; No. 1 in rushing offense with 488.3 yards per game; No. 2 in total defense, allowing just 165 yards per game, and No. 3 in scoring defense, giving up only 4.3 points per game.

Wisconsin is also an underdog as it goes against Ohio State, even though Wisconsin is coming off an impressive 59-20 romp over Missouri.

Tailback Archie Griffin leads the Ohio State attack. Griffin, a junior, gained 196 yards against Washington State, the 15th consecutive time he has passed the 100 mark.

In the only other game this weekend pairing teams in the top 20, No. 9 Texas Tech, 3-0-1, visits No. 16 Texas A&M, 3-1, in a nationally televised Southwest Conference clash.

The Aggies lost to Kansas 28-10 last week and dropped from ninth to 16th.

No. 3 Alabama, No. 4 Michigan, No. 5 Nebraska and No. 6 Notre Dame all have home games Saturday, and are rated as solid favorites. Alabama, 40, plays Florida State; Michigan, 4-0, takes on Michigan State; Nebraska, 3-1 opposes Missouri, and Notre Dame, 3-1, meets Rice.

Problems continue to plague WFL

by CRAIG AMMERMAN
AP Sports Writer

For those trying to keep up with the continuing serial of the infant World Football League, here's the latest:

—The league reduced itself to 10 playing teams Thursday by removing the Jacksonville and Detroit franchises from the remainder of the 1974 schedule, but not from the league itself.

—Two of the 10 playing teams called separate news conferences to deny what they called rumors that they would move to other cities.

—Two other WFL teams have already moved in this first troubled season, and yet another is being operated by the league, which is under a court order not to move the club.

Despite all that, WFL offcials claim the league's future is strong.

It did not appear that way Thursday.

The series of developments that began in Philadelphia were concluded late in the day in California when Commissioner Gary Davidson, who also created the World Hockey Association and American Basketball Association, announced that the Jacksonville and Detroit franchises were being removed from the 1974 schedule with five games to go.

But Davidson said the two teams, which between them have lost a reported $4 million, were not folding. He said plans to draft players from those two teams by the other franchises had been scrapped because "several potential investors have indicated that they wish to keep the teams intact for a fresh start next year."

Davidson also did not say if, when or whether Detroit and Jacksonville players would be paid, although he has previously said all contracts would be honored by the league. Players on both squads have gone weeks without getting a check.

Meanwhile, there were these other developments Thursday:

—In Orlando, the Florida Blazers, who originally were located in Washington, were protected by a court order from being moved by the league. However, the team, which is deeply in debt and has tried unsuccessfully to move to Atlanta, is being operated by the league.

—In Memphis, Leo Cahill, general manager of the Southmen, called a news conference to say, "I want to reiterate that we came to Memphis to play and stay and we are going to stay." The franchise originally was located in Toronto.

—In Philadelphia, John Blsaccob, president of the Bell, also called a news conference to announce his team was not leaving that city.

Davidson said scheduling problems created by removing Jacksonville and Detroit from the rest of 1974 would be solved by having the two teams which were to play those teams play each other instead.

And at the same time he announced that six of the league's 10 playing clubs would qualify for a post-season playoff series to be culminated by the championship game, called the World Bowl.

Hunter, Andrews take aim at Oakland's Charles Finley

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jim "Catfish" Hunter, it seems, has thrown a curve at Charles O. Finley, and Mike Andrews has thrown a high, hard one.

The Oakland A's owner may not be able to handle either pitch.

Finley, usually up to his baseball cap in controversy, hasn't even opened his mouth on the eve of the 1974 World Series — but still finds his foot in it.

Hunter, a 25-game winner this season while helping the A's capture the American League pennant, reportedly wants to leave the team after the World Series with the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Hunter, according to a newspaper story, claims that Finley has failed to pay half of his $100,000 salary for 1974.

Reached at a downtown Los Angeles hotel Thursday night, Hunter would neither confirm nor deny the report.

"I'm not saying anything at this time," Hunter said — or rather didn't say.

"I don't want to talk," he added.

Jim Bank, the A's traveling secretary, said he had "heard the story about Hunter ... but you'll have to talk to Mr. Finley about it."

Mr. Finley was unavailable for comment.

The Chicago Sun-Times' story said Hunter had notified Finley a month ago that he planned to become a free agent on Oct. 21, the day after the completion of the World Series, should it last seven games.

Hunter said he received $50,000 of his salary in the regular bi-weekly installments, but Finley refused to pay the remaining $50,000. He said he first asked Finley for payments two months ago and the Oakland owner has since failed to answer three letters.

The final letter a month ago said Hunter planned to declare himself a free agent.

Hunter could have declared himself a free agent 10 days after the first missed payment but delayed his action to participate in the American League playoffs and the World Series.

Meanwhile, No. 2 pitcher Ken Holtzman and No. 3 pitcher Vida Blue are also apparently not overjoyed with playing for Oakland.

Holtzman has said throughout most of the season that he plans to retire this year, and Blue, one-time ace of Finley's staff, was quoted as saying once: "The only time I'm happy here is when I get my paycheck."

Earlier Thursday, Andrews filed a $2.5 million suit in Alameda County Superior Court against Finley for defamation of character. He alleges that he has been held up to "public scorn, contempt, ridicule and disgrace" because of his treatment by Finley in last year's World Series.

Slow starts don't faze Bengals

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Bengals may be slow getting started, but once they get moving it's Clockwork Orange.

Ranked third in National Football League scoring, the orange-clad Bengals offense hasn't scored a point in the first quarter.

"We're just a slow starting team," said defensive end Sherman White, "but once we get it all going we're tough."

White ventures the Bengals will have to repair that breakdown Sunday when they attempt to win their first game ever in Cleveland.

The Browns, 1-3, are off to one of their worst starts in years, but showed flashes of their former thunder when they built a 17-7 first quarter lead against Oakland, before losing 40-24.

"It's just something that happens. I know this; we're busting our tails from the start in every game," said Brown, who has the Bengals off to one of the fastest starts in their seven-year history.

"You do things early in the game to test out their defensive strategy. When you have complete knowledge of their defensive game plan you direct your attack accordingly," said Walsh, who handles quarterbacks and receivers.

The results, after the first quarter, have been impressive.

The Bengals put together drives of 80 and 66 yards in the second and third quarter against San Diego, went 84, 88 and 75 against San Francisco and marched 84 against the defensive-minded Washington Redskins last week.

Robinson's selection revives sad memories

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

NEW YORK (AP) — Selection of Frank Robinson last week as the first Negro manager in the major leagues revived sad memories of the black man's long struggle against racial bias on the diamond and restored some forgotten pages in baseball history.

"I am tired of reading that Jackie Robinson was the first black player to crash the major leagues," wrote an incensed buff from Phoenix, Ariz. "To put the record straight, Moses Fleet Walker was the first black to play major league baseball."

Joe Reichler, noted diamond historian and top aide to Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, acknowledges that there were three Negroes, including Walker, who played in the big leagues before 1900.

"To be technically correct, references to Jackie Robinson should identify him as the first black player in modern times," Reichler said.

The other two blacks credited with playing in the majors were Fleet Walker's kid brother, Weldy Walker, an outfielder, and a pitcher named George W. Stovey.

But Fleet Walker, a catcher, was certainly the most renowned and he occupies considerable space in the book "Only The Ball Was White" by Robert W. Peterson, a history of baseball's black pioneers.

Walker, born in Mt. Pleasant, Ohio, grew up in Oberlin, Ohio, a hotbed of Abolitionist sentiment and a stop on the Underground Railroad. He attended Oberlin College, studying mathematics, French, Greek, philosophy and other subjects. He was described as tall, slender, handsome and smart.

In 1883, he went into pro ball, joining a white team from Oberlin on the Toledo club of the Northwestern League. The next year Toledo entered the American Association, one of the then major leagues, and Fleet went with the franchise.

Fleet's kid brother, Weldy, got into the line-up in a series in Indianapolis when the Toledo team was shorthanded because of injuries. Stovey was the first outstanding black pitcher.

Fleet Walker was accepted by the white players but ran into problems when the team sought to play in Richmond and Louisville.

Before the Richmond series, he received a letter, warning, "We could mention the names of of 75 determined men who have sworn to mob Walker if he comes on the ground in a suit." There were similar threats from Louisville. Injuries kept Walker out of the line-up.

In 1901, John McGraw, then managing Baltimore, was impressed by one of the black bellboys at the team's training quarters in Hot Springs, Ark. The youngster's name was Charlie Grant.

McGraw renamed him Charlie Tokohama and sought to pass him off as full-blooded Cherokee. But Charlie Comiskey of the White Sox saw through the ruse and threatened to import a Chinaman. Thus ended Tokohama's major league career before it started.

Match play golf set

VIRGINIA WATER, England (AP) — American Jerry Heard went out on Wentworth's rainsoaked Burma Road course today in a bid to dent Gary Player's reputation as the world's match-play golf king.

The brilliant little South African is trying to win the Piccadilly World Match Play Championship for the sixth time in 11 years.

"He's the greatest match player I have ever seen and the fiercest competitor," said 22-year-old American Ben Crenshaw Player's first victim when the tournament started Thursday.

"He hit some great approaches and wedges, and his putting on these wet greens was tremendous.

"I think putting will be the deciding factor. If Player goes on sinking his putts he is going to be very difficult to beat."

All matches in the $72,000 elimination tournament are over 36 holes. Player beat Crenshaw 4 and 3, while Heard defeated Graham Marsh of Australia 4 and 2.

In the other first-round matches American Hale Irwin, the U.S. Open Champion, overcame Bob Charles of New Zealand 4 and 2, and Tony Jacklin crushed Peter Oosterhuis 7 and 6 in an all-British clash.

Cowboys, Rams win junior high games

Thursday's junior high action at Miami Trace marked the battles of the unbeatens and the winless. The cowboys kept their perfect record alive after three games by handing the Browns their first defeat in a 28-20 encounter. The Rams won their first game of the season by nipping the winless Bengals 14-12.

Scott Grooms fired three touchdown passes in carrying the Cowboys to their victory. After Carl Riley opened the scoring with a 36-yard run, Grooms tossed a 63-yard touchdown pass to Mark Dunn for the second touchdown of the first period. In the second half, Grooms hit Dunn with a 51-yard scoring play and threw a 15-yard touchdown pass to Ken Kingery. Riley ran the conversion after the second and third touchdowns.

The Browns scored a touchdown in each of the first three periods. Ed Forsythe tallied with a one-yard run in the first period. In the second frame, Duerrell Neitz crossed the goal line from one yard away. Neitz scored from the same distance in the third quarter and Forsythe ran the conversion.

All of the scoring between the Bengals and Rams was done in the first half. A safety proved to be the difference in the game as all of the conversion attempts failed.

Todd Delay tossed a 45-yard touchdown pass to Walter Hart for the Rams' touchdown in the first period. Before the period was over, the Rams also collected two points on the safety. The scoring by the Rams was completed on a 16-yard run by Robbie James in the second stanza.

John St. Clair scored both of the Bengals' touchdowns in the first period. His first touchdown came on a 25-yard run and his second came on a one-yard plunge.

Lions capture third shutout

Backed by the offensive punch of Jeff Elliott and an outstanding defensive effort, Washington's freshman squad topped Wilmington 14-0, Thursday evening.

Elliott scored all 14 points for the Lions. With eight minutes remaining in the second quarter, Elliott scored his first touchdown on a 77-yard run. In the third frame, Elliott romped into the endzone from 48 yards away and also scored the conversion.

In 11 carries Elliott picked up 158 yards. He now has 551 yards in 34 carries for the season and he has also scored 72 points.

Freshman coach Don Gibbs said his defense turned in another outstanding effort. In recording a 3-0 mark, the Lions' defense has yet to be scored on. Gibbs went on to single out defensive end Doug Stewart, invert Terry Wilson and downlinemen Duane Six and Gary Huysman for tremendous efforts against the Hurricane.

Next Thursday, the Lions' frosh will be hosting Circleville.

Ohio State, Miami face tough foes

Ohio State's unbeaten and untied Buckeyes, top-rated nationally for the last three weeks, entertain No. 13 Wisconsin in a battle of Big Ten coleaders.

Miami, undefeated but once tied in its last 16 games, opens defense of its Mid-American crown, providing dangerous Ohio University's homecoming opposition.

Ohio State, 4-0 overall and 1-0 in the conference, will unleash its punishing ground attack centered around Archie Griffin against the Big Ten's leading passer, Gregg Bohlig of Wisconsin.

Griffin, the national rushing leader, has rushed for more than 100 yards in 14 straight regular season games.

Miami's Redskins, with only a 7-7 tie at Purdue marring their four-game record, hit the road for the fourth straight week. Ohio, 1-1 in the MAC, needs a victory to preserve its flickering title hopes.

Surprising Toledo can keep its MAC lead with a third league triumph at Western Michigan, 0-2. Kent State, 1-1 in the conference, visits Bowling Green, 1-1.

In other major Ohio action, Dayton, 2-3, tangles with host Western Kentucky, the nation's third-ranked college division power, and Cincinnati, 3-1, draws a night game at Memphis State.

The Ohio Conference has its heaviest league schedule of 1974, with three Red Division contests and a single game in the Blue Division.

Other Red Division games send Wooster to Heidelberg and Otterbein to Marietta. In the Blue Division, Denison plays at Ohio Wesleyan.

Among Hoosier-Buckeye pairings, Bluffton goes to Anderson in the afternoon and Defiance journeys to Wilmington at night. Findlay plays outside the conference at Grand Valley, Mich.

In the President's Conference, Hiram entertains Carnegie-Mellon and John Carroll does the same for Washington and Jefferson.

Elsewhere, Ashland is at Northwood, Mich., Tennessee Tech at Youngstown, Capital at Ohio Northern, Mount Union at Oberlin, Hillsdale at Wittenberg, Case Western Reserve at Kenyon and Central State at Kentucky State in day games.

At night, Northern Michigan is at Akron.

Regatta set for Sunday

MADISON, Ind. (AP) — As many as 15 thunderboats may take part in Sunday's Madison Regatta, postponed from its traditional early summer running by April's devastating tornadoes.

The event, originally scheduled for July, was first canceled and later rescheduled in order to give the hard-hit Madison area a chance to begin rebuilding from the tornadoes that claimed 48 lives in Indiana.

Regatta officials say interest in the three-day program, which began with qualifying on the 2½-mile Ohio River course today, has been heavier than in past years.

A smooth river and cool weather could provide ideal conditions for records, and upwards of 100,000 persons may be on hand, covering the banks on both the Indiana and Ohio sides of the river.

Racing heats of 15 miles will be run through Saturday afternoon to select the field for Sunday's Indiana Governor's Cup race.

Defending champion Pay 'N Pak, driven by George Henley of Eatonville, Wash., already has wrapped up the 1974 national championship in unlimited hydroplane racing and is a heavy favorite to win here again.

East taking on power roll

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

Remember when the National Football League East divisions were considered the "weak sisters?"

How times have changed.

Dallas and Washington still are considered powers, but St. Louis and Philadelphia are one-two in the National Conference East race.

And, in the American Conference East, New England boasts a perfect record after four weekends of play and Buffalo is a contender for post-season play. The division also includes the New York Jets and the Miami Dolphins.

Dallas takes its faltering show on the road to St. Louis to meet the undefeated Cardinals this Sunday, while New England travels to New York to meet the Jets.

In other Sunday clashes, Miami is at Washington, Houston goes to Minnesota to meet the unbeaten Vikings, Pittsburgh is at Kansas City, Los Angeles takes on Green Bay at Milwaukee, Oakland is at San Diego, Cincinnati travels to Cleveland, Buffalo takes on Baltimore, Chicago journeys to Atlanta, the New York Giants are at Philadelphia and New Orleans is at Denver.

The Monday night game will have San Francisco at Detroit.

The Dallas Cowboys, 1-3, have won only once in four outings and need to get started soon or else count themselves out of another trip to the playoffs. St. Louis, 4-0, is off to its best start since 1966 when they won their first five games.

Philadelphia, continuing its drive towards respectibility, takes on a stumbling Giants team that is having, among other things, injury problems. The Eagles have captured their last three outings following an opening game defeat.

The Giants are 1-3 and have four starters who missed last week's game because of injuries.

New England, 4-0, has passer Jim Plunkett, averaging a touchdown for every nine passes, and running backs Sam Cunningham and Mack Herron. The Jets, 1-3, have passer Joe Namath and two changes in the defensive secondary that collapsed against the Miami Dolphins in the first half last week.

Quarterback changes will probably be made for the Pittsburgh-Kansas City contest. The Steelers, 2-1-1, may bench Joe Gilliam for Terry Bradshaw and Kansas City may go with veteran Len Dawson. Both Bradshaw and Dawson have been injured.

The Cincinnati-Cleveland clash is tradition, with Cincinnati, 3-1, appearing the stronger of the two. But Cleveland, 1-3, has a habit of winning the "Ohio Cup" battle.

O.J. Simpson has an injured leg that has hampered his running so far this year. But Buffalo, 3-1, has quarterback Joe Ferguson, the AFC's leading passer, and runner Jim Braxton, which is more than can be said for Baltimore, 0-4.

Washington, 2-2, will have Sonny Jurgensen calling the plays when the Redskins meet Miami, 3-1. Jurgensen will try to improve the Washington offense that has sputtered behind Billy Kilmer.

Another traditional clash sends Oakland, 3-1, to San Diego, 1-3. The Raiders are favored, but San Diego has found a potent offense.

Chicago, 2-2, is making noises like the Midway Monsters of old. With quarterback Gary Huff, rookie rusher Ken Grandberry and defensive lineman Wally Chambers, the Bears may hand Atlanta, 1-2, its fourth loss of the season. Another loss could be fatal to the career of Falcons Coach Norm Van Brocklin.

Dan Pastorini played last Sunday and may start this week for Houston, 1-3, along with rushers Vic Washington and Fred Willis. Minnesota, 4-0, doesn't have to try anyone new as Chuck Foreman has averaged 125 yards a game by rushing and receiving. He also leads the NFL in scoring.

Mileti offers sale of Cleveland arena

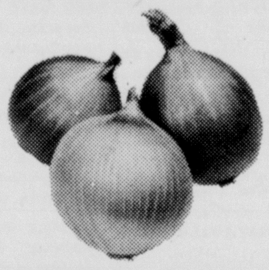

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— Cleveland sports promoter Nick Mileti has offered to sell the Arena to the Cleveland school system for $3 million for use as an athletic center.

School Board President Arnold Pinkney said Thursday the offer has been sent to the board's recreation committee and a report is expected by Oct. 24.

WHAS-AT NOISE?

The crickets crick and the tweety birds tweet on this nearly 7 acre country estate. You can hear them from your spacious ranch style home. It has three bedrooms, each with plenty of closets; two baths (one off master bedroom); large 13 x 22 living room; formal 12 x 12 dining room; modern kitchen with built-in range, twin self-cleaning ovens, dishwasher, and disposal and dinette area; 12½ x 21½ family room with woodburning fireplace; utility room; and office. You will appreciate the two car garage and the large barn. There is also a 20 ft. swimming pool. Most all the rooms are carpeted and the home has electric hot water heat.

Here is a fine home, only four years old, that will please most any buyer, and it is in great shape.

Three drivers charged in area auto mishaps

"Failure to yield right of way" caused three accidents Thursday, Washington C.H. police officers and Fayette County Sheriff's deputies reported. The three drivers involved were cited for the offense, but their accidents caused no reported injuries.

An accident involving cars driven by Lucinda M. Sagar, 43, of 116 Gardner Court and John W. Briggs, 74, of 331 Western Ave., occurred at the intersection of Hinde and Elm streets at 8:10 a.m. Thursday, police reported.

Briggs was charged with failure to yield right of way.

Severe damage was incurred by cars driven by Peggy J. Breakfield, 22, Johanne Drive and Albert A. Penwell, 28, New Holland, when they became involved in an accident at the intersection of U.S. 22 and Stuckey Road, at 4:46 p.m. Thursday, sheriff's deputies reported.

A car driven by Judson Bost, 57, Chillicothe and a car driven by Timothy L. Easton, 23, Rushsylvania, Pa., collided at the intersection of Ohio 207 and Cook-Yankeetown Road, at 4:10 p.m. Thursday.

Bost, who was cited by sheriff's deputies for failure to yield right of way, showed visible signs of injury at the accident scene, but was not treated according to hospital officials.

A truck pulling a tractor on a flatbed trailer, driven by Gary N. Webb, 33, of 4818 Ohio Rt. 207, was struck by a car driven by Rebecca J. Barrett, 23, Bloomingburg, at the intersection of West Road and U.S. 62, at 4:05 p.m. Thursday.

Sheriff's deputies cited Ms Barrett for failure to yield right of way and reported the trailer the Webb truck was pulling was owned by Charles Bliss of Mount Sterling. It was slightly damaged in the mishap.

Polish leader tours in U.S.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Edward Gierek, the first secretary of the Central Committee of the Polish Workers' Party, was due in Pittsburgh today as the guest of the University of Pittsburgh.

On a tour of U.S. cities to encourage trade and cultural exchanges, Gierek, the highest ranking Polish political officer, was then scheduled to go onto Ohio to visit a coal mine.

He was in Washington earlier this week to meet with President Ford and congressional leaders.

Police probe theft

The Fayette County Coon Hunter's Association is $742.93 poorer than it was Wednesday.

Phillip Arnett, 834 Rawlings St., treasurer of the organization, was in the process of taking the money to the bank, when he parked his car in the city parking lot at the corner of Main and East streets and left the money in an envelope under the sun visor.

Washington C. H. police reported when he returned to his unlocked auto to get the money and make the bank run, it was gone.

The theft occurred sometime between 12:40 p.m. and 12:50 p.m. Thursday and police are investigating.

Washington C. H. police are presently investigating two other larcenies and reported an ill person in their offense reports today.

A purse containing $78, belonging to Karen Potter, 228 Water St., had the money removed sometime around 5:30 p.m. Friday, police reported.

The purse had been in her home when the theft occurred.

Gasoline from a car owned by Wilma Roberts, 617 S. Elm St., was siphoned from her auto, while it was parked at the rear of her residence at 11:30 p.m. Wednesday, police reported.

Fifteen gallons of gas valued at $8.10 were removed from the car's tank.

Mrs. Gerald Mustard, 20, of 115½ E. Court St., was taken to Fayette Memorial Hospital by Gerstner-Kinzer ambulance service, where she was treated for abdominal pain and headache at 6:10 p.m. Thursday, police reported.

may have forgotten some of the vocabulary. But speaking Spanish on a daily basis will probably bring any lost words back to her memory quickly.

Marsha, who did her student teaching in Switzerland, said she is hoping she will be able to construct her own teaching program in Venezuela as she did in Europe.

"I was the first physical education student teacher while I was in Switzerland, so they allowed me to create anything I wanted, including my own curriculum. It was a real challenge for me.

"I hope to be able to use my own creative ideas in Venezuela as well. I may have to chop down a tree to use as a balance beam, but it will definitely be a challenge."

Marsha's main goal is to establish an international school somewhere abroad or start a summer camp of her own program in the United States.

The three-year member of the Kent State swimming team, she also hopes to be able to go with the Venezuela swim team to the Olympics at Montreal in 1976.

Lately, she has been spending any free moments on studying the country. She responded spontaneously when asked what the country is most noted for.

"It is the third largest oil producing country in the world next to the United States and U.S.S.R. Its m,ain exports are coffee and cocoa and there is quite a distinct difference between the two classes of people — the very rich and the poverty-stricken.

"I know I'll have to adapt a lot because in some parts of the country, there is electricity only from 5-10 at night and no running water. The little conveniences we take for granted are not even over there," she said.

"And no matter how much I read, there are going to be many cultural differences and customs I won't know until I go and find out."

WHAT DO her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Frazier, think of her living in another country for possibly two years or longer?

"They've just accepted the fact since I have traveled a lot already. They are really happy for me because I am able to do these things while I'm still young before I settle down," she added.

However, the largest adjustment Marsha said she will have to get used to will be the change of climate — "It will be spring there and I haven't even seen winter yet," she exclaimed.

Gilmore issued permits for 21 new residences

The Union Township Zoning Commission has issued 25 building permits during the past month, according to board secretary Alfred L. Lininger.

Twenty-one new building permits have been issued to Jess Gilmore, of Gilmore Homes, Inc., for a housing development, north of Washington C.H.

The 21 new homes, estimated at $441,000, will be constructed in the Culpepper Subdivision No. 3, off Ohio 41-N.

Other building permits issued were Harry Chakeres, CCC Highway-E, pole shed, $3,000; David Seymour, 1430 Pearl St., garage, $2,000; Kenneth Shaver, Washington-Waterloo Road, garage and family room, $3,500, and Elmer Madden, U.S. 22-E, car port, $250.

Nearly 40 persons attended a formal opening ceremony of the new Cor Tec, Inc., on Kenskill Avenue in the Washington C.H. Industrial Park Friday morning.

Representatives of Washington C.H. City Council, the Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce, the Community Improvement Corporation and bankers and other businessmen were in attendance as Carl S. Bolton, of Bellevue, Wash., the company president, snipped the ribbon which had been stretched across the front of the new building.

The formal opening ceremony included tours of the new plant facility conducted by Cor Tec, Inc., personnel and a noon luncheon at the Washington Country Club.

COR TEC, INC., actually launched production in late August, but plant officials have waited until all minor projects were completed at the facility before conducting the opening ceremony.

The firm manufacturers fiberglass reinforced plywood panels which are used as the sides, tops and ends of semi truck trailers and overseas shipping containers.

Groundbreaking ceremonies were held in the city's Industrial Park last November for the new industry. The company purchased a 29-acre tract of land from Chase Brass, Inc.

The firm began operations in Auburn, Wash., nearly 10 years ago, and presently has 40 employes there. The Auburn, Wash., has continued its operations.

Democrat hopefuls eyeing Presidency

WASHINGTON (AP) — Earlier and in greater numbers than ever before, Democratic presidential hopefuls are campaigning across the nation this fall in an effort to build strength for the 1976 election.

Though a large field had seemed likely, it became assured with the recent withdrawal of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., a controversial frontrunner who had by far the greatest support — and opposition — among Democrats.

Three senators — Henry M. Jackson of Washington, Walter F. Mondale of Minnesota and Lloyd M. Bentsen of Texas — and Rep. Morris K. Udall of Arizona are all-but-declared candidates.

They have been out this fall working for Democratic candidates while trying to improve their own positions.

A governor — Jimmy Carter of Georgia — and a senator — Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia — have indicated interest. A former governor — Terry Sanford of North Carolina — and a former senator — Fred R. Harris of Oklahoma — also may run. So might Mayor Kevin H. White of Boston.

And the contest is clouded by the likely entry of Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, who has barely stopped running for the Presidency for a decade despite repeated failure and the 1972 assassination attempt that left him paralyzed from the waist down.

More than two years before the 1976 election, however, the most crucial aspect of the looming Democratic free-for-all is the uncertain impact of the party's new delegate selection rules.

All candidates agree the proportional representation system, which guarantees delegates to any candidate with at least 15 per cent of a congressional district's vote, will keep more candidates in the race longer and virtually assure a wide-open convention.

Justice Department offers to defend Nixon and aides

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department has offered to defend former President Richard M. Nixon and three of his top advisers in civil suits accusing them of improper political harassment, department officials say.

Assistant Atty. Gen. Henry E. Petersen made the offer about two weeks ago in letters to attorneys for Nixon, former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and former presidential advisers H.R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman, officials said Thursday night.

All five pending civil suits involved in the department offer stemmed from aspects of the Watergate scandal.

Petersen's deputy, Kevin Marone, said in a telephone interview that in one case a similar offer was made to William C. Sullivan, a former assistant director of the FBI.

Maroney said some of the five men have accepted the offer but declined to say which ones.

"It's normal to represent a former official who is sued for acts when he was an official of the government," Maroney said.

Though acknowledging that the department is not required to do so, Maroney said "the theory is that the interest of the government is not so much to represent that particular man but the continuing functions of the government."

Maroney said the offer was not discussed with President Ford or other White House officials.

Crop losses spark more higher prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — A big loss in grain crops this year because of bad weather will send meat prices up again next year but has stirred debate in the Ford administration about how food prices will act overall next season.

The Agriculture Department said Thursday the corn crop will be 6 per cent less than forecast a month ago, mainly because of killer frosts. And it will be down 16 per cent from the record 1973 harvest.

Soybeans, another livestock feed needed to produce the nation's meat, milk and poultry, will be 4 per cent less than the September estimate and down 19 per cent from last year.

Don Paarlberg, USDA director of economics, said the reduced harvests — even farther below what experts had expected six months ago — will mean higher meat prices next year.

But Paarlberg refused to predict how food prices generally might react in 1975. Those are expected to go up 15 to 17 per cent this year, one of the sharpest climbs since World War II.

Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz has been saying for six weeks that 1975 food prices would be held to less than a 10 per cent gain from this year. Paarlberg was asked about that.

"We have not made an official estimate," Paarlberg told a news conference after Thursday's crop report. "This is Secretary Butz's judgment. And he may simply hold to that figure; he may revise it; he may wait until the analysts have, themselves, reviewed the situation."

In other economic developments Thursday:

—Federal Reserve Board Chairman Arthur F. Burns said the nation is in a recession — an assessment contradicting the one stated by President Ford at his Wednesday news conference — although he disagreed with those who forecast a deepening recession in the year ahead.

—United Mine Workers President Arnold Miller said a nationwide coal strike is likely to begin Nov. 12 unless a negotiating impasse with the coal industry is broken.

—The House and Senate approved a compromise package of improved GI education benefits that would increase most payments to veterans by nearly 23 per cent.

—The Senate passed unanimously an emergency housing bill under which $7.75 billion in government funds could be pumped into the home mortgage market.

—Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, head of the tax-writing Ways and Means Committee, issued a statement denouncing Ford's proposed 5 per cent income tax surcharge for middle-and upper-income families.

—The Senate passed a bill to double the size of savings accounts which qualify for full coverage under federal deposit insurance.

Ohio crop losses less than others

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An early fall frost last month has caused a one-bushel-per-acre decline in Ohio's anticipated corn and soybean harvests this year, the Ohio Crop Reporting Service says.

But a spokesman said Ohio can consider itself fortunate compared with some other harder-hit Midwestern states which "had late plantings and the corn and soybeans were not as mature as they should have been" when the frost hit.

"In Ohio we were pretty lucky this spring and had a fairly early planting," the spokesman said.

Nevertheless, the one-bushe-per-acre drop translates into a loss of another $35.4 million for Ohio farmers in anticipated income from their corn and soybean harvests.

This is in addition to a $61 million loss drawn from the Crop Reporting Service's September report which reflected sharp declines in production as the result of drought conditions.

The latest report, based on Oct. 1 surveys, estimated the corn yield at 72 bushels per acre. In September it had set the yield at 73 bushels. With corn running around $3.50 a bushel and 3.7 million acres planted, the additional loss in income would be about $35 million.

The October report showed the soybean yield per acre down one bushel to 23 bushels.

This fall's soybean prices are expected to be about $7 a bushel. With 3.2 million acres planted, this represents a $22.4 million loss.

Corn production for the state was revised down to 266.4 million bushels from the 270.1 million estimated a month earlier. That still would be an 11 per cent increase from 1973, but farmers planted a half-million more acres of corn this year.

The corn yield of 72 bushels per acre would be the lowest since 1964. A good crop in 1972 produced 92 bushels to the acre, and last year's crop, considered poor, brought forth about 79 bushels to the acre.

Nationally, corn production is forecast at 4.7 billion bushels, down 16 per cent from the 5.6 billion bushels in 1973 and 277 bushels below the Sept. 1 estimate.

But the national average for bushels per acre is 74, slightly higher than Ohio's estimate.

Ohio's soybean crop now is set at 73.6 million bushels, compared to the 76.8 million forecast in September, and down 18 per cent from the 1973 record production of 89.8 million bushels.

However, Ohio farmers put less land in soybeans this year, 3.2 million acres compared to 3.5 million in 1973.

Soybean production nationally is estimated at 1.3 billion bushels, a 19 per cent decline from 1973. Per-acre yield is forecast at 24 bushels, also slightly higher than that anticipated for Ohio.

Watergate jury chosen

WASHINGTON (AP) — A jury of nine women and three men was chosen today to hear the Watergate cover-up trial.

For the first nine days of the trial, U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica had questioned hundreds of potential jurors on what they know and think about Watergate.

The tedious and painstaking process was the result of Sirica's fears that two years of news coverage of the Watergate scandals may have persuaded many perspective jurors that the defendants were guilty before the trial began.

While the 12 members of the jury itself have been picked, prosecution and defense lawyers continued picking an additional six alternates in Sirica's crowded courtroom.

Once that is completed, the jurors and alternates are to be taken home to make personal preparations for the trial, which is expected to last three or four months. The jurors are to be housed in a nearby motel and will be allowed no contact with anyone else outside the presence of U.S. marshals.

Girl sees challenge in Venezuela

BY SANDY FOSSON
Record-Herald Staff Writer

"When people think of the Peace Corps, they think, 'Oh, she thinks she's going to save the world.' But I know it has to be a reciprocal learning process. . . .I'll have to learn from them just as they learn from me."

Twenty-one-year-old Marsha Frazier, 420 Rawlings St., realizes there will be limits to what she can teach and understand once she reaches Venezuela next week and begins her 13-week training period with the U.S. Peace Corps.

"IT MIGHT become very frustrating at times because of the language barrier or if the kids don't respond," she replied.

However, if her enthusiasm and determination can be any indication, she just may "save the world."

With long, blond hair fluffed close against her face and eyes glowing of the challenge before her, Marsha speaks with the stamina required in such an undertaking.

The 1974 graduate of Kent State University with a bachelor of science in physical education, Marsha talked about her "diploma blues" in which she had no definite job to look forward to in beginning a career.

She knew what she wanted to do and how, but being aquatic program director for the YMCA or even working in student teacher housing in Switzerland did not seem to match her expectations.

"I have always loved to travel so I talked to one of my professors at Kent and he suggested the Peace Corps," she said.

Then, the long-awaited word came. She had been accepted in the Peace Corps on her first choice — Venezuela.

Now, Marsha packs her bags in anticipation for Wednesday's trip to Columbus, where she will board a plane to Miami, Fla. for two days of testing and paper work.

Friday, it's on to Venezuela, South America, for 13 weeks of training with 15 other Peace Corps members.

During the training period, Marsha will be staying with a family in Venezuela's capital city, Caracas but she will know nothing of the family until she arrives.

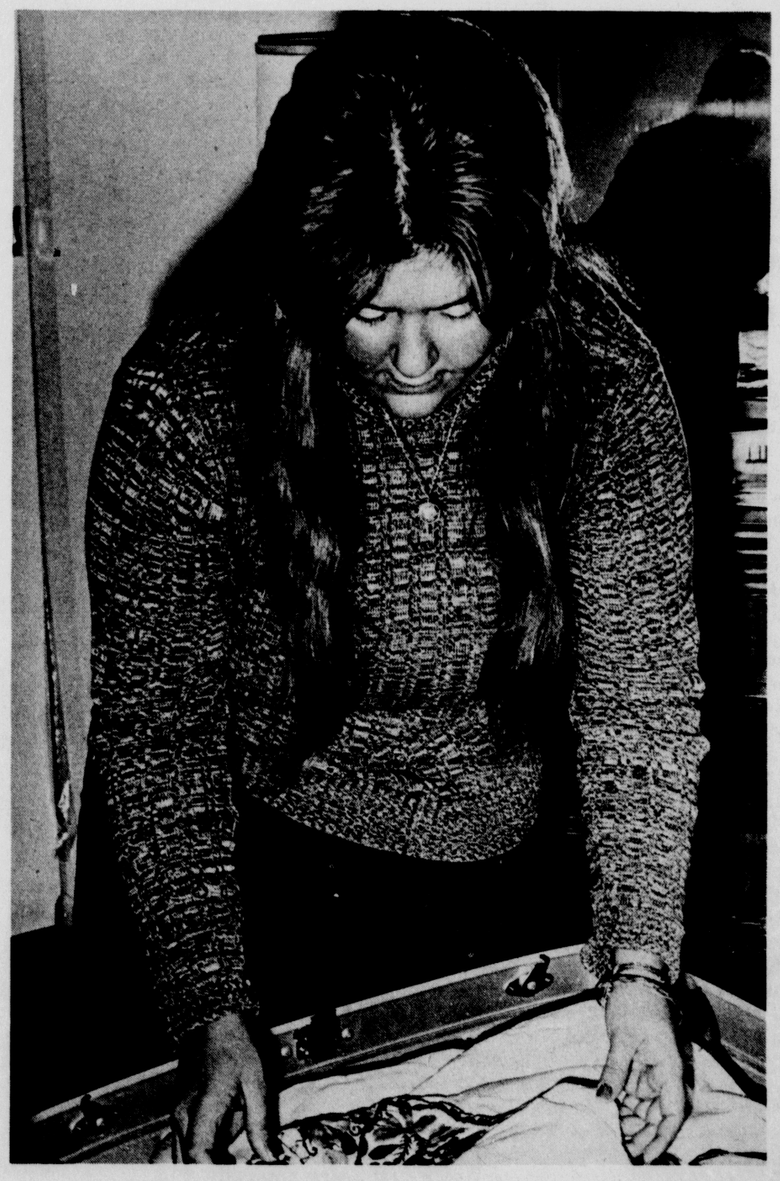

After the 13-week period, she will be given the decision of whether she wishes to stay for a two year stint in another portion of the country. She was quick to respond against a common fallacy often conceived of the Peace Corps.

"It is always a voluntary decision in the Peace Corps whether you want to stay or not. . . .you can get out at any time," she said.

WHILE IN Venezuela, Marsha will be teaching underprivileged children in the primary grades with two days per week utilized in training teachers at nearby universities, who have not been as adequately educated in the field of physical education.

She will not only be teaching Spanish but she will also be improving her own knowledge of the native language. Although she was first in the state on the Spanish test at Washington Senior High School and attended the Language Institute in Switzerland in 1968, she realizes she

Mr. Pommert died Thursday. Burial will be in Good Hope Cemetery.

Friends may call at the Murray Funeral Home, Greenfield, after 4 p.m. Saturday.

Campaign finance bill OKd

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill that overhauls the collection and spending of money in presidential primary and election campaigns has been sent to President Ford for his signature.

The legislation, spawned by the Watergate scandals, received final congressional approval Thursday on a 365-24 vote in the House. The Senate had approved it earlier.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said Ford has not made a final decision on the measure but that congressional action in deleting or softening some features opposed by Ford "improved chances the President will sign the bill."

The bill's major innovation is public financing of the presidential nominating and election process.

A maximum of $20 million would be given to each major party presidential nominee in 1976, with the money coming from the voluntary $1 check-off on federal income taxes that has been in effect the past two years.

Candidates of minor parties would receive partial funding if they polled at least 5 per cent of the total vote.

Each major party would receive $2 million in check-off funds to conduct its presidential nominating convention.

Spending on presidential primaries would be limited to $10 million for each major party candidate.

The bill also restricts the maximum any individual could contribute to $1,000 to any one candidate and $25,000 for all candidates. No cash contributions of more than $100 would be permitted.

A Federal Election Commission would be established to administer the new regulations and would have the power to enforce them through court action.

Rhodes, Gilligan exchange charges

By The Associated Press

Former Gov. James A. Rhodes said Thursday the anticipated shutdown of five Ohio school districts for lack of funds substantiates his claims that Democratic Gov. John Gilligan has not given schools the money he promised.

Rhodes, making a campaign stop in Mansfield, referred to a report by the state auditor's office that five districts have asked for a "financial cash analysis," a required step before closing their doors.

Rhodes, the Republican nominee for governor, said people scoffed at his predictions that a lack of funds would force some school districts to close before Christmas.

"But nobody's laughing now, particularly those 23,000 youngsters whose schools are closing," he said.

He predicted more school closings are forthcoming because the administration is not giving schools the support promised from the state income tax and voters are not receptive to requests for property tax hikes.

Meanwhile, Gilligan told a labor rally in Columbus his administration has "nearly doubled state expenditures on primary and secondary education," raising state funds from $575 million to $1.1 billion.

He said work was begun during his term to "reform the tax structure," establishing ability to pay as a principle of equitable taxation and providing the state's first substantial personal and real property tax relief.

Gilligan, U.S. Senate nominee John Glenn and others on the Democratic state ticket appeared at a labor rally sponsored by the Ohio AFL-CIO and the UAW.

Gilligan and Glenn, as well as UAW President Leonard Woodcock, attacked President Ford's 5 per cent surtax proposal as it applies to middle income taxpayers. They said it would hit working-class families the hardest.

Gilligan said Ford apparently had played football center too long. "He sees the world upside down and backward," the governor said.

Gilligan said Rhodes boasted in 1964 of firing 1,100 bureaucrats in the Department of Mental Health and Correction. Gilligan said they were psychiatrists and case workers.

"He called that economy," Gilligan said. "It was brutality in the name of economy."

Rhodes' longtime secretary, Emma Scholz, labeled the remark untrue. She said Rhodes got rid of only persons put on the payroll by former Gov. Michael V. DiSalle, a Democrat, after he lost the election.

Glenn said Ford's surtax, if necessary, must be put on higher income levels than those that would hit the working man. He said the 1969 dollar that was worth 75 cents in buying power will only be worth 45 cents in 1975 if the inflation trend continues.

The other Democratic candidates were introduced by Gilligan.

More than 2,000 union members attended the rally.

His campaign headquarters said Perk would hold a press conference at a busy downtown intersection while meeting with the people of Columbus as a highlight of his "Fight Inflation Day."

Perk also planned campaign trips today to Youngstown and Gallipolis, where he was scheduled to attend a farm show.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer said Perk would issue a financial statement today showing his net worth as $82,945 with no major debts. Assets reportedly include an $18,950 home, $24,852 in the Public Employes Retirement System, $22,700 in various bonds and $7,381 in a savings account.

The newspaper said Perk also planned to release copies of income tax returns from 1969 through 1973 showing taxable income of $92,742 for that period and federal income taxes paid of $20,979.

U.S. enters Boston school disagreement

BOSTON (AP) — Five Justice Department lawyers have been assigned here to insure prompt enforcement of federal civil rights laws in connection with court-ordered school busing.

City officials said there were few of the incidents of violence which have marked the first four weeks of a U.S. District Court plan to desegregate Boston public schools by busing 18,200 of 92,000 pupils.

James O. Newpher, special agent in charge of the Boston FBI office, said the FBI has been investigating alleged civil rights violations and cases of possible interference with Judge W. Arthur Garrity Jr.'s busing order.

"We have sent some information to Washington for a decision on what further action to take," Newpher said in an interview Thursday. "When the lawyers arrive tomorrow, we'll present our information to them, and they will expedite whatever action is necessary."

Meanwhile, Mayor Kevin H. White said he would not support a wider busing plan until the federal government gives a better guarantee of safety for school children here. He accused President Ford of inflaming resistance to integration.

There was no direct White House response to White's remarks, but a spokesman said citizens should obey the court's ruling. The spokesman also said law and order in Boston is a state and city responsibility.

Ford told a news conference Wednesday that, while the law must be obeyed, he disagreed with Garrity's order.

White said Ford's statement would lead to further disruption "and will endanger the safety of our school children in the process."

Tina Niarchos dies

LONDON (AP) — Tina Niarchos, 45, wife of Greek millionaire Stavros Niarchos, has died in Paris of thrombosis, according to an announcement in London by Niarchos' shipping company.

The attractive blonde was once married to millionaire Greek ship owner Aristotle Onassis, now married to the former Jacqueline Kennedy.

Warm, sunny weather was forecast for Ohio today as southerly winds over the Mississippi and Ohio valleys and most of the Great Lakes brought warm air northward.

Afternoon temperatures were expected to climb into the low 70s today and could approach the 80s Saturday.

Tonight's readings will be on the mild with lows in the 50s.

There is a chance of thundershowers in northwestern counties spreading eastward across the state by Saturday evening.

Showers ending Sunday. Fair Monday and a chance of showers Tuesday. Highs in the 50s Sunday and in the 60s Monday and Tuesday. Lows in the 40s Sunday, in the upper 20s and low 30s Monday morning and in the 40s again Tuesday.

Mills 'clarifies' incident with auto

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Wilbur D. Mills has described himself as embarrassed and humiliated by his involvement in an episode during which a woman jumped into the Washington Tidal Basin. He says he is returning to work at the Capitol and then will resume his re-election campaign.

The Arkansas Democrat, 65-year-old chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee and long considered one of the most powerful and respected members of Congress, had not been seen on Capitol Hill this week.

Park police said they stopped his speeding, unlighted car, driven by someone else, early Monday. They said a woman passenger "obviously intoxicated" emerged and that Mills stepped out of the car with his face bleeding and smelling of alcohol. They identified the woman as Annabel Battistella.

No charges were filed in the incident.

In a written statement on Thursday, Mills said Mrs. Battistella was one of a party of neighbors and friends he was entertaining, that she became ill, he tried to have her taken home, there was a struggle and her elbow broke his glasses, causing facial cuts.

Mills' administrative assistant, Oscar Eugene Goss, said Tuesday that Mills had told him he was not in the automobile and knew nothing of the episode. Mills said in his statement that Goss had misunderstood him when he said merely that a news account of the affair was inaccurate. Goss agreed in a separate statement.

In his statement, Mills said he and his wife Polly became close friends of Mrs. Battistella and her husband Eduardo when the Millses moved to a suburban apartment complex in Arlington, Va., where the Battistellas already had an apartment.

Mills said the events of Sunday evening and Monday morning began when he arranged a bon voyage party for Gloria Sanchez, a cousin and house guest of the Battistellas, who was returning to her native Argentina.

Because Mrs. Mills had a broken foot, he said, they could not entertain at home and at Mrs. Mills' insistence he arranged to "take our friends to a public place we had frequented before."

Nixon

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen indicated that Ford knew nothing about the offer until reading news accounts of it Thursday night. Nessen did not describe the President's reaction.

The department did not consult Special Watergate Prosecutor Leon Jaworski, said Robert Havel, the department's public information director.

But Havel added, "If Jaworski is interested in any possible prosecution in any particular area, then we would not represent Nixon." He said the offer would apply in future suits against Nixon "if the department determines that Nixon was acting within the scope of his authority" at the time of the challenged acts.

Maroney said the move developed after Nixon's resignation because "we were trying to get our representation of the various people in order."

Wilson seen victor in British elections

LONDON (AP) — The ballot count resumed this morning with Prime Minister Harold Wilson and his Labor party headed for a parliamentary majority and a mandate for radical measures against the country's suffering economy.

With 142 of the 635 House of Commons seats still undecided, Labor held 294 and needed only 24 for a majority. The Laborites were polling about 42 per cent of the popular vote, compared with 35.4 per cent for the Conservatives.

Wilson declared he was confident of forming a government today. He would become the first British politician this century to serve as prime minister four times.

Computer projections indicated that Labor, in power with a minority government since February, would win with a majority of only five or six seats. But Wilson is fond of quoting the dictum of the late Prime Minister Winston Churchill: "One vote is enough."

Despite polling almost a fifth of the total vote so far counted, the Liberals held a mere five seats. Nationalist and splinter groups had won 10. Six of these went to Scottish Nationalists, who were expected to emerge as a parliamentary force with as many as 20 seats.

The early Laborite lead was certain to be cut back by late returns from scattered rural areas, which traditionally vote Conservative.

"Whatever may happen in the remaining results, the Tories can't take it away from us now," Wilson told reporters before going to bed after midnight.

A light voter turnout was reported, although party leaders had called this the country's most critical election since World War II. There are about 40 million eligible voters.

Both major parties campaigned mainly on inflation and other economic problems. Britain has an annual inflation rate of 16.9 per cent and expects this year a foreign trade deficit of $10 billion.

Labor also has pledged to call for elections within a year on whether Britain should remain in the Common Market. Wilson generally has advocated bringing Britain closer to the United States rather than swinging sharply toward Europe.

Britain entered the European economic alliance under Heath's Conservatives, and Labor has all along said that unless better terms are agreed upon Britain should pull out.

To solve Britain's economic problems, Wilson contended that radical leftist-oriented measures were needed. He said opposition parties have frustrated his efforts to enact such legislation since he formed his minority government.

Political observers predicted that Thursday's vote will open the way for Labor to push through measures like a tax-the-rich proposal aimed at families worth more than $250,000 and nationalization of some private industries. In return, Labor has pledged to try to make unions exercise voluntary restraint in wage demands.

Profit-taking hits market

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed today as profit-taking slowed the rapid advance of the past few sessions.

The opening Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down a fraction, although gainers took a 3-2 lead over losers on the New York Stock Exchange.

Brokers said it was natural for the market to encounter some profit-taking pressures after one of its sharpest upswings in recent years.

New York's First National City Bank cut its prime lending rate from 11¾ to 11½ per cent today, but brokers noted that recent drops in short term money rates had raised hopes for a larger cut, to 11¼, by the big money-center bank.

The Dow Jones industrial average climbed 17.06 points Thursday to 648.08 to extend its gain since the start of the week to more than 63 points.

Mrs. Betty Ford goes home today

WASHINGTON (AP) — First Lady Betty Ford is being discharged from Bethesda Naval Medical Center today, two weeks after cancer caused the removal of her right breast.

Mrs. Ford, 56, obtained her surgeon's approval to be released from the hospital. She will continue her recuperation at the White House.

"She's rarin' to go," President Ford reported Thursday after visiting his wife. And he told a Republican dinner in Detroit later that he was just as anxious to have her back home.

"It has often been said that being President of the United States is the loneliest job in the world," Ford said. "For me, tomorrow that job becomes a lot less lonely. Betty is coming home from the hospital."

Cincinnati man seeks jail term

POINT OF THE MOUNTAIN, Utah (AP) — A Cincinnati, Ohio, man has told the Utah Board of Pardons that he deliberately set off a jewelry store burglar alarm in Salt Lake City in order to be returned to prison.

Walter B. Grammer told the board Thursday that he owes about $1,500 which he could earn if placed on a work-release program in minimum security.

The board revoked his parole and set a new hearing date for Oct. 12, 1976—twice as long as he said he would need to earn the money.

Jury deliberates $108,000 lawsuit

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A jury began deliberations Thursday in a $108,000 damage suit against the city by the houseboy who was arrested and later released in connection with the 1969 murder of actress Sharon Tate and four others.

William Garretson, 25, and formerly of Ohio is suing the city for false arrest, false imprisonment and invasion of privacy.

The suit also names three police officers—William Whisenhut, Robert Burbidge and Jerry De Rosa—who arrested Garretson in the caretaker's house of Miss Tate's Benedict Canyon estate after finding the bloodies, mutilated bodies.

Asst. City Atty. Thomas C. Hokinson argued the officers had "reasonable cause" to arrest Garretson after finding him in the cottage, which was only 80 feet from the main house. Two bodies were found in the house, two on the lawn and a fifth in a car parked in the roadway.

Hopkinson said the arrest, the interrogations, the polygraph test and Garretson's release 58 hours later were correct legally and procedurally.

Garretson's attorney, Robert M. Cohen, argued Garretson should not have been arrested because there was "absolutely no evidence" linking him to the murders.

"Garretson was arrested," Cohen said, "because he was a 19-year-old kid with long hair."

A psychiatrist, Andre R. Tweed, testified Garretson had suffered "acute anxiety reactions with accompanying depression from the harrowing experience of seeing the bodies and being manhandled by the police."

High court eyes blood center case

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's Supreme Court will decide whether the State Medical Board has jurisdiction over commercial blood centers that use a new process called plasmapheresis.

There are about 15 centers scattered throughout the state using the process which enables donors to sell their blood more often. It involves the extraction of whole blood, separation of solids from the plasma, and reinjection of the solids back into the donor's body.

Mirsa, Inc., a Florida corporation engaged in the business in Columbus, asked in common pleas court for a determination as to whether the centers are under the board's jurisdiction.

Franklin County Common Pleas Court Judge George Tyack ruled on April 30 of this year that the centers do not engage in the practice of medicine, and thus are exempt from the board's jurisdiction.

However, the 10th District Court of Appeals reversed that decision and ordered the case back to Tyack's court for further proceedings. The Supreme Court decided Thursday to settle the question instead.

Operation of the centers in several cities stirred controversy earlier this year after unsanitary conditions in some were blamed for several cases of infectious hepatitis.

Rep. Richard L. Wittenberg, D-44 Toledo, introduced a bill late in this year's legislative session that would require licensing and inspection of the centers by the Department of Health. The lawmakers adjourned before the measure was acted upon.

Mirsa said in its brief to the Supreme Court that it maintained sanitary facilities and had registered nurses on hand, and otherwise kept a physician available for call.

In other action Thursday, the Supreme Court let stand a lower court decision that rejected a claim by George W. Tiefel of Columbus, and others, that Ohio's income tax is unconstitutional.

Tiefel sought to show that the tax is "a poll tax, vague, not measured or levied on specifically designated incomes, and is illegally administered."

He lost the first round in Franklin County Common Pleas Court and the 10th District Court of Appeals subsequently affirmed that decision.

The case also attacked a provision in the statute that at the time required married couples who file joint federal returns to also file joint returns under the state tax — a system that usually increased their tax liability.

However, the legislature changed the joint filing provision in July 1973, making that part of the Tiefel case a moot question.

Area students participate in Litter Raider program

A group of students from Washington C.H. played an active and resourceful role during the 1974 Ohio State Fair in Columbus as part of the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency's Litter Raider program.

The 1974 program, under the supervision of Bonnie McSwain, Ohio EPA citizens' action coordinator, involved more than 3,000 Ohio youngsters.

"Elementary, junior and senior high school students from across the state were recruiter earlier this year to come to the fair as Litter Raiders," McSwain said. "As Litter Raiders, they combed the fairgrounds, picking up the litter which accumulated."

Besides removing the unsightly trash, the Litter Raiders served to educate fairgoers about protecting the environment by making the public aware of the pollution they cause through careless littering. The theme for the program, in its second year, was "Clean Up Your Act."

Of this year's program, McSwain said, "This year there was a marked difference in the cleanliness of the state fair. Ohio EPA and state fair personnel were extremely pleased with the work which the Litter Raiders did in keeping the fairgrounds clean and in generating environmental interest among the fairgoers."

Adult leaders of the Litter Raiders in Washington C.H. were Jack and Vallerie Marti, Mr. and Mrs. George Shoemaker and Mr. and Mrs. Vic Pontious.

TerHorst says Nixon pardon sole reason for resignation

ATHENS, Ohio (AP)—Jerald F. terHorst said here Thursday night the pardoning of Richard Nixon was the sole reason for his resignation as President Ford's press secretary just one month after being appointed to the job.

In his first public appearance since leaving the administration, terHorst told an Ohio University audience Ford's decision to pardon the former President of any Watergate-related crimes was one he could not live with.

TerHorst said he would have hoped for a conviction or an indictment before that step was taken.

He indicated he did not think Ford was prepared at this time to pardon any other persons involved in the scandal.

The overall tone of terHorst's speech and during a question and answer session was complimentary to Ford.

He described Ford as a "Boy Scout in the White House" and a man with a "nice guy reputation."

"He is being contrasted against Richard Nixon, which makes him initially attractive," terHorst said. "I'm not sure if he would be that attractive if he had to follow an Eisenhower or a JFK."

TerHorst said it is too early to judge the administration's performance, but said the conditional amnesty plan and the Nelson Rockefeller nomination for vice president could be taken as indications of how Ford will operate.

TerHorst said he does not believe becoming a press secretary is a compromise of journalistic values. Having to work from the inside is a position that would do some journalists a lot of good, he added.

But he said reporters might have a tendency to place too much credibility in a press secretary appointed from among their own ranks.

Justice eyes parole case

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Supreme Court Justice Paul W. Brown said Thursday he will rule on a case involving the release of reformatory inmates even though he issued an opinion on the subject while serving as state attorney general.

Brown was among the justices who heard oral arguments in the case Tuesday in which William McKee, Richland County prosecutor, contends the Ohio Adult Parole Authority cannot legally release inmates before they serve minimum sentences.

When Brown was attorney general in 1970, he concurred with an earlier attorney general's ruling that early release of prisoners was within the law.

"No one has ever brought it up (the question of disqualification, Brown said. "That particular issue is part of the case, but not all of it."

Radio stations sold by Avco

CINCINNATI, Ohi, (AP)— The Avco Broadcasting Corp. has announced the sale of two Washington, D.C., radio stations to the Capitol Broadcasting Co. for $3.6 million.

The sale, involving stations WWDC and WWDC-FM, is contingent of Federal Communications Commission approval, according to John T. Murphy, Avco president, who announced the agreement.

Avco has owned the stations since 1965.

Opinion And Comment

Military costs dramatized

The Pentagon's report that in three months inflation added 16 billion dollars to the cost of major weapons prompts wide-ranging thoughts on the price society pays for military readiness. An observer from another planet would surely conclude that mankind suffers from collective insanity.

Consider the case of the controversial B-1 advance bomber. The cost of this project alone is now estimated at 18.6 billion dollars. That is 3.6 billion higher than the estimate only three months ago. At present estimates a single B-1 aircraft would set the taxpayers back by 76 million dollars.

Another case in point is the Trident ballistic missile submarine project. It is now figured that each of the 10 proposed subs and their missiles will cost a billion and a half dollars. The grand total (according to the latest estimate) is 15.4 billion, which is 3 billion above the estimate of three months ago.

The Pentagon cannot be made the whipping boy in this instance; all of us feel the weight of inflation in our daily lives. But the Pentagon figures do lend dramatic emphasis to the view that the sums spent on arms, not only in our country but throughout the so-called civilized world, are almost suicidally vast. Devoted instead to constructive programs, these enormous sums would go far toward managing the great fundamental problems that plague humanity.

A WORD EDGEWISE . . . by John P. Roche

About the only thing the Central Intelligence Agency has not been blamed for in recent months is the Honduran flood. (And some KGB operative has probably suggested that mystery planes were seen seeding the rain clouds so the Agency may yet end up with the flood on its doorstep.) When the Greek junta withered away, for example, Americans were suddenly in bad odor in Athens as the old charge resurfaced that the CIA had sponsored the 1967 coup, which put the military junta in power. In addition, the United States generally came under attack for sustaining the junta.

Now as far as CIA involvement in the events of 1967 is concerned, let us set the record straight. By accident, I was sitting with President Johnson and National Security Adviser Walt Rostow when we heard of the coup. (We were in the President's compartment of Air Force One, en route back to the United States from Konrad Adenauer's funeral.) Johnson and Rostow did not look knowingly at each other and wink — the President blew his very substantial cork. Poor Walt spent the rest of the ride desperately trying to find out what had happened in Athens. If the President of the United States has, as advertised, the most sophisticated communications equipment in the world, I would hate to see how unsophisticated stuff works. When we got off the plane at Andrews AFB some hours later, we still didn't know who had done what to whom in Greece.

It turned out that American Intelligence had been worried about a military coup, but by an entirely different cast of Greek characters! The bunch that pulled it off had gone undetected. When it began, the American ambassador prepared to implement "Operation Prometheus" (a contingency plan against a Communist coup) and offered the King a helicopter to go to Salonika and rally his allegedly loyal troops. The King refused. That was the extent of American involvement. Note that our effort was to maintain the constitutional monarchy.

Once the colonels were in power, what should we have done? Send the Sixth Fleet and land Marines? Or treat the junta as the government of Greece and continue on a business as usual basis? Or privately put the heat on the dictatorship to restore civil rights, a free press, and other constitutional guarantees? When I was young, I thought a question like this could be simply answered, but in watching the internal debate in the U.S. government over Greek policy I learned an awful lot. Let met put it in question and answer form.

Roche: Why can't we cut off military supplies until they release political prisoners and restore civil rights? Are the Bulgarians or the Albanians planning to invade if Greek tanks aren't up to date?

Answer: Do you want the Sixth Fleet to operate in the Eastern Mediterranean?

Roche: Of course; it's essential if the Arabs jump Israel and the Soviets threaten to get into the act. (As indeed happened about six weeks after the Greek coup.)

Answer: Then you must want to maintain our base at Suda Bay on Crete. Without it the fleet has to go all the way to Italy for supplies.

Roche: What you are saying is that, in overall streategic terms, the colonels in Athens have us over a barrel?

The question answered itself. In fact, as current developments in Athens — the semi-exodus from NATO in particular — indicate, whoever rules Greece has us in a strategic bind.

Reluctantly I concluded we could not put the arm on the Greek junta, though in fairness we did persistently urge it in private to modify its repressive tactics.

However, we now have in the case of Chile a situation where direct pressure in defense of human rights creates no strategic problem. In Secretary Kissinger's phrase, "Chile is a dagger pointed at the heart of Antarctica." Yet the Secretary of State recently reprimanded the American ambassador, David H. Popper, for linking possible American military assistance to an easing of the military dictatorship.

Having been to the other side of the moon, I am incapable of a pious shriek, but the burden of proof is clearly on Kissinger to demonstrate the rationale for "gigging" Ambassador Popper.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 12

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20)

You can expect a pleasant day, with associates radiating good will and congeniality. Stars especially favor travel and communication with interesting people.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)

Hobbies and artistic endeavors should prove unusually rewarding now. And, like Aries, you may meet new people who prove highly stimulating.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)

Don't count on—or spend—anticipated funds before you actually have them in hand. Key interests may need a bit of an extra push, but don't go to extremes.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)

If dubious about accepting a certain suggestion, it will probably be better to reject. But do weigh it sufficiently so as not to miss any angles.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)

A splendid period in which to renew affectionate ties through mutual interests and pleasures. Your domestic affairs especially favored.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

An analytical look at your position may indicate some new avenue to pursue. Keep an easy yet alert eye on future moves. Taper off in late hours to relax.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

One of your ideas which others might consider "visionary" seems to have solid foundation, so give it more thought and don't let others discourage you.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

A day calling for flexibility. Don't adhere rigidly to a course when new developments definitely call for a change of policy.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

Your impulse to "get going" should be checked until associates are ready to join you. Forcing matters will only lead to dissension.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

With further thought, you now see possibilities in hitherto barren areas of achievement so, if you're in a mood to take a chance, go ahead. Success likely.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March 20)

You may not be in the best position to take action on a cherished project just now, but that needn't deter you from keeping your plans in mind.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a high order of intellect. You are a logical and serious thinker and a confirmed believer in direct action as the best means of getting things done. You are gregarious by nature and make many friends whom you keep for a lifetime. You have a keen sense of responsibility and a strict sense of justice, but such is your love and tolerance of your fellowman, that you could suffer in any capacity such as lawyer or judge, where you would have to inflict punishment upon a wrongdoer. Your demeanor is gracious, your habits fastidious — sometimes inordinately so. Fields in which you could excel: Writing, science (especially chemistry or electricity), teaching and designing. Also a reformer at heart, you would be a tremendous asset to any organization devoted to humanitarian causes.

New medical building dedicated

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — A $50.7 million College of Medicine Building, built with the largest construction grant for medical education ever provided by the federal government, will be dedicated at the University of Cincinnati today.

Caspar Weinberger, secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, was to provide the principal address at dedication ceremonies.

The addition of the 10-story facility will allow the university to increase its medical school class about 60 per cent to approximately 768 within four years.

The new structure, with 21 acres of floor space, will house classroom laboratories and the Medical Center's health science library.

The building is connected to Cincinnati General Hospital.

Dr. Joseph Lindner Jr., associate dean, said patient care at General Hospital will be improved due to "the proximity for medical students, house staff and faculty participating in patient care."

Ohio Perspective

Harris in uphill fight for office

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — It's a long, hard road for Richard H. Harris, the Republican candidate for state treasurer who is circling Ohio on foot in an uphill race against the Democratic incumbent, Gertrude Donahey.

"It's a way to get to the people and get their gut reaction," said Harris.

Taking a walking tour around the state's perimeter also is a colorful and inexpensive way to campaign for a political unknown who has admitted to raising only $6,500 as of early October.

State Treasurer Donahey is a formidable opponent. She is the first woman elected to statewide executive office in Ohio. As the widow of the late Lt. Gov. John W. Donahey and daughter-in-law of the late Vic Donahey, who served as governor and U.S. senator, she has the statewide recognition Harris is seeking.

"Her background is political," contends Harris. "She has no background in finance. The bureaucrats under her are running her department."

Harris, 42, worked 12 years with the Ohio Bureau of Workmen's Compensation, becoming coordinator of district offices in 1971 and of training and public information in 1972.

He is not a lawyer, but he joined a Toledo law firm in 1973 as an administrative assistant and continues to draw a salary. He said he will have to repay the salary after the campaign.

Affable and just a little restless, the 6-foot-4 former Bowling Green State University basketball player lives in Wauseon with his wife, two sons and two daughters.

Harris sees the underdog label as his biggest liability. "It's the statement that everyone thinks she's going to beat me. It's trying to overcome a belief that isn't true," he said.

He said a recent GOP poll showed Mrs. Donahey's support had dropped, but he admitted the poll shows her still substantially ahead.

Another Harris problem is a lack of gut issues that make headlines. Mrs. Donahey has made investments during her first term that will earn the state $200 million by mid-October compared to $159 million in the eight years prior to 1971.

Harris cites increased state revenues from income tax and the lottery and soaring interest rates as factors, and he wants a law forbidding the state treasurer from investing in what he called risky commercial paper.

But, he admitted Mrs. Donahey inherited such investments from the previous Republican administration that was hurt by a loan scandal involving bad paper.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

If she can't have grass, she'll hit the bottle

DEAR ABBY: I was busted for possession of marijuana two weeks ago. I am a married woman, 19, and have a 14-month-old son.

Everyone has something he calls his own thing, and my own thing is relaxing with grass now and then. When the police came to my door, they deprived me of one of my civil rights by not letting me read the search warrant before they entered my home.

What can I do about this? So many people have been busted the same way. We are sick of the way the police push people around.

If I can't smoke grass in the privacy of my home, then I guess I'll become an alcoholic.

BUSTED IN L.A.

DEAR BUSTED: Both possession and sale of marijuana are unlawful and in narcotics cases, search warrants cannot be read at the door because while the officers are waiting outside, someone inside (an accomplice, possibly) can destroy the evidence. So the law enforcers must enter first, and then the warrant is available for reading.

The people, through the democratic process, write the laws, and the police only enforce them. However, your threat to turn to alcohol if you can't have "grass" shows a dependency on some kind of mood-changing drug, which should concern you at least as much as being deprived of your civil rights.

DEAR ABBY: You said in your column that there was nothing sadder than seeing children being raised by children.

Well, I disagree with you. It's a lot sadder to see children being raised by old people in their late 30s and 40s. They have nothing in common.

I am 16, and have a child nearly a year old and there is nothing "sad" about the way my son is being raised. I think it's a break for a kid to have young parents so they can grow up together.

DEAR MOTHER: If you are sufficiently mature to raise a child at 16, you are exceptional.

"Growing up" together is lovely theory, but unless the parents are mature (and maturity doesn't automatically come with years) they'd better do a lot of praying.

DEAR ABBY: I never thought I'd be writing to you, but here I am. Will you please let doctors, nurses, aides and all hospital personnel know that when someone who works with them is hospitalized that person deserves the same consideration about visiting hours as anyone else in that hospital?

I was hospitalized with a serious injury two months ago, and during my stay at the hospital, even though there was a big sign on my door which read: "POSITIVELY NO VISITORS: DOCTOR'S ORDERS," I was pestered to death by co-workers who felt I needed a little cheering up.

Nurses, doctors, aides, and people from the hospital office came to see me. Most of them stayed for only ten minutes, but multiply that by 50 every day and you'll have some idea of how exhausted I was.

I finally had to leave the hospital to get some rest. I love my co-workers, but they almost killed me with kindness.

Please, Abby, put this in your column. I hope it goes up on hospital bulletin boards all over the country.

FLORENCE NIGHTENGALE

DEAR FLO: Here's your letter. I hope it works.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1811, the first steam ferry was put into operation by inventor John Stevens, between New York City and Hoboken, N. J.

On this date.—

In 1776, during the Revolutionary war, Colonial forces under Benedict Arnold were defeated by the British on Lake Champlain.

In 1797, a Dutch fleet was defeated by the British off Camperdown, Holland.

In 1945, Chiang Kai-shek and Mao Tse-tung issued a joint statement pledging to work for peace and unity in China.

In 1970, there was widespread flooding in Puerto Rico after torrential rains.

Ten years ago: The State Department announced that an East German nuclear physicist, Heinz Barwich, had defected and been granted asylum in the United States.

Thought for today: Keep quiet, and people will think you are a philosopher — Latin proverb.

The Illustrated Bible

Joshua Meets God's Emissary

Joshua went to him and said . . . Art thou for us or for our adversaries? And he said, Nay; but as captain of the host of the Lord am I come.
—Joshua 5: 13-14

Many were the trials and tribulations of Joshua and the Israelites as they continued their journey into the Promised Land, but they survived them all for, as the Lord had promised Joshua, "As I was with Moses, so I will be with thee: I will not fail thee, nor forsake thee." Thus they successfully crossed deserts, forests and rivers—even to the banks of the Jordan where, just as God had parted the waters of the Red Sea, He now dried up the river until the Israelites had crossed safely. But as they neared Jericho, they knew they could not enter since all the gates were closed against them. All seemed lost, but there came an army of the Lord, led by an angel, to help them.

11 'giants of Christian faith'

AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Most of the oft-termed "theological giants" of this century are dead, including Karl Barth, Paul Tillich, Emil Brunner, Martin Buber, Dietrich Bonhoeffer, Rheinhold Niebuhr. Only one of that constellation still is living, Germany's Rudolph Bultmann, now 90.

Are there any newcomers to fill the gap? Editors of six leading church magazines singled out 11 persons as "today's living giants of the Christian faith."

Ranked as the most dominant theologian was European scholar Jurgen Moltmann of Germany. He a reformed churchman who sparked a "theology of hope" movement. It emphasizes faith as a drive toward future goodness, with God in front leading humanity ahead, and finds realizations of hope both through struggle for reform in this world and in consummation at the end of time.

Others on the list:

—Swiss theologian Hans Kung of Germany. He is a a reform-minded Roman Catholic, whose criticism of the doctrine of papal infallibility has made him a target of Vatican investigations.

—United Church ethicist James Gustafson, of the University of Chicago Divinity School, an opponent of so-called "situation ethics," which claims love — not blanket rules — determine morality.

—Philosopher Bernard Lonergan, a Canadian Jesuit, of Regis College, Toronto, a profound intellectual whose work in building bridges between theology and the social sciences has been compared to that of Thomas Aquinas.

—Southern Baptist evangelist Billy Graham, who is not regarded as a creative theologian and who often is accused of overemphasizing personal salvation and minimizing the Gospel's social implication, but who has preached to more people than anyone in history. He was cited for his "obvious appeal" and influence among millions.

—Roman Catholic Archbishop Helder Camara of Brail who has defied Brazil's military government to denounce injustice and insist on fairness to the poor.

—Methodist Bishop Abel Muzorewa, a black churchman of Rhodesia, who has outspokenly opposed the racial policies of the white minority regime.

—Roman Catholic theologian Rosemary Reuther of Howard University. She holds that traditional Christianity has been used as a tool of oppression, especially in sexist views of women. She contends it should be a message of liberation.

—American Indian writer Vine Deloria, a Sioux, author of "Custer Died for Your Sins" and "God is Red." While not primarily a theologian, he was cited for offering a "stirring call for society's repentence and reform."

—Roman Catholic priest-sociologist Andrew Greeley, director of Chicago's National Oqinion Research center and a lucid, prolific writer, who combines the insights of sociology and theology.

—Pentecostal leader David DuPlessis, termed the "chief statesman of the Pentecostal movement," now affecting major Protestant denominations as well as Roman Catholicism.

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A theological argument cutting across denominational lines has developed over whether 11 women ordained last summer as priests of the Episcopal Church were validly invested with that office.

Most of the church's House of Bishops have said "no." But the theological rationale on which they acted is now challenged by the scholar on whose work their decision was mainly based. He's a Roman Catholic.

The Rev. Frans J. van Beeck, a noted theologian at the Jesuits' Boston College, says that although the ordinations were irregular so far as church discipline goes, "they were true ordinations."

"There is a good case for considering them not only true, but also de facto valid ... that is, recognized by the church," he says, adding they are "at any rate implicitly valid and recognizeable."

What gave drama to Father van Beeck's intervention is that his writings on the issue had been cited by Episcopal Bishop Arthur A. Vogel of Kansas City in an analysis guiding Episcopal bishops in acting on the matter.

Bishop Vogel, of the church's theological commission, concluded in the advisory, in which Father van Beeck was cited as an authority for the position, that the women had not undergone ordination, but "only service, only a rite."

Laity Day set at 2 churches

BLOOMINGBURG — Laity Day will be observed Sunday in the Madison Mills and Bloomingburg United Methodist churches under the Rev. Harold J. Messmer.

Rev. Messmer is pastor for both churches. Services begin at 9:30 a.m. at Madison Mills and 11 a.m. in the Bloomingburg church.

Gary Hidy, of Madison Mills will speak on "What Shall I Do?" at both churches. He will be assisted by members of the two congregations.

Columbus pastor to lead services

A series of evangelistic services are scheduled for the week of Oct. 13-20 at Immanuel Baptist Church, 1205 Leesburg Ave.

The Rev. Al Norris, pastor at Parsons Baptist Church in Columbus, will conduct the services at 7:30 p.m.

He will be assisted by the Rev. Brian Donahue, former assistant pastor of the Columbus church and now interim pastor for Immanuel Baptist Church.

Special music will be provided each evening by members of the Columbus church. The public is invited.

Phi Beta Psi plans booth

Mrs. Ralph Gebhart opened her lovely Lakewood Hills home when Gamma active members of Phi Beta Psi Sorority met. The highlight of the evening was the presentation of many exciting and clever craft ideas by Mrs. Ralph Child, Mrs. Tracey Hoffman, Mrs. Dale Willis and Mrs. Robert Hagerty.

Phi Beta Psi, along with many interested citizens of Fayette County, contributed crafts, needlework and food of all varieties for the "Country Crafts for Cancer Corner" at the sorority's annual antique show last spring. The money earned through the craft booth was given to the local unit of the American Cancer Society. Plans are well under way for next spring's show to be held March 7, 8 and 9. The craft booth will be featured again with many new and different items.

Refreshments were served by Miss Fonda Fichthorn and Mrs. Frank Weade, assisting hostesses.

Mr. Metais' topic is 'Diamonds'

Mr. Andre Metais, speaker at the local Lioness Club meeting Tuesday evening at the Washington Country Club, concerning "Diamonds," told members and guests that diamonds were the most endurable substance and hardest known to man, and were discovered 2500 years ago.

He told of diamonds from the natural state to the familiar gems. About 99 per cent of diamonds in the United States come from South Africa, he said. He said that diamond cutting is an exacting art, and an old trade, learned mostly through the families.

The four criteria to determine the value of a diamond are: carat weight, color, cut and clarity, Mr. Metais said. He had on display several dinner and engagement rings.

During the business meeting conducted by Mrs. Lawrence Lehman, the group decided to assume the responsibility to train volunteers to conduct examinations for kindergarten registrations in the schools for the amblyopia clinic (lazy eye patients).

Members also voted to hold the annual Christmas buffet and dance Dec. 7 at the Washington Country Club, for which Mrs. Doris Douglass is chairman.

Mrs. Patti Briggs will do a demonstration of fondue and appetizers for the next meeting Nov. 5.

The committee for the evening was composed of Mrs. Byers Shaw, chairman, Mrs. Horace Jacobs, Mrs. Donald Bennett, Mrs. Gary Thompson and Mrs. Robert Leeth.

Methodists announce activities

Mrs. Eli Craig was hostess when the United Methodist Women of the Bloomingburg Church met. Assisting hostesses were Mrs. Fred Oswald and Mrs. Lucky Randolph. There were 15 members present.

"Thank You Lord" was the title of a reading by Mrs. Craig for the opening.

Dates announced to remember were: Oct. 27, workshop for new officers from 2:30 until 4:30 p.m. in the New Holland United Methodist Church; Oct. 27, carry-in supper at 5:30 p.m. in Bloomingburg United Methodist Church (program by the Gospel Mariners); Nov. 9, bazaar and luncheon from 10:30 a.m. until 3:30 p.m. at the Bloomingburg Church; and Nov. 17, a carry-in supper at 5:30 p.m. in the Madison Mills United Methodist Church with Bloomingburg Church. A choir from Madisonville will present the program.

Mrs. Charles Cunningham was in charge of the installation of officers, at a very impressive ceremony in which candles were used by each one.

Fall flowers pretty on bridge tables

Fall flowers centered the bridge tables at the Washington Country Club Thursday for the weekly bridge group. There were 23 members and three guests, Mrs. Billie Moffatt, Mrs. Myrtle McCoy and Mrs. G.B. Vance, present.

Game winners were Mrs. Sam Parrett, Mrs. Robert King and Mrs. Ronald Cornwell.

Mr. Elliott retires

Mr. Joe Elliott received honors at a retirement dinner held at the Terrace Lounge by fellow employes of Cudahy's. Mr. Elliott, who has been in charge of the shipping and receiving department, retired with 19 years of service. A decorated cake and gift were presented to him later in the evening.

Engaged

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Miles of 7022 Creek Rd., announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Roxanna Lee Stone to Garry David Morris, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond H. Morris, 2220 Staunton-Jasper Rd.

Roxanna is a 1974 graduate of Miami Trace High School. Her fiance, a 1970 Adena High School graduate of Frankfort, is employed at the Wilmington branch of Cincinnati Millacron.

A mid-November wedding is being planned.

'Parish Day' observed by Good Hope charge

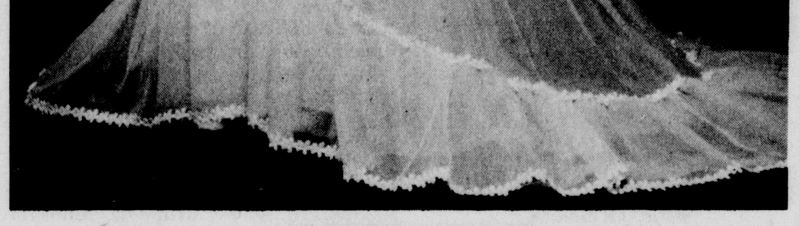

"Parish Day" was observed in Sugar Grove United Methodist Church, when the four churches of the Good Hope charge were represented. New Martinsburg had 11 present; Maple Grove, 6; Good Hope, 5, Sugar Grove, 17; and Staunton, (visitors), 7. "Parish Day" was begun in 1968 by the late Mrs. Lois VanZant.

The Mrs. Francis and May Bonham and Carsie Garringer were co-chairmen for the noon meal, Tables were decorated with pumpkins filled with flowers, in keeping with the fall season.

Mrs. Mary Black, pianist, and Mrs. Reba Clevelle, organist, presented a prelude of songs when the group assembled in the sanctuary. Mrs. Florence Bethards presented devotions using for her theme, "A Spiritual Check-up," and "In the World." The group sang "My Father's World," and the Twnety-Third Psalm from the Living Bible was read.

Mrs. Bethards conducted a Memorial for the ones who helped make the observation a success, and the group sang "How Great Thou Art."

The Good Hope Church will be hosts for the observance next year.

MRS. FREDERICK JONES

Miss Blanton, Mr. Jones are united in marriage

Miss Donna K. Blanton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cletes C. Blanton of Sabina, became the bride of Frederick K. Jones, son of Mrs. Charles Jones of Blanchester, and the late Mr. Jones, in the Sabina Church of Christ.

Rev. Joe D. Lorimer officiated for the candlelight ceremony in the Sabina Church of Christ on Oct. 4. A half-hour program of music preceded the double ring ceremony at 7:30 p.m. by Mrs. Warren Stouffer, organist.

Two candelabra with three baskets of white gladioli and daisies adorned the altar and white bows were on the family pews.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a long dacron polyester mira mist gown fashioned with a high neckline trimmed in Venice lace, fitted tucked bodice and bishop sleeves all trimmed with embroidery. The A-line skirt was trimmed with a wide flounce. Her elbow-length veil matched the gown, and she carried a cascading bouquet of white daisies.

Rick Sutton served as best man, and the ushers were Kevin Beebee, Charles Maddux and Danny Blanton.

Mrs. Blanton, the bride's mother, wore a floor-length gown of blue crepe with long sleeves. The groom's mother chose a long gown with high neck and long sleeves. Their corsages were white carnations trimmed in blue. Mrs. Myrl Ramsey, the groom's grandmother of Blanchester, wore a formal length dress and a white carnation corsage.

For the reception held in the social room of the church, the bride's table featured a four-tiered weddiing cake topped with a bridal couple and yellow roses. Mrs. Ruth Gray and Mrs. Hubert Sheley were hostesses assisted by Mrs. James Hargrave, Mrs. John Johnson, Mrs. Ted Lyttle and Mrs. Chester Drummond. Mrs. Danny Blanton presided at the guest book.

The rehearsal dinner for the wedding party was given Thursday evening by Mrs. Charles Jones at the Church of Christ social room in Blanchester.

Tara Overly is two years-old

Little Tara Marie Overly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Terry E. Overly, 2332 Staunton-Sugar Grove Rd., was guest of honor at a birthday party in the home of her godparents, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Coleman.

Invited guests were Mrs. Vera Palmer, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Palmer and Teresa, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Hidy, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Palmer, Mr. and Mrs. Andy Haynes and Jerry, Nick and Dorothy, Eugene Overly and Vicki, Mr. and Mrs. Steve Overly, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Overly and Mikie and Eric, Mrs. Kim Evans and Brent, Mrs. Marsha Eggleton and Keith, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil O'Brien and Mrs. Marlin Overly.

Mrs. Ruth Ann Carwile, Mrs. Madge Crooks, Mrs. Nellie Parks and Mrs. Louise Eckle, were guests on Wednesday at the Fairfield County Fair in Lancaster.

THE BIGGEST TRUCK — Michael Taylor, of Las Vegas, plays with a toy truck next to a small General Motors pick-up truck in the bed of the Terex Titan, the largest truck General Motors has ever built. The off-highway hauler is 67 feet long, 25½ feet wide and has a payload of more than 350 tons. It will undergo at least 12 months of testing at a mining site in Southern California.

Little humor seen on Wall Street

By JOSH FITZHUGH
AP Business Writer

Gone for now are the words of the heady years of the past, when go-go funds were run by swingers and gunslingers looking for smart money investments in high flyers, glamours, yo-yo stocks or stocks in the second tier of the Nifty Fifty.

But Wall Street's penchant for creating new words, phrases and jokes seems to have declined with the Dow Jones industrial average this year. And about the only new phrase to come out of the Street in recent months is gloomy: double-digit inflation.

"When things are easy in a big bull market, you get more humor," says Eldon Grimm, a veteran of the Street who's been around long enough to know. "Now it's hard to come by."

"I don't think people have the time to think about these things," says Peter Wyckoff, author of "The Language of Wall Street." "They're just too worried."

Each profession has its code words, from banking to short order cookery, and Wall Street still has at least its share.

Blue chips and widow-and-orphan stocks have been demeaned and war babies, defense stocks, rejected. All were caught in the claws of the most powerful bear market since the '30s.

Bull and bear are the Street's best known symbols. They refer to the way a bull thrusts his head up in a fight while a bear grapples and wrestles his opponent down.

From time to time, these concepts have been related to creation of illegal bull traps, bear polls and bear raids, in which bears join forces to force down the price of a stock, only to buy it back at a profit.

Also illegal are bucket shops, run by bucketteers who theoretically execute customers' orders and make money when the client loses. Painting the tapemaking trades just to get a company's name on the ticker is out, but investors can still put their money in pups, cats and dogs.

You can sell short or go long, straddle or swing or take a short against the box. The market can swim, be sick, sleep, be lazy or fall out of bed. It can leave you without a shirt or taking a bath.

Quick action on trading floors has created nicknames for some of the best known companies.

United States Steel is Big X, from its ticker tape symbol. Bethlehem Steel is Bessie, McDonald's Corp. is Hamburger, After Six is Tux. Dome Petroleum is Dump and Buttes Oil & Gas is Bingo.

Like words, there are phrases and sayings.

"He who sells what isn't his'n, buys it back or goes to prison," goes the one about short selling — selling borrowed stock on the theory that you can buy it back later at a profit.

"That's a lot of baloney," says broker Grimm.

Woman drives car in building

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—A man was knocked off a golf cart and four exhibition booths were damaged Thursday when a woman crashed a car through a metal door of the Cincinnati Convention Center and circled inside the building.

"I've been in this business a long time and never saw anything like that," said Capt. J.M. Brennan, chief of security at the center.

A 44-year-old Montgomery woman was being held, police said. Charges were pending.

The car smashed into the corrugated door twice before entering the center, police said. A dozen workers inside were preparing for Expo '74 which opens today.

Injured was Earl Telford, 42, who was treated for leg cuts at Cincinnati hospital and later released.

A maintenance man said he heard the car ram the door, then shouted a warning to Telford.

"I was sitting on my cart and heard something hit the door," said Al Jackson. "Then she hit it again and in came that car at 30 miles per hour. I yelled 'Look out, Earl! Look out Earl!' but it was too late."

Police said the only explanation the woman gave was: "He made me do it."

Urge more fire probes

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Fire Marshal David Lucht told Hamilton County firefighters and industrial safety experts Thursday that statewide inspections have not reduced the frequency of fires during the last few years.

He said the state receives reports on less than 2 per cent of the 130,000 fires handled by local departments each year. He said his department's education and inspection bureaus must be expanded for more efficiency.

"I can't measure anything (my office) has accomplished for the taxpayers who support it. If I closed down—it would have little impact on the average citizen," he said.

He said Ohio's method of collecting information about fires and fire hazards must be improved.

He called for the General Assembly to make citizens "accountable for potential fire violations, in the same way I can be stopped if I am driving over the speed limit on a given highway."

Tot dies in blaze

ASHLAND, Ohio (AP)—Scott Meyers, 2, of Ashland, died Thursday when fire swept his home, officials reported.

Pomona Grange members review school issues

NEW MARTINSBURG — Three school issues which will be appearing on the November general election ballot were reviewed during the regular Pomona Grange meeting Thursday night in the Forest Shade Grange hall in New Martinsburg. The Marshall Grange hosted the meeting.

Mrs. June Slaughter, elementary coordinator for the Miami Trace School District, explained to the Grangers the need for the three-mill additional operating levy and the 2.49-mill bond issue which have been proposed by the Fayette County Board of Education.

The three-mill additional operating levy will be used to battle spiraling costs in the district, while the bond issue's purpose will be to construct a new junior high school building for the county's seventh and eighth grade students.

THE GRANGE members also reviewed the .65-mill levy requested by the Fayette County Board of Mental Retardation for the operation of the Fayette Progressive School.

The meeting was conducted by master Nathaniel Tway.

Reports of the subordinate Granges were given. They were Marshall by Mrs. Edward Rankin, six members present; Madison Good Will by Gary Hidy, six members present; and Forest Shade by Winfred Morgan, six members present.

The lecture program was presented by Christine Cook. The program consisted of several readings.

Nursing homes won't meet deadline

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— State Rep. Norman Murdock says it is apparent that a large number of Ohio nursing homes will not be able to meet the Jan. 1 deadline for installing sprinkler systems.

The Cincinnati Republican, who sponsored the legislation requiring the sprinklers, called Thursday for a meeting of all responsible parties within two weeks to determine a "rational responsive course of action."

"It is obvious that we are facing a dilemma and crisis," Murdock said. "There must be a reason for this substantial noncompliance. There must be problems which need to be considered and dealt with at once."

He said the meeting should include representatives of the nursing home industry, the state fire marshal's office, the state Health Department, the sprinkler industry and the General Assembly.

"These parties, or their designees, must meet to determine the facts, to learn the reasons for the expected and probable noncompliance and to agree upon and determine a course of action which will result in the earliest possible compliance with the law," Murdock said.

The Health Department could shut down a nursing home failing to comply with the law.

Murdock said it was apparent that the state health director will have to avoid implementation of certain provisions of the law.

"He simply cannot close the many homes which will not comply since those elderly occupants will have nowhere to go and obviously can't be put on the street," he said.

Rate hike bid made

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Some 350,000 customers of the Ohio Edison Co. face a 25 per cent rate hike if an emergency request is approved by the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio.

A spokesman for the company said Thursday's request will affect customers in almost all the medium to small cities and rural areas and all industrial customers in 35 northeastern and central Ohio counties.

The increase would raise $46.6 million in new revenue annually, the company said.

Company president D. Bruce Mansfield said fund shortages have forced the company to curtail construction and trim operating expenditures. Mansfield said that without relief, the company could be short of electricity by 1978.

The company also noted that the value of its common stock has dropped from $23.13 per share in 1972 to $13.50 today.

Murder charge filed

HURON, Ohio (AP)—Authorities Thursday filed an aggravated murder charge against Dennis Dussel, 19, of Huron, in the weekend beating death of Jody Auble, 17, whose body was found by hunters in a wooded area of Erie County.

NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that The Dayton Power and Light Company has formally requested The Public Utilities Commission of Ohio to approve temporary increases in rates charged for Electric Service on the basis of an emergency which threatens injury to the business and interests of the public and the Company. The Company seeks approval to collect additional annual electric revenue of $24,670,000 through the application of a 14.0% surcharge applied to electric billings exclusive of fuel adjustment amounts. If the proposed surcharge is approved the temporary additional revenues would be collected until a determination is made of the permanent rate changes requested in the Company's Application in Case No. 74-283-Y, filed May 9, 1974, to increase its rates charged for Electric Service by $30,306,780 based on the test period of the twelve months ended December 31, 1973.

On November 6, 1974 at 9:30 a.m. local time at the offices of The Public Utilities Commission of Ohio, 111 North High Street, Columbus, Ohio 43215 a hearing will be held on the proposed surcharge. Further information may be obtained from The Public Utilities Commission of Ohio or the Company.

Viet bonus payments total over $170,000

COLUMBUS — Over $170,000 has been disbursed by the Ohio Vietnam Veterans Bonus Commission to Fayette Countians in the four months since funds became available June 7, according to John W. Bush, commission director.

Bush said 475 claims have been paid in Fayette County for a total of $177,626.40 since June.

A total of $83,030,234.10 has been disbursed to veterans in Ohio's 88 counties to date.

"That figure," Bush said, "represents more than 205,000 claims paid to veterans and next-of-kin of deceased veterans around the world."

BUSH SAID that in Ohio 172,217 checks and educational assistance bonus entitlements have been distributed totaling $63,832,268.06.

"We are maintaining our schedule of mailing about 50,000 checks and entitlements each month," Bush stated, "which amounts to an average monthly disbursement of nearly $20,000,000 in bonus money by the commission."

Clark, 3,141 — $1,207,200.09; Clinton, 602 — $227,590.34; Greene, 1,982 — $745,158.05; Highland, 366 — $137,828.99; Madison, 584 — $219,490.02; Pickaway, 883 — $323,058.94; and Ross, 1,242 — $458,842.11.

The $83,030,234.10 total to Ohio's 88 counties includes an Ohio total of $63,832,268.06 and an out-of-state total of $14,511,905.59 for total cash paid of $78,344,173.65. Educational entitlements outstanding total $4,686,060.45, according to Bush.

Paper clip shortage hits Middletown

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP) — A paper clip shortage has hit this southewestern Ohio city.

"We've been out for months," said Jim Ashcraft of Office Outfitters, Inc., the city's major supplier of office equipment.

The manager of another paper clip distributorship said his supply was draining fast.

Cletus Hornback of Consolidated, Inc., said he understood the reason is that metal wire companies have abandoned clips for more profitable items.

TV Viewing

NEW YORK (AP) — Suppose they gave a two-night party costing more than $1 million and nobody came? Well, that is roughly what's happened to ABC-TV on Friday and Saturday nights ever since the 1974-75 season began.

The NBC-CBS competition has proved just too rough, and ABC, in a hurry-up effort to salvage some ratings, has retooled and revamped its Friday-Saturday program schedule after only a month of the new season.

It has canceled two new halfhour shows — "Kodiak," which has its last run tonight, and "Texas Wheelers," halted after last Friday — and rolled in hit movie reruns to temporarily fill the ratings breach.

Tonight, for example, ABC has "True Grit" making its third network appearance. Next Friday, "Guns of Navarone" also makes its third network showing, while on Oct. 25 "Hatari" appears for the fourth time.

On Nov. 1, ABC's new — and it hopes improved — Friday lineup of weekly series begins, starting with "Kung Fu," which is becoming sort of a floating spirit on television. Last season, it aired Thursday nights and was shifted this season to Saturday nights. Now, it'll try Fridays.

It had good ratings last year and ABC hopes it'll regain them in its new home, thus giving a strong lead-in — a large audience — to "Six Million Dollar Man" and "The Night Stalker," both of which remain on ABC's Friday night schedule.

About Saturday nights: the current ABC lineup of "The New Land," "Kung Fu" and "Nakia" will continue to struggle against CBS' powerhouse lineup and NBC's wares until Oct. 26, when a patchwork schedule arrives.

"Nakia" will be the only regular in that schedule, and it'll temporarily withdraw the night of Nov. 16, when "Where Eagles Dare," a Clint Eastwood-Richard Burton thriller, is the only offering.

Spaghetti Westerns starring Eastwood — "Hang 'Em High" and "For a Few Dollars More" — will share the bill with "Nakia" the nights of Oct. 26 and Nov. 2.

Come Nov. 9, "Nakia" will be preceded by ABC's third repeat of "Brian's Song," the madefor-TV film about the late football star Brian Piccolo, and by "Cricket in Times Square," a half-hour children's special.

ABC's regular Saturday night schedule — until midseason replacements are announced — resumes Nov. 23, starting with "The New Land," which has been at the bottom of the ratings pile ever since the season began.

USDA studies policy changes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department is considering changes in a $2 billion emergency livestock program passed by Congress last summer so that more farmers can qualify for assistance.

But a spokesman for the Farmers Home Administration said Thursday that no decisions have been made and that only "various proposals are in the works" which would modify the loan qualifications.

The loan apparatus adopted by USDA has been under criticism from many livestock producers and farm belt members of Congress virtually since the program was announced in late July.

One of the criticisms has been that USDA apparently has dragged its feet in clearing loans to livestock producers. Congress designed the plan to help qualified farmers and ranchers recover from losses incurred by high costs of feed and other expenses at a time when the livestock prices were depressed.

Under the law, the Farmers Home Administration can underwrite or guarantee up to 80 per cent of loans producers get from banks and other private sources to a maximum of $250,000 for any individual borrower. Although Congress set a $2 billion limit for the entire program, USDA officials said that as of Oct. 4 only 165 loans had been cleared for a total of less than $24.8 million in 24 states.

Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., wrote Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz on Oct. 1 and charged USDA was not carrying out the loan program as Congress intended. Dole said one of the hangups apparently involves how the department defines livestock producers.

Under the department's rules, an eligible borrower must be in the livestock business and devote "a major portion of his time" to the enterprise.

An aide to Dole said that stipulation rules out many smaller farmers who actually spend the majority of their time in crop production and other chores but who have also suffered by the crunch on livestock profits.

Dole is running for Senate reelection against Rep. Bill Roy, D-Kan., in what observers in Kansas say is a tough campaign. An aide to Roy said his office has not received complaints from Kansas livestock producers but added that Roy may have run across them in his travels in the state.

Meantime, Rep. Peter A. Peyser, R-N.Y., introduced a bill this week in the House which would cut the $2 billion livestock loan authorization to $1 billion. Peyser, who represents a largely suburban district near New York City, led an unsuccessful floor fight against the bill in the House last summer.

Grain sale delay hurts Ohio farmers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— President Ford's delay of grain sales to the Soviet Union will mean another setback to Ohio farmers, according to an Ohio State University agricultural economist.

Dr. John W. Sharp, professor of agricultural economics and rural sociology at Ohio State University, said Ohio farmers now receive 50 per cent of their cash income from the sale of grains and are geared to produce to an export market.

"For the last 18 months, we have been in a true free-market situation with all the economies of the world, but now we are back into controlled agriculture," he said.

Sharp said he believes consumer demand prompted the Ford announcement last week.

"The object of the decision was to create the easing of the demand situation to depress consumer prices," he said. "The farmer just can't make it."

He said the reasoning behind the grain sale delay was that fulfilling grain sale agreements to the Soviet Union would deplete U.S. supplies and raise prices to consumers.

But, he estimated, 55 per cent of the soybean produce is earmarked for overseas markets, 65 to 75 per cent of the wheat and 30 per cent of the corn sold by farmers.

If farmers can export only when the government says they can, the government, in effect, is controlling grain prices through export restriction, he said.

The sales halt may give temporary relief to livestock, dairy and poultry feeders, but the overall effect will be a reduction of cash income to all Ohio farmers, he said.

"Soybeans are the largest single contributor to farm income (in Ohio)," the economist said, exceeding dairy and livestock.

He said that following Ford's announcement, Ohio farm prices dropped the daily limit— 20 cents a bushel—two straight days at the Chicago Board of Trade.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union plans to bar American newsmen from viewing the launching of Russian cosmonauts during next year's joint U.S.-Soviet space mission. But Russian newsmen will be welcome at Cape Canaveral for the liftoff of the American astronauts.

That policy has emerged from 18 months of negotiations during which Space Agency officials said the Soviets repeatedly rejected requests that they open their launch site at Baykonur to U.S. reporters.

But, the NASA officials said, aside from Baykonur, the Soviets have agreed to open up their space program as never before on this mission — providing the same type coverage characteristic of the U.S. program.

America has a completely open policy on its scientific and manned space projects.

The Russians have promised to provide live voice and television throughout their segment of the mission from liftoff to splashdown, something they've never done before. But reporters wishing to cover the flight in Russia will be restricted to a press site in downtown Moscow.

The Associated Press has protested the action on behalf of its members.

A document on press coverage of the Apollo-Soyuz flight will be signed later this month by James C. Fletcher, administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, and officials of the Soviet Academy of Sciences.

It will not specifically state that American newsmen can't go to Baykonur, but will say that each country can accredit whom it wants at the launch site.

Kissinger continues peace mission

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Secretary of State Henry Kissinger arrived from Egypt today on the second leg of his latest Middle East peace mission. He was preceded by a bomb blast in an American office and denunciations by Palestinian guerrillas.

The secretary's arrival was delayed half an hour by an accidental discharge of a submachine gun aboard his U.S. Air Force jetliner. A Secret Service agent suffered minor wounds in the scalp and right forearm.

The incident occured when the Israeli-made weapon toppled from a rack in the rear of the plane as it taxied at Cairo airport. Kissinger hurried to the front cabin as the wounded agent, Walter Boche of Alexandria, Va., called out: "Don't worry about me. Check the secretary."

Kissinger was met at the Damascus airport by Syrian Foreign Minister Abdul Halim Khaddam. He was scheduled for talks with Khaddam and Syrian President Hafez Assad before moving on to Jordan tonight.

Seventeen hours earlier, a bomb destroyed the offices of the National Cash Register Co., killing a Syrian woman employe and wounding another.

In Beirut, the guerrilla news agency WAFA said Kissinger's hands were stained with the blood of crimes committed in Chile, Cyprus and Indochina. "He is coming to the Mideast with a new crime, supplying Israel with $5 billion of aid," WAFA said.

Kissinger arrived from Cairo "encouraged" by President Anwar Sadat of Egypt on the prospects of restarting Arab-Israeli peace talks, but without a firm agreement.

The American secretary, on his sixth Middle East peace mission since the October war a year ago, indicated Thursday night after a 2½-hour session with Sadat that the opposing sides remain far from agreement on peace negotiations.

Local man fined after changing plea

John L. Penrod, 22, of 202 W. Oak St., had been charged with possession of marijuana. He withdrew a request for a jury trial in the case Oct. 1.

Acting Judge John P. Case fined Penrod $200 and 30 days in jail Thursday after the change of plea. One-hundred dollars and the jail sentence was suspended pending one year good conduct.

Debbie Oyer, 66 Lincoln St., Bloomingburg, was fined $100 and restitution of a bad check passed at Seaway, CCC Highway-W Thursday by Judge Case.

A 30-day jail sentence was suspended on one year good conduct. Ms. Over pleaded guilty to the charge.

Charles Curnutt, 35, of 620½ N. North St., was fined $50 Thursday after pleading innocent to a charge of assault.

Emrum W. Lynch, 56, of 717 N. North St. pleaded innocent to a charge of leaving the scene of an accident and was fined $50 by Judge Case Thursday.

Bomb threat investigated

A bomb threat was phoned into the Washington C. H. Fire Department at 2 p.m. Thursday, but it was not a threat on the department.

The anonymous called reported a bomb at Mac Tool Inc., but did not indicate whether it was the Washington C. H. plant or the one in Sabina.

Deputy quits post to operate bakery

Fayette County Sheriff Donald L. Thompson announced today that deputy Gary Sword will be leaving the Fayette County Sheriff's Department November 1.

Sword, who has served in the department's jail and communications division since December 1, 1971, has submitted his resignation and is planning to enter a private business venture.

Sword and his wife, Darlene, who reside on CCC Highway-E, have purchased the Henry's Pastry Shop, 317 S. Main St., from Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Kelley and plan to continue the shop's operation under that name.

In a formal letter of resignation to Sheriff Thompson, Sword expressed his appreciation for the opportunity to serve in the department and especially the chance to serve the people of Fayette County. He stressed the nedd for professionalism in law enforcement and felt the chance to serve in the local agency has given him a special advantage in his forthcoming business venture.

GARY SWORD

Sheriff Thompson said that Sword "has been an exceptional officer and that no replacement has been made in the position at this time."

Girl bitten by rabid dog critical

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP)—A 6-year-old Navajo-Sioux girl bitten by a rabid dog while visiting her grandmother two weeks ago in Window Rock, Ariz., was in 'critical, fairly stable' condition Thursday.

Kathy Roubideaux of Mission, S.D., admitted early Monday to Bernalillo County Medical Center with a confirmed case of rabies, was experiencing "some breathing difficulties, but it does not appear to be serious at this time," said BCMC administrator Fred Mondragon.

"We are monitoring her very carefully, and we have respirators to take over breathing," he said.

Mondragon said the breathing difficulties developed Thursday morning.

After her illness was confirmed, Dr. Michael Hattwick of the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, Ga., flew here Tuesday to oversee Kathy's care.

Hattwick treated the only known rabies survivor in the United States — a boy in Ohio.

Restored hideaway ready for rentals

Ohioans now have an opportunity to spend up to two weeks in a former President's hideaway.

Natural Resources director William B. Nye today announced that reservations are being accepted at Deer Creek State Park in Fayette and Pickaway counties for rental of the recently-restored "Hardin Cabin."

The one and a half story cabin was constructed at the close of World War I by Harry M. Daugherty, a Washington C. H. native and U.S. Attorney General under President Warren G. Harding.

THE CABIN, built on the banks of Deer Creek about 15 miles northeast of Washington C. H., was said to be a secluded gathering place for friends and supporters of Harding. It popped into the national limelight after scandals were uncovered during and after Harding's term.

The Ohio Department of Natural Resources began renovating the structure in the fall of 1972 to save it from being razed by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and preserve a unique legacy of Ohio and national history.

The Corps built a dam and created a lake on Deer Creek between 1965 and 1968 as a flood control project, and later cooperated with Department of Natural Resources in developing recreational facilities for the 7,006-acre Deer Creek State Park.

The Harding Cabin will rent for $210 a week, $40 for one day or $30 a day for two or more days. It can be rented by the week or day during the off season, but only by the week — with a maximum of two weeks — between Memorial Day and Labor Day. The cabin is equipped to sleep seven people, but can sleep as many as 10 if folding cots are used.

Reservations may be made up to a year in advance by writing to Deer Creek State Park, Rt. 1, Mt. Sterling, or calling the park at (614) 869-2124. A reservation deposit of $20 is required. The rental week will extend from 4 p.m. Saturday to 10 a.m. the next Saturday.

Nye said the $42,120 renovation did not change the basic structure of the 35 by 50-foot cabin or the layout of the rooms. New furniture, furnishings and equipment have been installed at an additional cost of $7,611.

The dining room has a cathedral ceiling, allowing a striking view of the room from a balcony adjacent to the upstairs bedrooms, he said. The rustic living room, complete with stone fireplace, is next to the dining room and just under two of the three bedrooms.

Behind the living room is a kitchen and bathroom. The cabin also has a basement and a 50-foot back porch with a view of the lake.

Nye said the renovation included new cedar siding on the outside walls, cedar shingles for the roof and insulation to make the cabin ready for winter accommodations.

New interior oak floors and red oak paneling were installed, he explained. The original stone fireplace was repaired, and the massive wooden beams were refinished.

"The new wood we added inside and outside not only preserved the rustic mood of the cabin but also assured years of maintenance-free usage because of its quality," Nye said.

To make cabin vacations more comfortable, the kitchen was completely refurbished with all new cabinets, an electric range, a refrigerator and a dishwasher. The bathroom also was modernized.

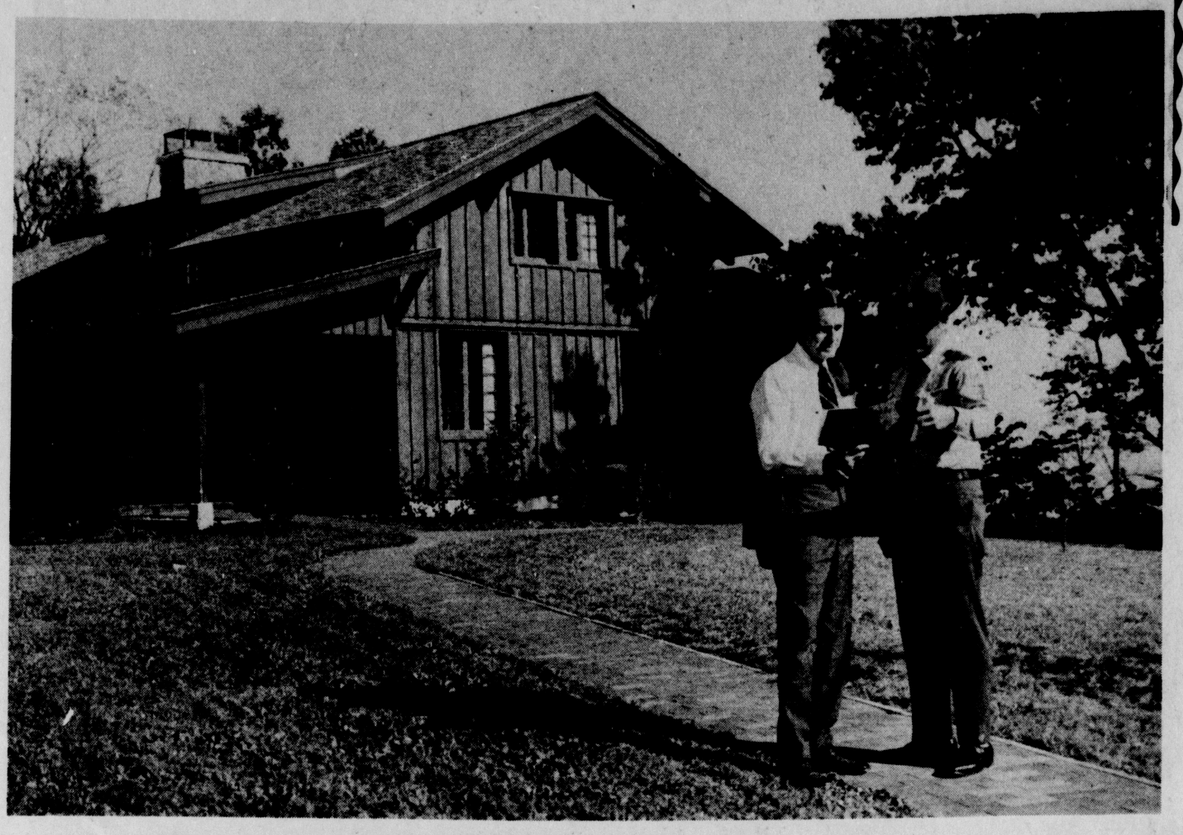

NEW HEATING and air conditioning equipment was added to make the cabin comfortable year-round for visitors. Completely new plumbing and electrical equipment was installed for the safety and convenience of guests.

Quality furniture, draperies and other interior accessories were selected to enhance the provincial atmosphere, Nye explained.

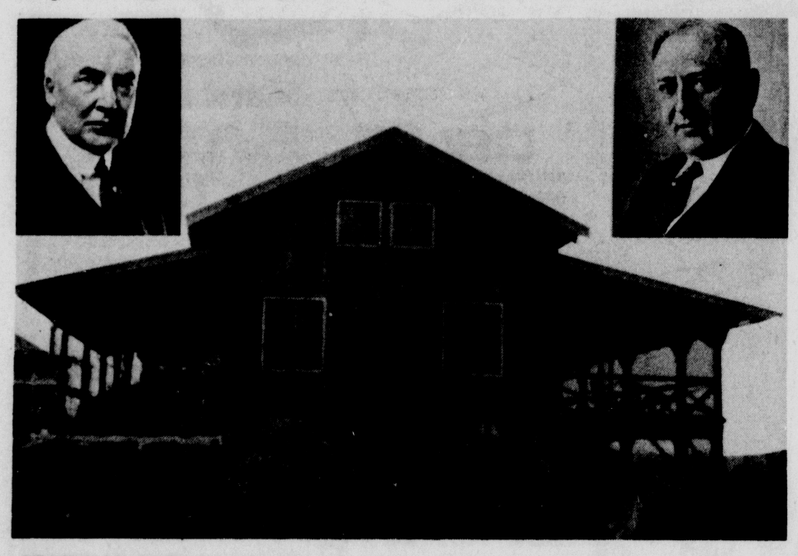

Seven persons can sleep comfortably in the cabin. The main bedroom has a double bed and a single bed, each of the two smaller bedrooms has a single bed and a couch in the living room converts to a queen-size bed.

Deer Creek State Park also has a 1,700-foot sand beach with bathhouse and concession stand, boat launching ramps, picnic areas and 232 Class A campsites.

CABIN RESTORED — The Hardin Cabin, now part of the 7,006-acre Deer Creek State Park in Fayette and Pickaway counties, has been carefully restored to retain the rustic flavor of its past. However, the cabin now boasts a completely modern kitchen and bath as well as a new heating and air conditioning system to assure year-round comfort for guests. Natural Resources Director William B. Nye (left) discusses details of the renovation project with park manager Roger O'Dell.

CONNEAUT, Ohio (AP)—A retiree who has heart trouble and a widow who has been living on $996 a year from Social Security are among those who got heart balm from Thursday's Ohio Lottery drawing.

Frank P. McNellie, 65, of Geneva was the big winner, hitting the $300,000 top prize in the Buckeye 300 drawing.

McNellie said he won't do much celebrating right now because of his heart condition but may do a little traveling later.

Because of the heart troubles, McNellie retired five years ago from his job as an automobile service manager. He said he and his wife, Rose, have been living on his Social Security and her salary as an automobile title clerk in Painesville.

McNellie said their six children also will share in the winnings.

He said he had made no plans in advance for spending the $300,000 because "I never count my eggs before they are hatched."

"I never won anything before," he said, adding that when he won the $15,000 prize, "I thought that was as far as it would go.

"I didn't think a person could be that lucky."

He was one of eight persons who went into the Buckeye 300 drawing assured of winning $15,000.

William Chisley of Cincinnati won $60,000, and Clara T. Miller of Ottawa won $30,000.

Mrs. Miller, a widow with three sons, has been living on Social Security checks totaling $996 a year.

The five $15,000 winners included Neil Coonrad of Monroeville, Ind.; Harry G. Hansen, Fairview Park; Edward Kurtz, Elyria; Martha Rosengarten, Covington, and Pasquale Cassano of Cleveland.

Fourteen more contestants were picked for the lottery's first millionaire drawing Oct. 27.

That brings to 58 the number eligible for the drawing for $1 million. A total of 100 contestants are to be picked.

Pollution alert called in Ohio

By The Associated Press

Steubenville and surrounding counties remained under an air pollution alert today as a stagnant air mass trapped a mixture of sulfur dioxide and particulants over the area.

The pollution index reading for the 24 hours prior to 5 a.m. Thursday was 296. An alert is declared by the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency when the index reaches 200, and a warning begins at 300.

At each stage industries are asked to curtail certain pollution-causing operations.

The alert was in effect for Jefferson, Columbiana, Belmont and Monroe counties.

Fayette County voters will be deciding the fate of six local issues when they go to the polls during the November 5 general election.

Perhaps the most controversial among the six issues to be decided is the 1.25 per cent income tax proposed by members of Washington C. H. City Council.

CITY COUNCIL members have proposed to reduce property taxes by 4.30 mills in exchange for the 1.25 per cent income tax.

City officials expect the 1.25 per cent income tax, if approved by Washington C. H. voters on November 5, to raise $551,357.66. The city solons have said 34.35 per cent ($160,493.20) of the additional revenue raised through the income tax will be used as relief from existing property taxes which will be eliminated.

Ten per cent ($55,200) of the additional income tax funds will be used to defray all costs of collecting the taxes and the cost of administering and enforcing the provisions of the ordinance.

Forty per cent of the proposed income tax would go to the general fund, 20 per cent to police, 20 per cent to the fire department and 20 per cent for street maintenance.

Officials feel a reduction of property tax would provide financial relief for those Washington C. H. residents on fixed incomes.

The last city income tax ordinance, which placed into effect a one per cent tax on personal income and net profits of business and industry on April 1, 1971, was challenged and beaten by an initiative petition which called for the repeal of the tax.

Washington C. H. voters turned down the city's income tax in the November 1971 election by casting a 58 per cent majority for the repeal of the ordinance. The vote was 2,360-1,655 and only one city precinct favored retaining the tax.

School officials expect the three-mill operating levy to generate approximately $210,000 annually. The proposed junior high school bond issue would yield nearly $2,250,000 with the debt to be retired over a 22-year period.

APPROXIMATELY two-thirds of the new income generated by the additional operating levy would be used for salary increases and related expenses for teachers in the Miami Trace School District.

The proposed new junior high school building is expected to cost about $2 million to construct. The additional $250,000 raised by the 2.49-mill bond issue would be spent on the repair and meaintenance of existing buildings in the district.

crowded conditions in many buildings, forcing use of storage rooms and basements as classrooms and causing transportation problems in an attempt to balance class loads, and poor overall conditions of elementary and junior high buildings in the system.

The Fayette County Board of Mental Retardation is seeking approval of a .65-mill additional tax levy to supplement its present .35-mill operating levy. The .65-mill is scheduled to expire in 1977.

The Fayette Progressive School, formerly situated in the Washington Junior High School building, recently relocated to the old Sunnyside Elementary School building on S. Fayette Street.

School officials have experienced increased costs in rent and utilities and enrollment has jumped from 23 to 41 pupils. The school has a 14-member staff.

The school hopes to launch an adult services program since Fayette County is one of four Ohio counties presently not offering adult classes.

The .35-mill levy produces 64 per cent of the school's $61,000 annual budget or approximately $37,000 per year. The school also receives tuition from the Washington C. H. and Miami Trace school districts at a rate of $38 per month per student and a $450 per pupil reimbursement from the state.

Members of Washington C. H. City Council and the Washington C. H. Area Chamber of Commerce board of directors have endorsed the Fayette Progressive School's levy request.

Fayette County voters will also be deciding a fire levy renewal and a question of the sale of spirituous liquor by the glass for a township.

JEFFERSON TOWNSHIP voters will be asked to decide a one-mill proposed tax levy for the renewal of fire protection services in that township. The one-mill tax levy will be for a five-year period.

POINT PLEASANT, W.Va. (AP) — Bursts of black powder peppered the air here Thursday for the bicentennial celebration of the Battle of Point Pleasant, considered by some West Virginians as the first battle of the American Revolution.

Traditional historians say the first battle of the Revolution was actually fought six months later at Lexington and Concord in Massachusetts.

But there are those, mostly local history buffs, who contend that the Indian Wars battle fought here was really the first military defiance of British rule.

A Virginia militia force of 1,000 men under the command of Col. Andrew Lewis defeated a similar size army of Indians led by Chief Cornstalk in the historic conflict.

Many decendants of those expansionist-minded Virginia militiamen still live in the surrounding Mason County area and were in attendance at the ceremonies.

"The battle waged here triggered the drama of gaining our national independence of the British crown," said Gov. Arch A. Moore Jr. at the dedication Thursday of the reconstructed Fort Randolph.

But he did not quite go all the way in declaring it the first Revolution battle.

While the ceremonies were going on, the names of the fallen Virginians were being read in the United State Senate.

Sen. Robert Griffin of Michigan, the minority whip, arranged for the reading in cooperation with West Virginia Sens. Jennings Randolph and Robert C. Byrd, both Democrats.

The reconstructed Fort Randolph was built at a cost of $99,000 for the bicentennial.

Wine rites called off

VEVAY, Ind. (AP) — Crowd control problems have forced the Vevay Town Board to abolish its popular Swiss Wine Festival.

The town board took the action after crowds of over 50,000 turned out for annual summer festival this year.

Board members, by a 2-1 vote, ruled that the town would permit "no more Swiss Wine Festivals or any festival of similar detail."

Festival organizers proposed a non-drinking festival, but local police officials said that proposal would be difficult to enforce.

Plans for another type of next August are to be discussed by the town board at a later date.

Lions, Panthers could break loose

Puzzling situation in SCOL

By LARRY WATTS
Record-Herald Sports Editor

Attempting to figure out the possibilities of this week's results on the South Central Ohio League race, would be like trying to work on a crossword puzzle.

One of the possibilities could leave Washington and Miami Trace breaking away from the pack and making this year's race for the SCOL crown a two team affair. Both the Lions, who play Wilmington, and Panthers, who travel to Circleville, are undefeated in league play. By handing losses to the Hurricane and Tigers, the remaining teams, except for the winner of the Greenfield and Unioto game, will have two losses in the league.

However, should Wilmington and Circleville each pull off victories, five SCOL teams will each have one loss. Then, the schools would be nearly back where they started from at the opening of the season.

Confused? There is also the possibility of what would happen if the Lions win and the Panthers lose or if the Lions lose and the Panthers win. Whatever the case, it is time to look at this week's slate.

WASHINGTON C.H. AT WILMINGTON

How much the Lions' offensive unit continues to improve and how well the defense of the Lions can contain Wilmington halfbacks Jackie Watson and Bob Scott could possibly decide the outcome of the contest.

Washington, the defending SCOL champion, is presently leading the league with a 2-0 mark and they are 4-1 for the season. The Hurricane are 1-1 in the SCOL and 3-2 for the year.

Watson and Scott are the headliners of the Wilmington offesnse. Watson has rushed for 504 yards and a 6.9 average in 73 carries. Scott has 226 yards in 34 carries for a 6.65 average per carry.

The effectiveness of Watson and Scott in the backfield is increased by the presence of fullback Russ Crosthwaite and quarterback Duane Earley. Crosthwaite is used on the power play up the middle, while Earley has proven himself to be a fine runner and an adequate passer.

Quarterback Jeff Brown will be heading the attack for the Lions. Brown leads the league in passing as he has connected on 21 of 41 passes for 381 yards.

Most of the Lions' running attack is supported by sophomore Leroy Wilson. In 91 carries, Wilson has chalked up 253 yards.

MIAMI TRACE AT CIRCLEVILLE

Both the Panthers and Tigers are fresh off impressive victories last week. Miami Trace powdered Hillsboro 50-6 and Circleville bested Wilmington 28-12.

Circleville is regarded as having the quickest team in the league. Last week, the Tigers' defense held Wilmington's Watson to just 36 yards in 12 carries.

Offensively, tailback Biff Bumgarner crashed into the top five rushing leaders with his performance last week. In the game against the Hurricane, Bumgarner toted the ball 28 times for 236 yards and four touchdowns. He now has 449 yards in 80 carries.

Fullback Jeff Sagar and quarterback Tom Riley have been pacing the Panthers' offense this year. Sagar, who has scored 50 points, has 564 yards in 87 carries. Riley has completed 21 of 42 passes for 261 yards and has carried the ball 61 times for 273 yards.

Miami Trace is presently 4-1 overall and 1-0 in the SCOL. Circleville is 3-2 overall and 1-1 in the league.

UNIOTO AT GREENFIELD

The loser of this match is expected to be knocked out of the league title picture. Both teams are carrying 1-1 marks in the league and are 3-2 for the season.

After gaining 424 yards in his first three games, Tiger tailback Gary Barr has been held to 61 and 85 yards, respectively, in his last two outings. However, Barr still leads the league in rushing with 570 yards in 148 carries.

Greenfield's defense, which has already recorded three shutouts, will be concentrating on the Shermans' Dan Anders and Bob Matson. Anders has 343 yards in 80 carries and Matson has toted the ball 53 times for 334 yards.

Last week, the Tigers met their first defeat in the league when the Lions gave them a taste of their own medicine with a 18-0 shutout. On the other hand, Unioto destroyed Westfall 35-8.

ADENA AT HILLSBORO

This week's non-league action finds the Warriors of the Scioto Valley Conference making the venture to the Indians' field. Adena is 3-2 for the year, while Hillsboro is 2-3 overall.

Since this is a non-league battle, Hillsboro is expected to be experimenting with some important changes in their offensive attack. After losing the first two league games, it is expected that quarterback Don Marsh will be seeing action at end this week, while Tyler Woods will be tried out as the signal caller.

Oklahoma favored over Texas

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

Awesome Oklahoma, winner of its last two games by an amazing combined score of 135-3, will seek to maintain that momentum Saturday against upset-minded Texas in one of the feature games on this weekend's college football schedule.

While top-rated Ohio State has the home field advantage Saturday for its Big Ten encounter with 13th-ranked Wisconsin, the No. 2 Oklahoma Sooners must travel to Dallas to take on the Texas Longhorns, rated 17th.

"They've really got an outstanding football team," said Texas Coach Darrell Royal, who has a 12-5 coaching record against the Sooners.

A Texas official said 150,000 tickets could have been sold for the 69th meeting of the schools, which will be played before a sellout crowd of 72,000 at the Cotton Bowl. The series began in 1900 and although Oklahoma has won the last three games, Texas leads 42-24-2 over-all.

Oklahoma, 3-0, has been established as a three-touchdown favorite, and a look at the national statistics explains why. The Sooners are No. 1 in scoring with 54.3 points per game; No. 1 in total offense with 584.3 yards per game; No. 1 in rushing offense with 488.3 yards per game; No. 2 in total defense, allowing just 165 yards per game, and No. 3 in scoring defense, giving up only 4.3 points per game.

Wisconsin is also an underdog as it goes against Ohio State, even though Wisconsin is coming off an impressive 59-20 romp over Missouri.

Tailback Archie Griffin leads the Ohio State attack. Griffin, a junior, gained 196 yards against Washington State, the 15th consecutive time he has passed the 100 mark.

In the only other game this weekend pairing teams in the top 20, No. 9 Texas Tech, 3-0-1, visits No. 16 Texas A&M, 3-1, in a nationally televised Southwest Conference clash.

The Aggies lost to Kansas 28-10 last week and dropped from ninth to 16th.

No. 3 Alabama, No. 4 Michigan, No. 5 Nebraska and No. 6 Notre Dame all have home games Saturday, and are rated as solid favorites. Alabama, 40, plays Florida State; Michigan, 4-0, takes on Michigan State; Nebraska, 3-1 opposes Missouri, and Notre Dame, 3-1, meets Rice.

Problems continue to plague WFL

by CRAIG AMMERMAN
AP Sports Writer

For those trying to keep up with the continuing serial of the infant World Football League, here's the latest:

—The league reduced itself to 10 playing teams Thursday by removing the Jacksonville and Detroit franchises from the remainder of the 1974 schedule, but not from the league itself.

—Two of the 10 playing teams called separate news conferences to deny what they called rumors that they would move to other cities.

—Two other WFL teams have already moved in this first troubled season, and yet another is being operated by the league, which is under a court order not to move the club.

Despite all that, WFL offcials claim the league's future is strong.

It did not appear that way Thursday.

The series of developments that began in Philadelphia were concluded late in the day in California when Commissioner Gary Davidson, who also created the World Hockey Association and American Basketball Association, announced that the Jacksonville and Detroit franchises were being removed from the 1974 schedule with five games to go.

But Davidson said the two teams, which between them have lost a reported $4 million, were not folding. He said plans to draft players from those two teams by the other franchises had been scrapped because "several potential investors have indicated that they wish to keep the teams intact for a fresh start next year."

Davidson also did not say if, when or whether Detroit and Jacksonville players would be paid, although he has previously said all contracts would be honored by the league. Players on both squads have gone weeks without getting a check.

Meanwhile, there were these other developments Thursday:

—In Orlando, the Florida Blazers, who originally were located in Washington, were protected by a court order from being moved by the league. However, the team, which is deeply in debt and has tried unsuccessfully to move to Atlanta, is being operated by the league.

—In Memphis, Leo Cahill, general manager of the Southmen, called a news conference to say, "I want to reiterate that we came to Memphis to play and stay and we are going to stay." The franchise originally was located in Toronto.

—In Philadelphia, John Blsaccob, president of the Bell, also called a news conference to announce his team was not leaving that city.

Davidson said scheduling problems created by removing Jacksonville and Detroit from the rest of 1974 would be solved by having the two teams which were to play those teams play each other instead.

And at the same time he announced that six of the league's 10 playing clubs would qualify for a post-season playoff series to be culminated by the championship game, called the World Bowl.

Hunter, Andrews take aim at Oakland's Charles Finley

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jim "Catfish" Hunter, it seems, has thrown a curve at Charles O. Finley, and Mike Andrews has thrown a high, hard one.

The Oakland A's owner may not be able to handle either pitch.

Finley, usually up to his baseball cap in controversy, hasn't even opened his mouth on the eve of the 1974 World Series — but still finds his foot in it.

Hunter, a 25-game winner this season while helping the A's capture the American League pennant, reportedly wants to leave the team after the World Series with the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Hunter, according to a newspaper story, claims that Finley has failed to pay half of his $100,000 salary for 1974.

Reached at a downtown Los Angeles hotel Thursday night, Hunter would neither confirm nor deny the report.

"I'm not saying anything at this time," Hunter said — or rather didn't say.

"I don't want to talk," he added.

Jim Bank, the A's traveling secretary, said he had "heard the story about Hunter ... but you'll have to talk to Mr. Finley about it."

Mr. Finley was unavailable for comment.

The Chicago Sun-Times' story said Hunter had notified Finley a month ago that he planned to become a free agent on Oct. 21, the day after the completion of the World Series, should it last seven games.

Hunter said he received $50,000 of his salary in the regular bi-weekly installments, but Finley refused to pay the remaining $50,000. He said he first asked Finley for payments two months ago and the Oakland owner has since failed to answer three letters.

The final letter a month ago said Hunter planned to declare himself a free agent.

Hunter could have declared himself a free agent 10 days after the first missed payment but delayed his action to participate in the American League playoffs and the World Series.

Meanwhile, No. 2 pitcher Ken Holtzman and No. 3 pitcher Vida Blue are also apparently not overjoyed with playing for Oakland.

Holtzman has said throughout most of the season that he plans to retire this year, and Blue, one-time ace of Finley's staff, was quoted as saying once: "The only time I'm happy here is when I get my paycheck."

Earlier Thursday, Andrews filed a $2.5 million suit in Alameda County Superior Court against Finley for defamation of character. He alleges that he has been held up to "public scorn, contempt, ridicule and disgrace" because of his treatment by Finley in last year's World Series.

Cowboys, Rams win junior high games

Thursday's junior high action at Miami Trace marked the battles of the unbeatens and the winless. The cowboys kept their perfect record alive after three games by handing the Browns their first defeat in a 28-20 encounter. The Rams won their first game of the season by nipping the winless Bengals 14-12.

Scott Grooms fired three touchdown passes in carrying the Cowboys to their victory. After Carl Riley opened the scoring with a 36-yard run, Grooms tossed a 63-yard touchdown pass to Mark Dunn for the second touchdown of the first period. In the second half, Grooms hit Dunn with a 51-yard scoring play and threw a 15-yard touchdown pass to Ken Kingery. Riley ran the conversion after the second and third touchdowns.

The Browns scored a touchdown in each of the first three periods. Ed Forsythe tallied with a one-yard run in the first period. In the second frame, Duerrell Neitz crossed the goal line from one yard away. Neitz scored from the same distance in the third quarter and Forsythe ran the conversion.

All of the scoring between the Bengals and Rams was done in the first half. A safety proved to be the difference in the game as all of the conversion attempts failed.

Todd Delay tossed a 45-yard touchdown pass to Walter Hart for the Rams' touchdown in the first period. Before the period was over, the Rams also collected two points on the safety. The scoring by the Rams was completed on a 16-yard run by Robbie James in the second stanza.

John St. Clair scored both of the Bengals' touchdowns in the first period. His first touchdown came on a 25-yard run and his second came on a one-yard plunge.

Lions capture third shutout

Backed by the offensive punch of Jeff Elliott and an outstanding defensive effort, Washington's freshman squad topped Wilmington 14-0, Thursday evening.

Elliott scored all 14 points for the Lions. With eight minutes remaining in the second quarter, Elliott scored his first touchdown on a 77-yard run. In the third frame, Elliott romped into the endzone from 48 yards away and also scored the conversion.

In 11 carries Elliott picked up 158 yards. He now has 551 yards in 34 carries for the season and he has also scored 72 points.

Freshman coach Don Gibbs said his defense turned in another outstanding effort. In recording a 3-0 mark, the Lions' defense has yet to be scored on. Gibbs went on to single out defensive end Doug Stewart, invert Terry Wilson and downlinemen Duane Six and Gary Huysman for tremendous efforts against the Hurricane.

Next Thursday, the Lions' frosh will be hosting Circleville.

Robinson's selection revives sad memories

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

NEW YORK (AP) — Selection of Frank Robinson last week as the first Negro manager in the major leagues revived sad memories of the black man's long struggle against racial bias on the diamond and restored some forgotten pages in baseball history.

"I am tired of reading that Jackie Robinson was the first black player to crash the major leagues," wrote an incensed buff from Phoenix, Ariz. "To put the record straight, Moses Fleet Walker was the first black to play major league baseball."

Joe Reichler, noted diamond historian and top aide to Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, acknowledges that there were three Negroes, including Walker, who played in the big leagues before 1900.

"To be technically correct, references to Jackie Robinson should identify him as the first black player in modern times," Reichler said.

The other two blacks credited with playing in the majors were Fleet Walker's kid brother, Weldy Walker, an outfielder, and a pitcher named George W. Stovey.

But Fleet Walker, a catcher, was certainly the most renowned and he occupies considerable space in the book "Only The Ball Was White" by Robert W. Peterson, a history of baseball's black pioneers.

Walker, born in Mt. Pleasant, Ohio, grew up in Oberlin, Ohio, a hotbed of Abolitionist sentiment and a stop on the Underground Railroad. He attended Oberlin College, studying mathematics, French, Greek, philosophy and other subjects. He was described as tall, slender, handsome and smart.

In 1883, he went into pro ball, joining a white team from Oberlin on the Toledo club of the Northwestern League. The next year Toledo entered the American Association, one of the then major leagues, and Fleet went with the franchise.

Fleet's kid brother, Weldy, got into the line-up in a series in Indianapolis when the Toledo team was shorthanded because of injuries. Stovey was the first outstanding black pitcher.

Fleet Walker was accepted by the white players but ran into problems when the team sought to play in Richmond and Louisville.

Before the Richmond series, he received a letter, warning, "We could mention the names of of 75 determined men who have sworn to mob Walker if he comes on the ground in a suit." There were similar threats from Louisville. Injuries kept Walker out of the line-up.

In 1901, John McGraw, then managing Baltimore, was impressed by one of the black bellboys at the team's training quarters in Hot Springs, Ark. The youngster's name was Charlie Grant.

McGraw renamed him Charlie Tokohama and sought to pass him off as full-blooded Cherokee. But Charlie Comiskey of the White Sox saw through the ruse and threatened to import a Chinaman. Thus ended Tokohama's major league career before it started.

Match play golf set

VIRGINIA WATER, England (AP) — American Jerry Heard went out on Wentworth's rainsoaked Burma Road course today in a bid to dent Gary Player's reputation as the world's match-play golf king.

The brilliant little South African is trying to win the Piccadilly World Match Play Championship for the sixth time in 11 years.

"He's the greatest match player I have ever seen and the fiercest competitor," said 22-year-old American Ben Crenshaw Player's first victim when the tournament started Thursday.

"He hit some great approaches and wedges, and his putting on these wet greens was tremendous.

"I think putting will be the deciding factor. If Player goes on sinking his putts he is going to be very difficult to beat."

All matches in the $72,000 elimination tournament are over 36 holes. Player beat Crenshaw 4 and 3, while Heard defeated Graham Marsh of Australia 4 and 2.

In the other first-round matches American Hale Irwin, the U.S. Open Champion, overcame Bob Charles of New Zealand 4 and 2, and Tony Jacklin crushed Peter Oosterhuis 7 and 6 in an all-British clash.

Slow starts don't faze Bengals

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Bengals may be slow getting started, but once they get moving it's Clockwork Orange.

Ranked third in National Football League scoring, the orange-clad Bengals offense hasn't scored a point in the first quarter.

"We're just a slow starting team," said defensive end Sherman White, "but once we get it all going we're tough."

White ventures the Bengals will have to repair that breakdown Sunday when they attempt to win their first game ever in Cleveland.

The Browns, 1-3, are off to one of their worst starts in years, but showed flashes of their former thunder when they built a 17-7 first quarter lead against Oakland, before losing 40-24.

"It's just something that happens. I know this; we're busting our tails from the start in every game," said Brown, who has the Bengals off to one of the fastest starts in their seven-year history.

"You do things early in the game to test out their defensive strategy. When you have complete knowledge of their defensive game plan you direct your attack accordingly," said Walsh, who handles quarterbacks and receivers.

The results, after the first quarter, have been impressive.

The Bengals put together drives of 80 and 66 yards in the second and third quarter against San Diego, went 84, 88 and 75 against San Francisco and marched 84 against the defensive-minded Washington Redskins last week.

Ohio State, Miami face tough foes

Ohio State's unbeaten and untied Buckeyes, top-rated nationally for the last three weeks, entertain No. 13 Wisconsin in a battle of Big Ten coleaders.

Miami, undefeated but once tied in its last 16 games, opens defense of its Mid-American crown, providing dangerous Ohio University's homecoming opposition.

Ohio State, 4-0 overall and 1-0 in the conference, will unleash its punishing ground attack centered around Archie Griffin against the Big Ten's leading passer, Gregg Bohlig of Wisconsin.

Griffin, the national rushing leader, has rushed for more than 100 yards in 14 straight regular season games.

Miami's Redskins, with only a 7-7 tie at Purdue marring their four-game record, hit the road for the fourth straight week. Ohio, 1-1 in the MAC, needs a victory to preserve its flickering title hopes.

Surprising Toledo can keep its MAC lead with a third league triumph at Western Michigan, 0-2. Kent State, 1-1 in the conference, visits Bowling Green, 1-1.

In other major Ohio action, Dayton, 2-3, tangles with host Western Kentucky, the nation's third-ranked college division power, and Cincinnati, 3-1, draws a night game at Memphis State.

The Ohio Conference has its heaviest league schedule of 1974, with three Red Division contests and a single game in the Blue Division.

Other Red Division games send Wooster to Heidelberg and Otterbein to Marietta. In the Blue Division, Denison plays at Ohio Wesleyan.

Among Hoosier-Buckeye pairings, Bluffton goes to Anderson in the afternoon and Defiance journeys to Wilmington at night. Findlay plays outside the conference at Grand Valley, Mich.

In the President's Conference, Hiram entertains Carnegie-Mellon and John Carroll does the same for Washington and Jefferson.

Elsewhere, Ashland is at Northwood, Mich., Tennessee Tech at Youngstown, Capital at Ohio Northern, Mount Union at Oberlin, Hillsdale at Wittenberg, Case Western Reserve at Kenyon and Central State at Kentucky State in day games.

At night, Northern Michigan is at Akron.

East taking on power roll

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

Remember when the National Football League East divisions were considered the "weak sisters?"

How times have changed.

Dallas and Washington still are considered powers, but St. Louis and Philadelphia are one-two in the National Conference East race.

And, in the American Conference East, New England boasts a perfect record after four weekends of play and Buffalo is a contender for post-season play. The division also includes the New York Jets and the Miami Dolphins.

Dallas takes its faltering show on the road to St. Louis to meet the undefeated Cardinals this Sunday, while New England travels to New York to meet the Jets.

In other Sunday clashes, Miami is at Washington, Houston goes to Minnesota to meet the unbeaten Vikings, Pittsburgh is at Kansas City, Los Angeles takes on Green Bay at Milwaukee, Oakland is at San Diego, Cincinnati travels to Cleveland, Buffalo takes on Baltimore, Chicago journeys to Atlanta, the New York Giants are at Philadelphia and New Orleans is at Denver.

The Monday night game will have San Francisco at Detroit.

The Dallas Cowboys, 1-3, have won only once in four outings and need to get started soon or else count themselves out of another trip to the playoffs. St. Louis, 4-0, is off to its best start since 1966 when they won their first five games.

Philadelphia, continuing its drive towards respectibility, takes on a stumbling Giants team that is having, among other things, injury problems. The Eagles have captured their last three outings following an opening game defeat.

The Giants are 1-3 and have four starters who missed last week's game because of injuries.

New England, 4-0, has passer Jim Plunkett, averaging a touchdown for every nine passes, and running backs Sam Cunningham and Mack Herron. The Jets, 1-3, have passer Joe Namath and two changes in the defensive secondary that collapsed against the Miami Dolphins in the first half last week.

Quarterback changes will probably be made for the Pittsburgh-Kansas City contest. The Steelers, 2-1-1, may bench Joe Gilliam for Terry Bradshaw and Kansas City may go with veteran Len Dawson. Both Bradshaw and Dawson have been injured.

The Cincinnati-Cleveland clash is tradition, with Cincinnati, 3-1, appearing the stronger of the two. But Cleveland, 1-3, has a habit of winning the "Ohio Cup" battle.

O.J. Simpson has an injured leg that has hampered his running so far this year. But Buffalo, 3-1, has quarterback Joe Ferguson, the AFC's leading passer, and runner Jim Braxton, which is more than can be said for Baltimore, 0-4.

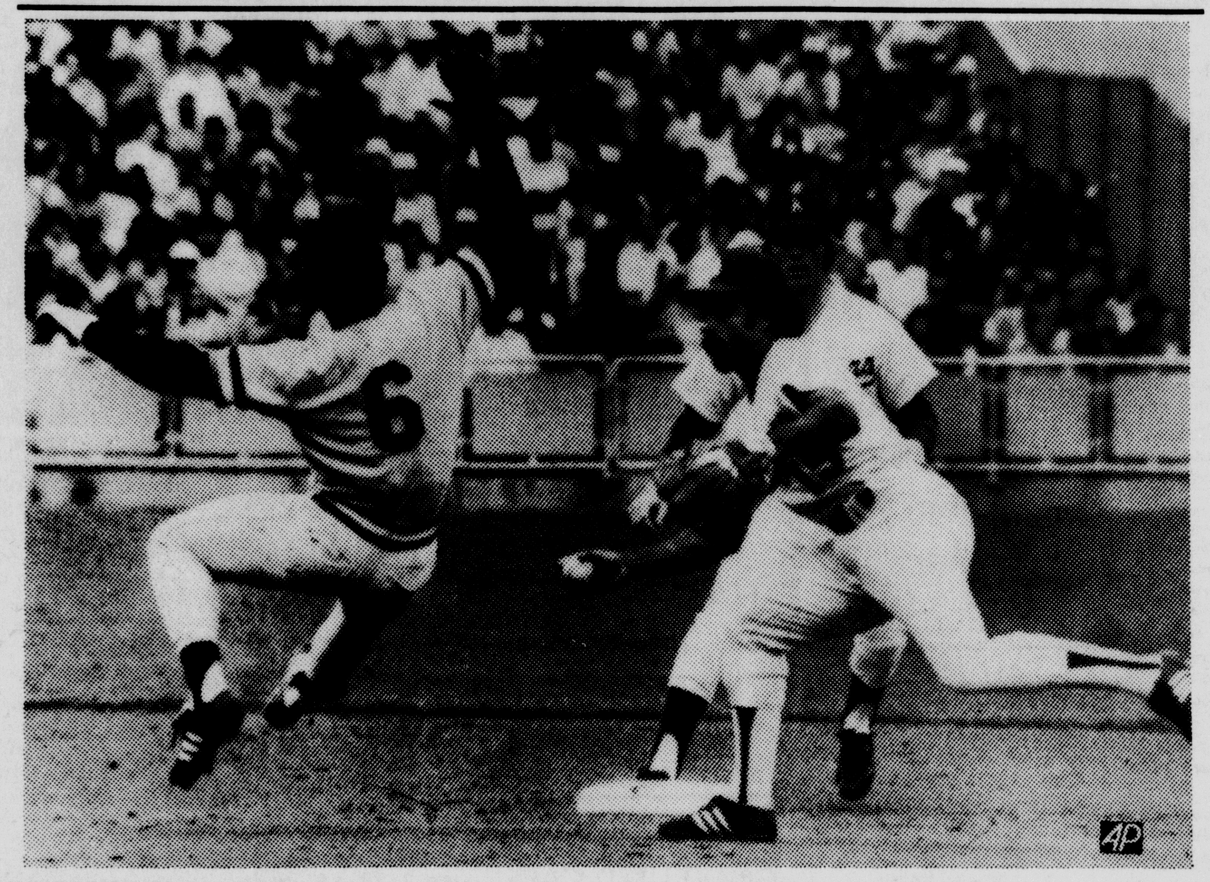

Washington, 2-2, will have Sonny Jurgensen calling the plays when the Redskins meet Miami, 3-1. Jurgensen will try to improve the Washington offense that has sputtered behind Billy Kilmer.

Another traditional clash sends Oakland, 3-1, to San Diego, 1-3. The Raiders are favored, but San Diego has found a potent offense.

Chicago, 2-2, is making noises like the Midway Monsters of old. With quarterback Gary Huff, rookie rusher Ken Grandberry and defensive lineman Wally Chambers, the Bears may hand Atlanta, 1-3, its fourth loss of the season. Another loss could be fatal to the career of Falcons Coach Norm Van Brocklin.

Dan Pastorini played last Sunday and may start this week for Houston, 1-3, along with rushers Vic Washington and Fred Willis. Minnesota, 4-0, doesn't have to try anyone new as Chuck Foreman has averaged 125 yards a game by rushing and receiving. He also leads the NFL in scoring.

TAKING A DIVE — Pittsburgh Pirates Rennie Stennett dives into second base to avoid tag by Los Angles Dodgers Davey Lopes in the first inning of the third game of the National League playoffs in Los Angeles. The Pirates had a five-run first inning as they went on to shutout the Dodgers 7-0 and to keep the Pirates alive in the playoffs.

Regatta set for Sunday

MADISON, Ind. (AP) — As many as 15 thunderboats may take part in Sunday's Madison Regatta, postponed from its traditional early summer running by April's devastating tornadoes.

The event, originally scheduled for July, was first canceled and later rescheduled in order to give the hard-hit Madison area a chance to begin rebuilding from the tornadoes that claimed 48 lives in Indiana.

Regatta officials say interest in the three-day program, which began with qualifying on the 2½-mile Ohio River course today, has been heavier than in past years.

A smooth river and cool weather could provide ideal conditions for records, and upwards of 100,000 persons may be on hand, covering the banks on both the Indiana and Ohio sides of the river.

Racing heats of 15 miles will be run through Saturday afternoon to select the field for Sunday's Indiana Governor's Cup race.

Defending champion Pay 'N Pak, driven by George Henley of Eatonville, Wash., already has wrapped up the 1974 national championship in unlimited hydroplane racing and is a heavy favorite to win here again.

Mileti offers sale of Cleveland arena

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— Cleveland sports promoter Nick Mileti has offered to sell the Arena to the Cleveland school system for $3 million for use as an athletic center.

School Board President Arnold Pinkney said Thursday the offer has been sent to the board's recreation committee and a report is expected by Oct. 24.

REAL ESTATE

WHAS-AT NOISE?

The crickets crick and the tweety birds tweet on this nearly 7 acre country estate. You can hear them from your spacious ranch style home. It has three bedrooms, each with plenty of closets; two baths (one off master bedroom); large 13 x 22 living room; formal 12 x 12 dining room; modern kitchen with built-in range, twin self-cleaning ovens, dishwasher, and disposal and dinette area; 12½ x 21½ family room with woodburning fireplace; utility room; and office. You will appreciate the two car garage and the large barn. There is also a 20 ft. swimming pool. Most all the rooms are carpeted and the home has electric hot water heat.

Here is a fine home, only four years old, that will please most any buyer, and it is in great shape.

Three drivers charged in area auto mishaps

"Failure to yield right of way" caused three accidents Thursday, Washington C.H. police officers and Fayette County Sheriff's deputies reported. The three drivers involved were cited for the offense, but their accidents caused no reported injuries.

An accident involving cars driven by Lucinda M. Sagar, 43, of 116 Gardner Court and John W. Briggs, 74, of 331 Western Ave., occurred at the intersection of Hinde and Elm streets at 8:10 a.m. Thursday, police reported.

Briggs was charged with failure to yield right of way.

Severe damage was incurred by cars driven by Peggy J. Breakfield, 22, Johanne Drive and Albert A. Penwell, 28, New Holland, when they became involved in an accident at the intersection of U.S. 22 and Stuckey Road, at 4:46 p.m. Thursday, sheriff's deputies reported.

Neither person sustained injury from the mishap.

A car driven by Judson Bost, 57, Chillicothe and a car driven by Timothy L. Easton, 23, Rushsylvania, Pa., collided at the intersection of Ohio 207 and Cook-Yankeetown Road, at 4:10 p.m. Thursday.

Bost, who was cited by sheriff's deputies for failure to yield right of way, showed visible signs of injury at the accident scene, but was not treated according to hospital officials.

A truck pulling a tractor on a flatbed trailer, driven by Gary N. Webb, 33, of 4818 Ohio Rt. 207, was struck by a car driven by Rebecca J. Barrett, 23, Bloomingburg, at the intersection of West Road and U.S. 62, at 4:05 p.m. Thursday.

Sheriff's deputies cited Ms Barrett for failure to yield right of way and reported the trailer the Webb truck was pulling was owned by Charles Bliss of Mount Sterling. It was slightly damaged in the mishap.

Polish leader tours in U.S.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Edward Gierek, the first secretary of the Central Committee of the Polish Workers' Party, was due in Pittsburgh today as the guest of the University of Pittsburgh.

On a tour of U.S. cities to encourage trade and cultural exchanges, Gierek, the highest ranking Polish political officer, was then scheduled to go onto Ohio to visit a coal mine.

He was in Washington earlier this week to meet with President Ford and congressional leaders.

Police probe theft

The Fayette County Coon Hunter's Association is $742.93 poorer than it was Wednesday.

Phillip Arnett, 834 Rawlings St., treasurer of the organization, was in the process of taking the money to the bank, when he parked his car in the city parking lot at the corner of Main and East streets and left the money in an envelope under the sun visor.

Washington C. H. police reported when he returned to his unlocked auto to get the money and make the bank run, it was gone.

The theft occurred sometime between 12:40 p.m. and 12:50 p.m. Thursday and police are investigating.

Washington C. H. police are presently investigating two other larcenies and reported an ill person in their offense reports today.

A purse containing $78, belonging to Karen Potter, 228 Water St., had the money removed sometime around 5:30 p.m. Friday, police reported.

The purse had been in her home when the theft occurred.

Gasoline from a car owned by Wilma Roberts, 617 S. Elm St., was siphoned from her auto, while it was parked at the rear of her residence at 11:30 p.m. Wednesday, police reported.

Fifteen gallons of gas valued at $8.10 were removed from the car's tank.

Mrs. Gerald Mustard, 20, of 115½ E. Court St., was taken to Fayette Memorial Hospital by Gerstner-Kinzer ambulance service, where she was treated for abdominal pain and headache at 6:10 p.m. Thursday, police reported.

may have forgotten some of the vocabulary. But speaking Spanish on a daily basis will probably bring any lost words back to her memory quickly.

Marsha, who did her student teaching in Switzerland, said she is hoping she will be able to construct her own teaching program in Venezuela as she did in Europe.

"I was the first physical education student teacher while I was in Switzerland, so they allowed me to create anything I wanted, including my own curriculum. It was a real challenge for me.

"I hope to be able to use my own creative ideas in Venezuela as well. I may have to chop down a tree to use as a balance beam, but it will definitely be a challenge."

Marsha's main goal is to establish an international school somewhere abroad or start a summer camp of her own program in the United States.

The three-year member of the Kent State swimming team, she also hopes to be able to go with the Venezuela swim team to the Olympics at Montreal in 1976.

Lately, she has been spending any free moments on studying the country. She responded spontaneously when asked what the country is most noted for.

"It is the third largest oil producing country in the world next to the United States and U.S.S.R. Its main exports are coffee and cocoa and there is quite a distinct difference between the two classes of people — the very rich and the poverty-stricken.

"I know I'll have to adapt a lot because in some parts of the country, there is electricity only from 5-10 at night and no running water. The little conveniences we take for granted are not even over there," she said.

"And no matter how much I read, there are going to be many cultural differences and customs I won't know until I go and find out."

WHAT DO her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Frazier, think of her living in another country for possibly two years or longer?

"They've just accepted the fact since I have traveled a lot already. They are really happy for me because I am able to do these things while I'm still young before I settle down," she added.

However, the largest adjustment Marsha said she will have to get used to will be the change of climate — "It will be spring there and I haven't even seen winter yet," she exclaimed.

Gilmore issued permits for 21 new residences

The Union Township Zoning Commission has issued 25 building permits during the past month, according to board secretary Alfred L. Lininger.

Twenty-one new building permits have been issued to Jess Gilmore, of Gilmore Homes, Inc., for a housing development, north of Washington C.H.

The 21 new homes, estimated at $441,000, will be constructed in the Culpepper Subdivision No. 3, off Ohio 41-N.

Other building permits issued were Harry Chakeres, CCC Highway-E, pole shed, $3,000; David Seymour, 1430 Pearl St., garage, $2,000; Kenneth Shaver, Washington-Waterloo Road, garage and family room, $3,500, and Elmer Madden, U.S. 22-E, car port, $250.
